Carnegie Quiet After Riot

Men Held in Battle in Which One is Dead and Many Hurt

Violence in White-Robed Mob Starts Wild Fight in Streets

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
CARNEGIE, Aug. 26.—Carnegie, suburb of this city, was quiet today following the rioting of last night in which one white-robed Klansman was killed, another man was wounded and an undetermined number of other persons injured. The rioting was precipitated by the arrest of Ku Klux Klansmen who paraded through the village of Carnegie after a spectacular initiation on a near-by hill.

Dr. Albert C. Ahasburg, who had set up a temporary office a few blocks from the scene of the fight, and Stephen Jarosz, a bystander, was seriously injured. Others of the wounded were Klansmen and rioters. A number were taken to hospitals but the number were hurried away by friends to avoid contact with the authorities.

Many were arrested while in automobiles to the klan headquarters and were fined $10 each in the Police Court today for carrying weapons. Six others were taken from the automobiles bearing the klan insignia to Pittsburg police after the men were given their liberty by county officers arrested

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania Is to Confer With Mine Workers; Washington Hopeful

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, with such official and other assistance as has been summoned or volunteered, prepared today to deal with the threatened suspension of anthracite mining. Mine union officials and coal operators' representatives who will confer with him tomorrow were all on their way to the State capital.

The Governor, as always during the interviews since he agreed with President Coolidge to make a final attempt to avert the industrial tie-up, said little today. He will greet the four leaders of the miners' union and the four members of the General Policy Committee of anthracite operators when they arrive at his office; make a brief address, detailing the circumstances, under which they will have been brought together and then proceed to discussion behind closed doors. What he will say to his visitors the Governor will not disclose until the meeting actually begins. He has at hand virtually unlimited quantities of statistical data bearing on anthracite.

POWERS LIMITED

Mine union officials who will attend the session are thought to be coming with the strictest limitation placed upon their power to act. John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, will not be present, and Philip Murray, its Vice-President, and Rinaldo Cappellini, C. J. Golden and Thomas Kennedy, the three anthracite district presidents, will arrive in Harrisburg only in time to enter the session. Observers of the union's proceedings consider that the call for a work suspension now

PORTLAND SHIPPING WRECKED

Liner Crashes With River Steamer; Barge Sunk, Bridge is Demolished

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 26.—The intercoastal liner Vinita early today crashed into the river steamer Hercules of the Shaver Transportation Company, in Portland Harbor, drove the Hercules into the barge "M. F.," which in turn was hurled into the east approach to the Burnside-street bridge over the Willamette River, wrecking it, and then, under the force of its momentum, collided with the entire fleet of river boats tied near by.

The ensuing crash seriously damaged the steamers Cascade and Tugecho and wrecked the large houseboat Mayflower. Peter Brown, an occupant of the houseboat, was seriously injured.

The barge M. F. was sunk, lying on the river bottom but partly out of the water; the Burnside bridge was damaged so that it was closed to traffic. It probably will not be reopened, as a new structure has been authorized, and it was to have been closed in another month. The accident occurred when the Vinita was attempting to berth at the Southern Pacific Dock here. A mistake in answering signals in the engineroom of the Vinita was said to be responsible for the crash. The Vinita had just arrived in the harbor from Gray's Harbor, Wash.

Battle Armada Is Sailing Today for California

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 26.—The United States battle fleet, which has been operating the last two months in Puget Sound waters, will sail tomorrow for California. Nine battle ships, twenty-four destroyers and other auxiliary vessels will assemble at Port Angeles at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon, and immediately thereafter will sail southward, under command of Vice-Admiral R. A. Wiley, who has moved his flag from the Maryland to the New Mexico.

Four days will be spent in tactical maneuvers between Port Angeles and San Francisco. The battleships Nevada and Idaho will proceed direct to San Pedro, while the remainder of the fleet will base at San Francisco for a time. Three battleships will be left temporarily at the Puget Sound Navy Yard, the California, the New York and the Mississippi. The California will join the fleet at San Pedro the middle of September.

Autos Continue to Take Heavy Toll in Chicago

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Despite more rigid regulations the appalling loss of life in automobile accidents continues to grow. So far this year has recorded one death for each nineteen accidents. These accidents average twenty-seven a day and the deaths approximate forty-three a month. According to the present rate, the year will show 516 killings within the city limits alone, not taking into account the large number on highways in Cook county, where the speeders and intoxicated drivers throw off all restraint and where the death list is heavy.

Up to the present there have been 6432 automobile accidents of sufficient severity to warrant calling the police and making an official record. The increase in such accidents this year average 11 per cent.

SEARCH OPENS FOR VETERAN AND GIRL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NYACK (N. Y.) Aug. 26.—Authorities of Rockland county have requested the aid of New York City and State police in the search for George McDonald, a one-armed war veteran, 30 years of age, who disappeared from Starkill near Nyack last Thursday, taking with him Anna May Post, 14, student of the fashionable Dwight School.

The girl's mother, a widow of considerable wealth, is distracted. She insists that the girl did not leave voluntarily, but was abducted. McDonald, despite his war record, is not liked in the village. He is a taxi-driver and is under suspended sentence for assault upon a youth named Scott, who became demented after McDonald struck him on the head. Police are working on the theory that McDonald took the girl in his car to Boston where his uncle is a well known doctor.

Play Produced in Private Home

Reinhardt Puts Aside Ornate Setting for Simplicity of Own House

Americans and Titled Heads of Europe Gather to Test New Theory

BY ALEXANDER KONTA
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SALZBURG (Germany) Aug. 26.—Max Reinhardt's dress rehearsal of "Der Einge Blidete Ranke" was a unique and memorable dramatic occasion.

"When the idea was suggested that the rehearsal be given in my residence and that the available number of guests be limited to sixty, I fell in with it gladly," the great theatrical producer said. "Then my troubles began."

Every incoming train brought new people to Salzburg with titles and other credentials, for word had gone round the capitals of Europe that this particular Reinhardt plan would never happen again. The original list of sixty guests swelled to nearly 200, representing the theatrical, literary and social worlds of America and Europe.

Prof. Reinhardt led his guests into the splendid marble hall of state in his Schloss where the performance was to take place. The guests quickly settled in front of the huge fireplace, where logs waited to be lighted. Near the fireplace were a few chairs and a table. It was difficult for the audience to realize that a dramatic performance was to be given for the usual stage setting was absent.

It became slowly evident, however, that the absence of such settings was intentional for the actual setting was the hall with its majestic heights, its wonderful paintings and tapestries, its huge log fire, its brilliant candelabra and—the audience itself.

CLOSE INTIMACY

A production in the times—that was the idea—at which the actors could be closely in touch with their listeners and in which each listener could feel he was an intimate sharer in the story unfolded before him.

The famous German comedian Pallenberg, in certain places made his points which Coquelin, with his inimitable grace, rarely found need to use. Nevertheless he was master of the role. Lully's music played by a band of costumed musicians in the balcony high above the heads of the audience was directed by Einar Neilson.

As for Reinhardt—well, it was Reinhardt in nearly every bit of business, in the grouping, the skillful use of side doors for exits and entrances, colloquies in the ante chambers (heard by the audience) pillow fights, make-ups and everything that lent a verisimilitude to the performance.

TESTS IDEA

But it was a Reinhardt with a new idea. All present interested in the evolution of dramatic art and technique felt this as the play went on. Reinhardt was proving a theory—that the best effects can be gained by simplicity—by bringing the players into close touch with the audience and without the distraction of scenery, Reinhardt got his effect.

After the performance he conversed with me regarding his coming season in America.

"As you know," he said, "I was in New York for some weeks last spring and had a brief chance to study the drama there. I came home with the belief the American people have an absorbing love for the best producers can give them. That taste for good dramatic work is far greater than they are sometimes credited with.

"My first production will be 'The Miracle,' which has been selected not because it best expresses my ideas or is the drama I like best, but because it is perhaps the best known of my productions, and owing to its success in London prob-

Coolidge Determines Not to Get Country Mixed Up in Europe's Troubles

No Credits Needed to Help, and Farmers Here Are Not Badly Off

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The more they quarrel in Europe the more remote grows that American participation in European affairs which most of Europe and various groups in this country are endeavoring to bring about.

To many observers here this seems a fair deduction from the attitude of the Coolidge administration, and that attitude the President believes is overwhelmingly approved by the American people.

The new President announced in general terms that he would carry out the policies of the late President Harding. Since Mr. Coolidge assumed the Presidency, however, there have been numerous changes in the European situation, chief of which is the threatened rupture of the Anglo-French entente, and the President has received the reports on European conditions submitted by Secretary Mellon and other administration observers abroad.

PRESIDENT DETERMINED

Mr. Coolidge therefore has had an opportunity to determine for himself whether circumstances have materialized which would warrant any departure from the policy he inherited. His decision, as authoritatively disclosed at the White House, is that not only is there no warrant for any modification of the policy of non-entanglement, but that recent happenings in Europe have established beyond cavil the wisdom of that policy.

President Coolidge stands ready, as did his predecessor, to appoint an American representative to an international commission to survey the ability of Germany to pay reparations, provided Great Britain and France invite the United States to participate in such an undertaking. Secretary of State Hughes put forth this suggestion in his New Haven speech several months ago, and informally communicated it to the London and Paris governments.

Thereafter the Harding administration was roundly berated by the interventionists for not endeavoring to force the policy upon France, which had rejected the proposal. The defenders of the course now find a vindication in the rebuffs forwarded by England when the British government made to France the same proposal as the Hughes suggestion. We could not have succeeded where the ally of France failed, they say, and should only have become entangled in the European broil and burned our fingers for our pains.

The Harding administration manifested its disapproval of France's occupation of the Ruhr, one of the grounds being that the seizure was illegal. That is what Great Britain, ally of France, now calls the occupation in so many words.

While President Coolidge has pronounced against any modification of the Harding foreign policy, the interventionists are still pressing for cancellation of the war debts owed to the United States, for further extensions of credit to Europe, and for American participation in European affairs generally, including entry into the League of Nations.

Their efforts now are chiefly directed to enlisting the support of the farmers, who are being assured that their economic distress would be relieved as soon as the United States should enable Europe to buy more American grain and other agricultural products.

On the other hand we are assured by American officials returning from abroad that Europe needs no further credit or other economic assistance, that crops are

"PAY US OR WE STAY," POINCARE TELLS BERLIN

Premier Says Ruhr Occupation Is Only Repetition of What Germany Did in 1871

BY HENRY WALES
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Aug. 26.—"Pay us or we stay." This was Premier Poincare's reply to Chancellor Stresemann today in a speech in the little Lorraine village of Chazey of 200 inhabitants, dedicating a war monument.

"What we did fifty-three years ago," the Premier declared, referring to the payment of ransom to Germany by France in 1871, "our former enemies can at least try to do today. If not, they force us to execute on them what they menaced us with then—pay us or we stay."

Premier Poincare recalled to his hearers the history of the war of 1871, when Germany, without a devastated province, made France pay ransom in order to get the German troops out of the country. He drew another picture of "if Germany had won," pointing out the disaster every Allied country would have had to face in the way of "indemnities and annexations."

UNVEIL YANK MONUMENT

He culminated on the phrase which already—by newspaper reaction—seems adopted as France's watchword for the Ruhr—"pay us or we stay."

This afternoon the Premier went to Gendrecourt, another Lorraine village, notable in America's war history, where a monument to the American soldier dead was dedicated. After recalling the emotion aroused in him when, as President of the Republic, he reviewed the first lines of Gen. Pershing's troops, Premier Poincare said:

"In order to keep the peril they killed from ever being born again, in order that humanity, freed by them, might have recovered a certainty of peaceful labor, how infinitely desirable it would have been to keep this union, so closely maintained in the war, as an alliance for peace. The Treaty of Versailles justified us in thinking this result had been obtained, which would have guaranteed us reparations and security.

"The American Senate, in the plenitude of its powers, refused to ratify the work of the American President, and the United States, after giving Europe an unforgettable example of their nobility and precious military collaboration, retired upon themselves and did not embarrass themselves further in affairs in which they were not directly interested.

"But even though the United States retired its troops from the Rhine and kept only an observer on the Reparations Commission, they have not ceased to follow with the sympathy and formidable reconstruction work we have accomplished."

Terminating in moving an appeal for Franco-American friendship, the Premier said:

"A people which knows what it wants is always sure to keep America's affection. Moreover, the best way to be helped, not only by Heaven but by men, is to help yourself. This conviction has brought us into the Ruhr. Everything which happened before and since confirms us in the idea that we are right."

In his earlier speech at Chazey, Premier Poincare devoted an energetic passage to Chancellor Stresemann's attempt to put in doubt the value of Germany's previous payments of reparations.

"Chancellor Stresemann says the Washington Economic Institute—which I am unable to identify, and which does not figure in the Congressional directory, the only official annal of the Federal capital known to me—is the authority for the statement that Germany has made payments of 25,000,000,000 gold marks ($6,250,000,000) already. This is contrary to the official figures of the Reparations Commission, of which the secretary-general is English and the director of all bookkeeping and statistics is American."

The semi-official Temps, amplifying Premier Poincare's information, declares that Chancellor Stresemann's famous "Washington Economic Institute" really exists only on paper, consisting of two pro-German editors, and its German propaganda and reports "ornament American newspaper editors' waste-baskets." Chancellor Stresemann probably will regret before long, the Temps says, "that he ever searched for arguments in the waste-paper baskets of American newspapers."

OBSERVANCE IDEA LAUDED BY COOLIDGE

Approves Plan for Joint Celebration of Marne and Lafayette Day

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—President Coolidge, in a letter to the Lafayette Day National Committee, expresses gratification at plans calling for celebration on September 6 of Lafayette Day and the anniversary of the Battle of the Marne.

The letter, made public by the committee tonight, reads:

"The juncture, in the national celebration of Lafayette Day and the anniversary of the Battle of the Marne, is a particularly appealing and suggestive arrangement. Each event represented a milestone in the progress of freedom in this world and it seems more than a striking coincidence that they should have fallen on the same day of the year, though more than a century and a half apart. I am glad to know that there is prospect of an unusual widespread observance of this double anniversary this year."

The committee is bringing the President's message to the attention of Governors, Mayors and patriotic organizations whose co-operation has been invited.

The committee also has suggested that the tricolor of France which Lafayette designed be flown on his birthday with the Stars and Stripes under which he fought in the Continental Army and that statues and monuments of Lafayette be decorated with the colors of both flags.

Exercises will be conducted in many American cities with the principal ceremony at Governor's Island in New York Harbor.

VOICE FROM THE DEAD

Harding Letter Made Public

Plea for Editors to Seek End of War Released by Walter Wellman

Author Says Late President Told of Plan to Call World Congress

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A letter from Warren G. Harding, written June 15 exhorting American newspaper editors to use their power to end war and described as "the legacy of a newspaper man-President to the press of his country," was made public tonight by Walter Wellman, journalist and author.

In his letter sent through Mr. Wellman to the editors of American newspapers, Mr. Harding sounded the same note he struck when, gazing with misty eyes on the caskets of American dead borne back from the battlefields of Europe, he exclaimed, "It must not be again."

"I am informed," wrote Mr. Harding to his fellow editors, "that some of you are considering a plan to use the power of the great American newspaper press to ascertain the opinions of the people upon the problem of America's duty in world reorganization for the abolition of war, the reign of international law with tribunals, instead of battlefields as courts of last resort, and the creation of a system of international co-operation without supergovernment or encroachment upon the independence of any nation, designed permanently to preserve peace, neighborly relationships, economic stability and prosperity among all peoples of the world.

IMPRESSED WITH IDEA

"That this plan to elicit American opinion is to be participated in by newspapers of all sections of the country without regard to political affiliations and that no partisan purpose of any sort is to be sought by it; that the various vital phases of the problem are to be carefully and impartially presented to readers as aid in forming their judgment appeals to me strongly. I have long since become convinced that the United States should not and will not enter the much discussed League of Nations, but that conviction has not destroyed the hope that there may be found a way to world association and attending world understanding.

"With this plan to set the American people to thinking more strongly and clearly and expressing their conclusions concerning the international duty of our republic, I am in full sympathy; it is an admirable useful work and I hope you carry it to all the readers in the land. In my opinion this is a problem which the United States must soon meet with earnestness and courage and that it will be of great help to the government when it proceeds toward a practical solution of the problem to have a definite formation of public opinion to build and rely upon. I further believe that in this great task of helping to make the world safe for humanity, no political party should seek selfish advantage; that here should apply our old and most wholesale tradition that party rivalries stop at the edge of the high seas. Hence I shall be glad if the American press, ignoring partisanship, uses its great power to draw forth the best thought, heart and soul of our people. In such a crystallization will be read the decision of the republic."

TALKED TO HARDING

In making public the foregoing letter, which he described as an urgent appeal to newspapers of all parties to conduct a nation-wide non-partisan popular referendum as to America's international duty, the details of which he had discussed with the late President, Mr. Wellman asserted that had Mr. Harding lived, his plans and purposes he himself would have revealed when ready.

"But now," continued Mr. Wellman, "it is plainly my duty to him, to the people who loved him as a man regardless of their view on his policies, to make known what he told me of his determination to do all in his power to bring about a higher type of civilization, to banish war, to lift from all peo-

OMAHA BATTLES GERMS

Opens War on Typhoid Fever and Other Diseases, Due to Week Without Water Supply

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—Omaha today started its fight against typhoid fever and other diseases, which scientists say menace the city after its week without water. The breakdown of the water system was a tremendous inconvenience, but the specialists say the city is now threatened with a calamity in the form of epidemics of typhoid, dysentery and other germ diseases, due to the impurities carried through the water pipes last week.

"Don't use a drop of water that has not been boiled" is the slogan with which the health authorities are carrying on the fight against contagion.

BOIL WATER IS WARNING

"Boil your water" is the warning broadcast all over the city. It is in big letters in the newspapers; it sprawls over big billboards; it is tacked on telephone poles; peddlers carry it through the streets, and it flares from the sides of all moving vehicles.

These signs are printed not only in English, but in Polish, Bohemian, Italian, Lithuanian and Danish.

The churches, too, are in the movement, and today from practically every pulpit in the city the message was delivered to the congregations. By order of Archbishop Harty of the Omaha Diocese Catholic priests of foreign parishes particularly dwelt on the danger of contagion and carefully explained methods of prevention.

The local telephone company today placed 180 relief operators at the switchboards calling up 50,000 telephone subscribers throughout the city. In short, terse language, these operators told the subscribers to boil every drop of water in order to prevent an outbreak of disease. "By order of the Health Department" were the words that closed the brief telephone speech.

Health authorities today declared the old bank of mud and filth which has been accumulating for years above the intake to the city water plant was a veritable bed of disease germs. It was this mass of filth that the Missouri River cut away and swept into the city's water system. Ten days to two weeks must elapse, officials say, before danger of epidemic will have passed.

KILLING GERMS

Twenty million pounds of mud were pumped into the water mains every day during the past week.

FEAR REVOLUTION IN SPAIN

French Discuss Possibilities; Country is in Turmoil Over Strikes and Moor War

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Is Spain on the verge of a revolution? That question is being discussed in all influential political circles in France following dispatches from Madrid saying that the country is seething with political, economic and military unrest.

The serious disorders which already have taken place on the peninsula are considered mild by comparison with what probably will happen in that country where the population has reached almost the limit of its patience with a weak government which, contrary to popular demand, insists on continuing the war with Morocco where in the last three years disaster has followed disaster in the perhaps determined, but improperly conducted offensive campaigns.

MUTINY IS CITED

By far the most serious outbreak was the recent mutiny of a regiment of Spanish soldiers, which on the point of embarking at Malaga, refused to leave the country and fired on their officers, killing one and seriously wounding a score of others. The soldiers were finally forced to embark, but they did so vowing revenge.

From an economic standpoint the country is in a turmoil, numerous strikes have broken out in various regions, notably at Bilboa, one of the strongholds of Socialism where the sentiment threatens to develop into Communism. The miners there have been on strike for several days and a sympathetic strike has been declared by other unions.

Forces sent to check this strike were assailed by the strikers. In

CONVENTIONNAIRES AT EUREKA

Convention Will Elect Commander From Southland, According to Agreement

BY HENRY L. MARSHALL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EUREKA, Aug. 26.—Five hundred delegates from all parts of the state assembled here tonight with an equal number reported as coming over mountain highways and on trains and boats that will arrive during the next twenty-four hours. The fifth annual convention of the American Legion is this year to be conducted in the romantic setting of the days of '49. This pioneer town is ablaze with American Legion emblems and five United States destroyers are within easy access of docks.

Two special crews will participate in the welcome tomorrow to the Legion's defenders during the World War. The program during the week includes trips along the redwoods into the famous big tree country.

The Forty and Eight Society, auxiliary organization of the American Legion, has selected a number of forty thieves whose identity determined to elect Marshal Foch as a yet-to-be-created position in the organization. State Legion auxiliary heads are arranging programs in conjunction with the Legion.

Two facts revealed today through reports by State Adjutant Morgan Keaton gave the delegates reason for optimism concerning the future of the American Legion in California. An increase of 800 members in the State over the showing of last year at this time and a net profit of almost $2000 in the State treasury after an active year were pointed to as an encouraging outlook.

Among features of Monday's program will be an address by United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, receptions by Masonic bodies, Elks and Knights of Co-

SWISS ARE NOW WAR SUFFERERS

Aftermath of Conflict Hits Industries

Lean Trade Years Follow Period of Profit

Banks Still Prosper by Exchange Crash

[EXCLUSIVE FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE]

GENEVA, Aug. 26.—An American business man, who passed through Switzerland recently, commented on the economic straits in which Swiss business now finds itself.

"It is a shame," he said, "that the only country in Europe which had sense enough not to go to war should be dragged into the economic disorder of Europe and be forced to pay a price for the sins of her neighbors."

Since the days of Napoleon the Swiss nation has consistently avoided the complications of European politics, and, aided by the barrier of the Alps, maintained even during the last struggle the usual peace and industry of its artisan population.

Neither the national disposition toward peace nor the height of the Swiss Alps, however, are sufficient to exclude the economic disorders which have passed over all Europe, indifferent to barriers or frontiers. The very advantages of Switzerland have militated against her, for in the surrounding countries where the exchanges have either collapsed entirely, or sunk beneath the normal exchange, it is no longer possible for the people to buy Swiss goods.

A bar of Swiss milk-chocolate (admittedly the best chocolate in Europe) costs three times the value of a bar of French chocolate, if bought anywhere in France, and four times the cost of Italian chocolate purchased in Italy. In Germany or Austria the purchase of a bar of Swiss chocolate would consume a day's wages.

PROSPERED DURING WAR

Throughout the war Switzerland shrove as neutral countries always thrive in the presence of war, but in the economic collapse which succeeded the war the rest of Europe sank away from her, and left her high and dry among the peaks which mark her frontier. Of all her old markets, none are left except the Scandinavian countries, England and America. And of these the United States is largely cut off through the operation of the tariff. Swiss industry is therefore practically at a standstill.

The isolation is further accentuated by the nature of Swiss industry, which is not based upon the natural resources of the country, but upon the skillful workmanship of its artisan population. The chief products are watches, embroideries, silk, chocolate, cheese, aniline colors and machines. None of these products is indispensable to the surrounding countries, and most of them could be listed as luxuries.

Consequently, a bar of Swiss chocolate or a fine Swiss watch put on the market in France has a small chance of being sold. The fineness of Swiss workmanship is traditional in Europe. The manufacture of watches has been developed into a science and then into the finest of industrial arts. Nevertheless, the Swiss artist at his bench in Geneva is helpless if the world will not buy, and at present the world cannot buy against the normal exchange of Switzerland.

As a result, only about 25 per cent of the workmen in the watch industry are employed full time, the total exports for the first quarter of 1923 amounting to 40,000,000 francs (roughly $8,000,000.) In the chocolate, silk, tobacco and textile industries the number of workmen employed ranges between 24 and 28 per cent of the normal number required for full production.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS 30,228

Metal and machine industries are in a worse condition, with an employment figure of 5 per cent of the normal number. There is at present a total unemployment of 30,228, or, including those who have only part-time employment, 45,668. The figure is a large one for a small country, and is singular among national unemployment figures in that it represents skilled labor of the most expert sort, not day labor.

But with all the hard times which have come to the artisan population of Switzerland, there is one industry which has prospered above all others. In the flight of capital which took place with the fall of exchanges in surrounding countries, vast sums settled in the secure vaults of the Swiss banks, and the banking center of Geneva has been turned into a small Wall street.

The presence of capital in Switzerland is proved by the official banking discount rate of 3 per cent and a private rate of 2 per cent. The clearings of the Swiss National Bank for the month of May, 1923, are 973,910,000 francs (roughly $194,682,000,) with a gold reserve of 73.29 per cent.

The abnormal prosperity of the banking industry has been a source of strength to Switzerland during the economic isolation following the war. The soundness of private finance and the availability of capital have tended to counteract to some extent the disheartening state of other industries. Much building has been carried on privately and by the canton governments, the unemployment being thereby relieved.

The paradoxical situation of active and prosperous banking in a land suffering from industrial depression is due to the international character of Swiss banking. Money knows no frontiers, and the movement of capital from Germany, France and other surrounding countries to the safety of Switzerland's stable exchange brought prosperity to the financial interests and made them independent of industrial conditions.

This singular circumstance is an undisguised blessing to the country, for without financial stability Switzerland long ago might have faced panic.

KLANSMEN ARE FINED IN RIOT

Patrick McDermott, a Carnegie undertaker, in connection with the shooting of Abbott. They also sent to the Allegheny County Jail W. K. Flaherty and Joseph Joyce of Carnegie, upon charges of carrying concealed weapons.

KLAN VISITS HILL

Five hundred or more knights of the klan late today assembled on a hill overlooking Carnegie.

Chief Braun of the Allegheny county detective force immediately dispatched a deputy to the hill with orders to notify the klan leaders that a demonstration in the village would not be permitted and unless they dispersed before nightfall he would not be responsible for what might happen.

When the officer reached the hill he found a large number of persons there, but was assured that no klan meeting was contemplated. The klansmen said they simply were removing the paraphernalia taken to the hill for last night's demonstration.

Dr. H. W. Evans of Atlanta, imperial wizard of the Klan, who was the principal speaker at the demonstration, attended by Klansmen of the western Pennsylvania district, which preceded the march, issued a statement tonight in which he predicted the order would press for the punishment of those responsible for Abbott's death. He offered a reward of $2500 for their arrest and conviction.

The rioting came after the most spectacular meeting of Klansmen ever conducted in this section. Hundreds of automobiles began to arrive at the hill early Saturday evening and by 9 o'clock it was estimated that fully 25,000 persons had given the password and passed within the inclosure, scores of them women. The place was brilliantly illuminated with electric lights and after a large class had been initiated, Dr. Evans delivered an address. Several thousands of the Klansmen were then formed into line and marched down toward the village.

AUTO BLOCKS BRIDGE

The greatest excitement had marked the entire evening in Carnegie. The commanding position of the hill on which the Klan had gathered had aroused the entire countryside, and thousands of persons had poured in. They lined the principal streets and waited for hours for the parade to start. The greatest assemblage was where the line of march passed over Chartiers Creek, and just before the head of the parade had reached that point an automobile was drawn up across the bridge.

As the Klansmen wound off the hill, preceded by an automobile carrying three men and a woman, Carnegie policemen on the bridge ordered them to halt, saying the parade could not go any farther, as no permit had been given.

The Klansmen appeared at a loss just how to proceed when suddenly the fighting began. Some one tossed a bottle and then a few stones gathered from the railroad right of way near by and in spite of the efforts of the police, the crowds surged into the street. An American flag was torn from the leading automobile and the klansmen's ranks broke as they rushed forward. They fought their way on each side of the machine and down the street. There was a desultory shot or two, the combatants confining themselves to bottles, bricks and stones.

A county detective in the crowd made his way to the front and recovered the flag and the fight swept by him. Half a block further on, Abbott, a mine machinist, was shot and Klansmen quickly carried him into a physician's office near by. He died on the operating table.

KLANSMEN WOUNDED

Meanwhile a party of Klansmen had swept around the block through side streets and engaged the crowd farther in toward the business center. Four of their number were carried into a butcher shop where their wounds were attended by a doctor and they were hurried away by their friends. Many similar instances were reported to the authorities.

The greater number of Klansmen had remained in the road near the bridge, watching the fight in the street beyond. County officers pleaded with them to go back to the hill and in the course of half an hour order was given and they marched away. Soon they were in their automobiles homeward bound and before dawn broke the hill was deserted, while the crowd in the streets gradually melted.

County officers patrolled Carnegie all of today, but the streets were almost deserted until late in the afternoon, when it was seen that men were again gathering on the hill. Then little knots of citizens appeared, but there was no disorder.

HARDING LETTER IS MADE PUBLIC

Made Plea for Editors to Help End Wars

Told Author Wellman of His Ambitions

ples the burdens and menace of the old, but now worn-out and useless militaristic regime. It is only just to Mr. Harding's fame, to his place in history that the truth be made public."

Mr. Wellman then told of the conversations he had had with Mr. Harding in the White House a few weeks before his death.

"The late President spoke to me frankly as one newspaperman to another. Had he lived, all that would have been a confidence. Now it is a heritage that must not be lost.

"He told with feeling of his many days and nights of earnest, prayerful thought on the problem of America's duty; of how he had at least reached a definite conclusion, that his conscience would not permit him longer to remain inactive, of his belief that the conscience of our people, once their minds were stirred up on this problem, would not countenance persistent isolation and indifference as our national policy.

"'Our people have never really thought on this matter,' he said, 'and when they do really think on it, they will land with all their hearts and souls in the right place.'

RESOLVED TO GO AHEAD

"Then he quoted Theodore Roosevelt's words: 'When you once get the American people to think and think hard—well, you'd better stand from under.'"

"Mr. Harding rose to a great height in discussing his plans. He was splendid, noble, in voicing his determination. I wish all the people could have seen his face, heard his voice, when he said: 'Lots of people like me, but do not like my administration. They think me too timid to do really big things. Well, I'm going ahead in an effort to make the world safe for humanity, even if it costs me another term in the White House.'"

Picturing what Mr. Harding planned in order "to make the world safe for humanity," Mr. Wellman said he wished to have the World Court proposal settled as the first, small step, and then contemplated next year inviting all the nations to a world congress at which he meant to submit a definite program.

Mr. Wellman said that the late President had discussed features of this program in which he saw the League of Nations as a praiseworthy effort that had failed, and which should be merged into a greater and more efficient community council embracing all nations equipped not with some, but with all the powers needed to achieve its ideal. Particularly, said Mr. Wellman, did Mr. Harding deem it necessary to end war by forbidding it in international law; not compromising with it, but leaving it without legal status.

"It is a most tragic coincidence in our national life," declared Mr. Wellman, "that McKinley, long the champion of high tariffs, had his newer vision of American intimacy with all the world and voiced his reciprocal proposal just before his death in Buffalo, and now Harding, generally considered an American isolationist, reached the determination to make his country the leader to a new and better era for all mankind just before the end came at San Francisco."

bountiful and restored prosperity evident almost everywhere. They express doubts that Europe would increase purchases of American farm products under any circumstances in view of the bumper crops at home.

MYTH IS EXPLODED

The widely advertised destruction of the farmers' foreign market appears to be a myth. According to the Department of Commerce, the American farmer is selling an enormously greater volume of products abroad than ever before except at the peak of war-time production, when America was feeding a nonproductive Europe.

In the year ending June 30, 1923, America exported 154,950,971 bushels of wheat, compared with 142,879,597 bushels in 1913, and 145,590,349 bushels in 1914. During the period of the war and post-war prostration in Europe the exports of wheat ranged from 133,990,150 bushels in 1918, to 366,077,439 bushels in 1921.

Corn exported in the last year totaled 94,064,053 bushels, which was a drop from 176,385,614 bushels in 1922, but was almost double the export of 1913 and far greater than that of any succeeding year down to 1921, when it was 70,905,781 bushels.

Two Injured as Auto Crashes Lumber Truck

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 26.—Miss Esther Johnson and Clarence Sauder of La Sierra Academy, were seriously injured early today when the auto in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a truck at May Tower on the Corona road. Tom Turner of San Bernardino was driving the truck which officers assert had no rear light.

Turner who was arrested, said he was starting his truck load of lumber when he felt the crash. He stopped immediately and went back to find the body of Rice's car torn from the chassis which had slid under the truck as a result of the impact, he told officers.

Miss Johnson, who was riding the front seat suffered a broken leg and gashes around the head and on the arms. Sauder was cut badly on the head. Both were taken to the county hospital and given treatment. Turner is being held in the County Jail.

REDUCTION IN BANK CREDITS

Decrease Due to Stock and Bond Loan Liquidation

Statement is Issued by the Federal Reserve Board

Indicates Distribution of Merchandise is Heavy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Largely because of the substantial liquidation of loans on stocks and bonds at New York City banks, the volume of bank credit in the United States has shown reduction since the middle of August, the Federal Reserve Board stated today in a summary of general business and financial conditions throughout the several reserve districts, based on statistics for the months of July and August.

Production of basic commodities and employment at industrial establishments decreased in July and there was a further decline in wholesale prices, the statement says. The distribution of goods, as indicated by railroad freight shipments, maintained record totals and the sale of merchandise though showing the usual seasonal decline, continued to be relatively heavy.

COTTON CONSUMPTION

"Production in basic industries, according to the index of the Federal Reserve Board, declined 1 per cent in July," the statement said. "Mill consumption of cotton, steel ingots production and sugar meltings were much smaller than in June. New building operations during the month as measured by the value of permits granted and of contracts awarded, showed more than the usual seasonal decline.

"Employment at industrial establishments located in various sections of the country decreased 2 per cent during July. Manufacturers of automobile tires and cotton goods showed large reductions in number of employees. There were some further announcements of wage advances, but they were not as numerous as in the three previous months. Average weekly earnings of recovery workers due to a decrease in full-time operations were 9 per cent less than in June.

WHOLESALE TRADE

"The volume of wholesale trade was about the same in July as in June, while there was a decline in retail trade, which was largely seasonal in nature. Among the wholesale lines, sales of dry goods and clothing were larger than in June, while sales of groceries, hardware, and shoes were much smaller.

"Wholesale commodity prices declined during July for the third consecutive month, and the index of the Bureau of Labor statistics was 5 per cent below the April peak. Prices of all groups of commodities, except house furnishings, were lower in July. The largest declines occurred in quotations of clothing, drugs and chemicals, farms products, and building materials. During the first half of August price changes were more moderate and quotations of cotton, spring wheat, hogs, sheep and rubber advanced.

BANK CREDIT REDUCTION

"Since the middle of July the volume of bank credit in use has shown a reduction, largely because of the substantial liquidation of loans and stocks and bonds at New York City banks. Between July 18 and August 15 loans of member banks in leading cities secured by stocks and bonds decreased by $49,000,000 to the lowest point of the year, $258,000,000 below the amount outstanding at the beginning of the year. Commercial loans, however, increased so that the reduction in total loans for the period amounted to $60,000,000. Security investments declined $78,000,000 to a new low level, for the year."

CLEW FOUND TO BERGDOLL CASH

Money Dug Up in Maryland is Believed His Hoard

Farmer Refuses to Disclose Where He Put It

Sum Consists of Currency Besides Gold Coin

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HAGERSTOWN (Md.) Aug. 26. With the confession today of Lee Houser, a 23-year-old farmer living near here, that the box he dug up last week on the Brownsville-Weeverton road contained between $100,000 and $110,000, besides approximately $10,000 in gold coin, indications grew more positive that the money is that buried by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, famous draft dodger, before his escape to Germany.

Supplementing Houser's story is that of Owen D. Shipley, proprietor of the Hotel Vivian, who for the first time told of Bergdoll's actions while here with his brother, Erwin, before Grover Cleveland Bergdoll's mysterious escape from Department of Justice agents.

Complicating the situation was the assertion of C. Wheeler, a farmer, that he would lay claim to the fortune. Wheeler said his 10-year-old son Howard is entitled to the money, since he found it.

HOUSER GRABBED BOX

He later said his son was seated on a bank beside the road when Houser's pickax exposed the box containing the money. Houser, the boy stated, tore the box from his hand and made off with it.

Houser refused repeatedly to tell where he has placed the money. Residents of the county believe he deposited it in a bank in Baltimore or Philadelphia during his absence yesterday. Houser said the money was in "safe keeping" and "he alone knew where it was."

The county was startled today when Houser revealed the amount of bills found, besides gold coin. Previously Houser had said there was but $10,000 in gold. This led to the deduction that the money, still unseen by any one, was Confederate or Civil War currency of the United States. Houser settled this by stating the bills were of dates of the last ten years.

Shipley said the Bergdoll men registered at his hotel under the name of Carson and associated with two prominent society girls here. They made frequent trips lasting all day along the county roads. On each trip the Bergdolls were guarded by six men heavily armed.

Before a House committee in Washington investigating the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll Mrs. Bergdoll, the slacker's mother, in 1921, testified she buried $105,000 in gold near Philadelphia. She denied vehemently the money was buried near Hagerstown. She said nobody except her knew the spot. Officials here think this a ruse.

Mrs. Bergdoll said she and a friend obtained the $105,000 in gold from the Treasury in the fall of 1919. The friend was, according to Washington authorities, Magistrate James Romig of Philadelphia. The money received by Romig, it was asserted at the time, was in eagles and exchange.

SECOND VICTIM DIES IN NEVADA CAR CRASH

MINING MEN LOSE LIVES IN ACCIDENT TWO MILES FROM TONOPAH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Aug. 26.—Henry Weber, prominent mine operator, is dead, the second victim of an automobile accident in which John T. Overbury, mine promoter, was instantly killed two miles south of here early yesterday morning. Weber, seriously injured, extricated himself from the wreck and headed toward Goldfield and was found early Saturday morning.

Weber amassed a fortune from operation of the Atlanta mine at Goldfield in the boom days. He was president of the Belleheln Mines Company, the properties of which are fifty miles east of this city.

Weber came to Tonopah last October from Denver. At the time of the accident he was en route from Death Valley to Tonopah.

SET CONFERENCE DATE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 26. The annual Southern California Methodist conference will be conducted in the First Methodist Episcopal Church in Los Angeles beginning September 26. The sessions begin one week earlier than last year when they were at Fresno. Los Angeles has invited the conference sessions to that city for several years. The conference will continue for at least eight days.

BABY STREET CAR BALKS

Crown Hill Line Tied Up; Some Believe Vehicle Was Stuck to the Rails by Chewing Gum

A solitary one-man car of the Crown Hill line, in itself of little consequence, succeeded last night in stopping traffic on a half dozen lines for a full two hours. What under ordinary circumstances might be called an accident happened at First and Hill streets, where the little see-saw cars are required to negotiate a turn, usually on two wheels.

What occurred was not ascertained certainly, but the result was disastrous to the Crown Hill car. It stopped suddenly, with three wheels off the track, sputtered and, so far as its mobile capacity was concerned, went out completely. The motorman-conductor ran from one end to the other jerking levers and aside from an occasional sputter the car showed no sign of life.

TRAFFIC HELD UP

The hour, 9:30 p.m., saw considerable traffic on the man-size car lines, both yellow and red. The disabled car, small as it was, succeeded in blocking completely everything at First and Hill streets; little but, like a minute piece of coal in the eye, annoying to the city's traffic. Hill street as far as the Pacific Electric station and First street for several blocks were jammed with waiting cars, whose powerful motors remained idle because of the caprice of their little cousin from Crown Hill.

How it happened none knew. Some said that a Ford touring car speeding into the tunnel had chucked the one-man car off of the track; others that somebody had left a piece of chewing gum on the track and that the Crown Hill vehicle had stuck fast to it.

PASSENGERS RELAYED

Passengers for Hollywood had been ordered from the waiting cars and asked to walk to the tunnel, where cars from Hollywood were switched back through the tunnel.

The stalled car finally was connected by a tow-line to one of the large yellow cars, which gave a slight tug on the cable. This almost jerked the little fellow through the larger car's window. The motorman ducked, but threw off the power just in time. This application of force by lucky chance brought the wheels of the one-man car back onto the track, and the motorman-conductor triumphantly clanged his bell and started down Hill street as fast as he could go.

COAL PARLEY OPENS TODAY

out will not be withdrawn until Mr. Lewis personally has passed on any settlement proposals.

Spokesmen for the union insist that a proposition made by Mr. Lewis to the United States Coal Commission in New York ten days ago, under which the miners would be permitted to work if the operators would install the "check-off" for collecting union dues, abolish all but eight-hour working places in the service, and agree in principle to a wage increase, is the minimum which the organization can take. It was also said that the shutdown of some mines September 1 could not now be avoided, even should Gov. Pinchot tomorrow win the leaders over to a postponement.

Properly certified orders recalling the suspension notices could not be got out in time, union officials said, to reach all the scattered mining camps before that date.

WASHINGTON CONFIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Professing confidence in the outcome, official Washington awaits the opening tomorrow of the conference at Harrisburg, called by Gov. Pinchot, to seek a settlement of the controversy which threatens to shut down the anthracite mines September 1.

Participation by representatives of both operators and miners that nothing had occurred to change the decisions expressed at earlier parleys, has failed to shake the optimistic view taken by President Coolidge and his advisers.

Acting upon instructions from President Coolidge that every aid be given Gov. Pinchot, data and conclusions derived by various government bureaus have been sent to Harrisburg for use in the conference.

In the event the threatened anthracite shutdown becomes a fact, the government will have ready a comprehensive program for dealing with the "national emergency" which it has declared would result.

Existing stocks of fuel substitutes have been listed, routes for transporting them designated and a system of priorities for rerouteing of less urgent freight arranged. Actual distribution of these supplies to individual consumers will be worked out at the meeting in New York Tuesday of representatives of States which use the bulk of domestic hard coal.

BECOMES CHALLENGE

The coal situation in its present aspect has become a challenge to a fundamental principle of industrial relations, Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared today, in a statement dealing with the controversy in the anthracite industry.

"We have never found," Mr. Barnes said, "any method for settlement of disputes to replace the one of physical contest, and violence, except the method of judicial determination by reference to an impartial tribunal. The establishment of courts and tribunals is the one distinctive feature which marks the difference between a civilized organization of society and that of unorganized barbarism.

"If it is true that in this dispute there has been on the part of the operators an unreserved offer to submit questions to impartial arbitration and if that offer has no conditions which tend to render it unfair or partial in any degree; and if that offer has been flatly refused, then we are, as I said, at the point of a challenge to the principle on which organized society preserves its orderly existence.

"I may be true that the refusal twenty years ago by the employers to submit these questions to arbitration, when requested by workers, is today the foundation on which justification is attempted for today's refusal on the other side, but the ethics of twenty years ago in industrial relations are not the ethics of today, and past wrongs do not make the foundation for present wrongs as well."

At Malaga, shots were fired by both sides. Two strikers were killed and a dozen wounded and the police also report losses.

Despite all these outbreaks and the popular displeasure which hopefully-worded war communiques have failed to appease, the authorities declare their intention of continuing the war in Morocco and intimate that further classes of conscripts are about to be called to the colors and that the Spaniards in foreign countries also may get notices to return to their home country immediately.

LIQUOR PRESCRIPTIONS IN DEMAND IN ILLINOIS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—While some eastern States are making much ado over the "devil's grip," Illinois appears to be suffering intensely from the "prohibition blues."

Figures just compiled by State Prohibition Director Moss show that 2,289,600 persons applied for, obtained and succeeded in having filled prescriptions for whisky, gin and other alcoholic "medicines" during 1923. The prescription blanks returned number almost half a million more than the government issued. This counterfeiting will be more risky hereafter, as the government is now printing its prescriptions on paper bearing the watermark "U. S.," and counterfeiting or reproduction in any form is punishable by heavy fines and imprisonment.

The figures quoted take no account of the many thousands of "ailing" persons who had their prescriptions filled by bootleggers and moonshiners. Physicians of Chicago who specialize in this branch of "medicine and surgery" made approximately $7,000,000 during 1922, while druggists who filled the prescriptions show a profit of $2,500,000.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON VISITS NEW ENGLAND

VACATION TRIP INDICATES IMPROVED CONDITION OF EX-PRESIDENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of former President Wilson, left Washington this evening for a week's visit to New England. Her departure is considered further evidence of the physical improvement of her distinguished husband in recent months. Except for a visit of less than 24 hours to New York to attend a dinner given last spring in compliment to Lord Robert Cecil, Mrs. Wilson has never left her husband's side to go out of the city since the beginning of his illness nearly four years ago.

Mrs. Wilson, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. James M. Helm, left this evening on the Federal Express for Boston, en route to Mattapoisett, Mass., where she and Mrs. Helm will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin at the latter's summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin have lived most of their married life in Washington, where the former is now serving on the Federal Reserve Board. Before her marriage, Mrs. Hamlin was Miss Huyberlie Pruyn of Albany.

WILL PHOTOGRAPH ECLIPSE

San Diego Expert is to Try to Catch Brilliant Color of Sun's Corona

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 26.—Photographs of the eclipse of the sun on September 10, showing the brilliant color effects of the corona, will be attempted by Harold A. Taylor, who will conduct his operations with a battery of five special cameras, which he will install on Point Loma.

Should Taylor be successful in transforming to his plates the beautiful blaze of color with which the sun will ring the moon at the time of the eclipse, he will have made a great contribution to the science of astronomy. Never before, it is said, has the camera eye been able to impress on photographic plates the dazzling shafts of colored light which leap from the eclipsed sun.

Taylor has made a number of notable contributions to the science of color photography. He is confident he will achieve success in his efforts to give the world the first color pictures of the sun's corona.

BABY PEGGY SALARY PUT AT MILLION

Child to Get One of Biggest Contracts for Three Years in History of Movies

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Baby Peggy, starlet in motion pictures, today received one of the biggest cash considerations for services on the screen ever paid in the history of the picture industry. A contract was entered into between Sol Lesser of the Principal Pictures Corporation and the child's parents, James and Mrs. Montgomery. The deal covers a three-year period and was verified today in New York by Sol Lesser, who is en route to Europe. It is said Baby Peggy's salary, for pictures she will make each year, is to be more than $1,000,000.

"It is not my desire," says Lesser, "to establish the fact that Baby Peggy receives a tremendous salary. So many inflated reports of picture stars' earnings have been circulated that I would rather refrain from stating the amount of money the little girl will receive each year. I am convinced, however, that she will rank as one of the highest paid film stars in the world today."

A big cash advance given Baby Peggy's parents has been placed in a trust fund for her. According to Lesser, Baby Peggy starts her new contract not later than October and will make big feature productions adapted from widely known books. Her pictures will be made in Hollywood.

SEARCH FOR STOLEN TOT CONTINUES

Babe in West Virginia May Answer Description of Lillian McKenzie

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—While scores of detectives working under the supervision of Capt. William Funston centered their efforts to running down two clews—one that Baby McKenzie is dead and buried and the other that she is alive and cared for by a childless mother—the hunt for the 4-months-old baby reached Mannington, W. Va., where a baby whose description fits that of little Lillian was found abandoned on the porch of Mrs. A. J. Brady in that village.

Miss Pansy Cunningham of Fairmont, W. Va., sent a letter to Capt. Funston in which she told of the finding of the baby on the porch while Jesse Shimp, president of the Peerless Oil Company of Mannington, who is stopping at a hotel in this city, received a letter from his secretary telling him of the finding of the infant on Mrs. Brady's porch.

Although Capt. Funston has sent a lengthy dispatch to the chief of police of Mannington he has not as yet received a reply.

Meanwhile scores of children at mass at St. Veronica's Roman Catholic Church prayed for the return of Baby Lillian, who was kidnaped just eight days ago.

If Lillian is still alive she is 4 months of age today. In the McKenzie home in West Twelfth street the broken-hearted mother of the sick baby also prayed for divine aid.

LAND BANKERS BACK COOLIDGE FARM STAND

DELEGATES SAY SITUATION CAN'T BE RELIEVED BY HASTY LEGISLATION

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Representatives of sixyt-nine joint stock land banks doing business in thirty-six States, assembled here for their fifth annual meeting, say President Coolidge is right in his attitude that problems confronting the American farmer cannot be cured by hasty legislation.

"The farmers can, and are solving their problems throughout the regular channels of business," said W. W. Powell of Washington, D. C., secretary of the association. "The sixty-nine banks represented here have loaned more than $233,000,000 to farmers during the last fiscal year," Mr. Powell continued, "and the total loans by all banks in the Federal farm loan system is more than $1,000,000,000.

"More than 50 per cent of the farms in the United States are free of debt. Iowa farmers get more than 10 per cent of all money loaned on farm mortgages by all systems of lending. This amounts to about $500,000,000. Illinois is second with between 6 and 7 per cent of the total."

Loans made by the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank to Illinois and Iowa farmers amount to $50,000,000, Mr. Powell said. The two Federal farm loan systems—the land banks and co-operative banks—have loaned more than $95,000,000 in Iowa alone.

FORD YACHT PASSES SAULT STE. LOCKS

TOURISTS SEE BOAT WITH EDISON AND FIRESTONE HEAD FOR DETROIT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 26.—Without getting off the yacht, Sialia, the party headed by Henry Ford, Thomas Edison and Harvey Firestone passed through the Sault Ste. locks today and sailed toward Detroit. Several hundred local citizens and tourists lined the lock walls while the great yacht was being lowered from the Lake Superior to the Lake Huron level, and the three noted men watched the process from the yacht's bridge. The yacht appeared here without advance notice. As it tied up for a few moments at a pier, preparatory to entering the Poe Lock, Mr. Ford slipped on to the pier and cordially said "Good morning" to five tourists who were strolling along not knowing whose yacht they were yatching. As the yacht was about to start, some one on board called to Mr. Ford, "Let 'er go," he shouted, and ran like a boy, 500 feet and leaped onto the boat.

BAY CITY GETS RELIEF FROM WARM WEATHER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—From a sultry, humid atmosphere yesterday, San Francisco returned to a climate of medium temperatures and moderate Siberian breezes today. The highest point the mercury registered was 71 deg., which was exactly 10 deg. higher than the lowest temperature of last night. At Redding, where the temperature was the hottest of any point in the United States yesterday, a fall of several degrees was noted. In the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys the weather was warm, but in most cities the sultriness of yesterday had vanished.

ROMANCE LIVES AT REVELSTOKE

Big Eddy Flats Miners Knew Now Bustling City

Five Vales and Three Rivers Contribute Wealth

Forests, Mines and Soil All Guarantee Future

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REVELSTOKE (B. C.) Aug. 25. Probably not in all British Columbia is there gathered about one place so much of the romance of provincial history as around what is now Revelstoke, which was known as Big Eddy Flats by the early miners in 1866. History of the province shows why Revelstoke is at this date the important thriving place it is and why the future should but add to that importance and stability, for the fur trader and gold digger more than half a century ago rejoiced in its rendezvous, for natural as well as business reasons.

At Revelstoke five great valleys and three rivers converge in a splendid open bench-lined plateau, with the beautiful encircling snow-capped and glacier-girdled mountains clothed, as are the banks of their many streams in the valleys, with virgin forests. There, no matter how hot the day, the blankets were welcome at night; there, no matter how far from the often turbid Columbia the travelers wandered to seek fur or gold, they could be sure of water, pure and clear. The great river, navigable below and above, between Colville and Death Rapids, some 200 miles, and its noble feeders running north to Canoe, all gave pelts and gold and game, both great and small, and whether going, coming, camping, caching, this bright big bench land was truly important in the commerce of their day.

PASS SELECTED

When Walter Moberly came in the sixties and seventies, and Maj. Rogers (or the C.P.R.) in the eighties, looking for a railway route south of Yellowhead (as was Capt. Pollisser's commission in the fifties) they had to take to Columbia River at Revelstoke southward, to survey the eastern or Rocky Mountain pass most suitable. About Eagle Pass there was no question—it was, as Gilbert Malcom Sproat advised in 1883—the coast key to Kootenay, and when Maj. Rogers finally adopted Hectors Kicking Horse as the Rocky Mountain pass, he brought it as straight as possible to the mouth of Eagle at Revelstoke, for just the same reasons that made the fur trader and the gold digger select it. It was as strategic a point to the railway as to the steamer, to the quartz miner or smelter as to the placer digger.

Modernize the picture and you find Revelstoke, power-center and divisional point for the C.P.R. through the mountain section of its route, with a pay roll any city could justly envy. Where ran the Eagle Pass wagon road of the early eighties, runs now a scenic highway connecting Revelstoke with all western road systems. At Revelstoke it joints with the famous mountain auto road at Mt. Revelstoke in the furthest west Dominion National Park.

WORLD OF FOREST

What a panorama that summit reviews and what a world of forest it reveals. No other district in the interior of British Columbia, probably, has such a stand of commercial timber—quality, quantity, variety. That stand on Columbia River and its feeders, in the near neighborhood of Revelstoke, is expertly stated to measure 7,000,000,000 feet. Of the mountainside timber, all virgin forest to timber line, no estimate is possible. Looking eastward one sees rising the Illecillewaet and Albert peaks, famous for sending British Columbia's first silver shipment abroad.

All the 6500 square miles of North Kootenay, riding, of which Revelstoke is capital, is generously and variously mineralized, and is one of the best prospecting fields in the province of this time. Out to the south stretches the rich valley of the Columbia, with a soil cleared of most of its heavy forests and the small farms of its many settlers hestling along the new motor route to the Arrow lakes.

MUCH GAME ABOUNDS

In this north riding of West Kootenay, or popularly, Revelstoke riding, there is estimated to be 25,000 acres of agricultural lands. One great climatic fact in the dairymen-stock-raisers' calendar is that his cereals, legumes and grasses are dew-drenched daily in the hot season, and no rain falls, usually, at harvest time.

No account of modern Revelstoke would be complete without reference to its scenic and sporting attractions. Situated in the heart of the mountains, it has, perhaps, the loveliest scenic environment of any city in British Columbia, and those surroundings, being yet unspoiled, are naturally the home of game, both great and small, in fin and fur and feather.

RADIO TO SERVE CHINA PROVINCE

Marconi Company Prepares Station at Kashgar

Eastern Turkestan Assured Contact With World

"New Dominion" of China Industrially Rich

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

PEKING, Aug. 8.—With the completion of the modern twenty-five-kilowatt wireless station at Kashgar by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, China's "New Dominion," Sinkiang, or Eastern Turkestan, has been assured rapid communication with the world both through China proper and through British territory, India. The Kashgar station is the last of three stations contracted for by Marconi's to be completed, the other two being at Urga, capital of Mongolia, and Urumchi, capital of Sinkiang.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing connected with this extension of radio to such far-away points was the transportion of material, undertaken by a Chinese transport contractor and accomplished virtually without loss or breakage. The 300 tons of steel and machinery were transported from the railhead in China proper over a trail approximately 3000 miles long to Kashgar, near the border of India and Turkestan, entirely on camel backs and in heavy two-wheeled carts. The contracts provided that the material should be in such shape that no piece should weigh more than 350 pounds, so as to facilitate transportation.

The Marconi contract was but an item in a big scheme on paper to connect all parts of Greater China by radio, but owing to the steady decline of the central government much of the plan is now held in abeyance.

The stations were originally planned with a view to supplementing the existing telegraph lines and making quick communication between the Chinese officials in the "New Dominion" and Peking a matter of certainty. Perhaps, however, the stations will prove to be more important even from a commercial point of view. The province, comprising 500,000 square miles, sparsely settled, is believed to have great industrial and commercial potentialities. The people, before the war, had a prosperous trade with Russia and through Mongolia with China proper, but during the last few years the Mongolian route has been closed and the Russian trade almost at a standstill. That has led to greater trade with India, which might account in some measure for British interest in wireless communication with the region.

Strategically, the wireless stations may prove of value to Great Britain, as the Kashgar station has already been successully tested out with Rangoon and it can communicate without difficulty with Pershwar, which is in communication with London, via Cairo, by wireless. There is a British Consul at Kashgar, who is in much closer touch with British authority in India than with Peking.

The system of three stations opens the whole of Eastern Turkestan and of Mongolia for communication with London and gives British interests in this immense territory of Central Asia an advantage over those of other western nations.

MRS. HARDING TO GET SALARY TO MARCH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, according to immemorial custom, will receive the salary that would have gone to President Harding had he lived for the remainder of his salary year, which, including back salary which Mr. Harding had not drawn, will amount to more than $65,000. In addition Mrs. Harding may receive from Congress a $5000 annuity and the franking privileges for life.

In the cases of the widows of four Presidents who died in office, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. McKinley, Congress gave them the remainder of the salary for the year that would have gone to their husbands had they lived. The annual salary of the President is $75,000 and the salary year begins March 4. Senators and Representatives say the same will be done for Mrs. Harding.

NEXT ELECTION HANGS ON WEST

Coolidge Will be Powerful Candidate if Named

Reapportionment in Several States Has Bearing

Southern Delegations Are to be Pruned Down

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The West will determine the Republican nomination for President next year.

This has become clear in the little more than three weeks since Calvin Coolidge became President of the United States and at the same time, the leading aspirant to the Republican nomination in 1924.

For the nomination Mr. Coolidge is weaker than Mr. Harding would have been; but for the election, if he should be nominated, he will be stronger, in the opinion of many political leaders.

The renomination of Mr. Harding, had he lived, was a foregone conclusion. Republicans who are now looked upon as probable opponents of Mr. Coolidge for the nomination had decided to bide their time and keep their powder dry for 1928. They perceived too great a degree of unanimity in the party in favor of Mr. Harding for a second term to make an opposition candidacy a safe risk.

COOLIDGE WEAKER

Now the situation is changed. It is apparent that Mr. Coolidge has not fallen heir to the full Harding strength. He may attain to it approximately in time and his friends who are furthering his political prospects are taking the utmost care to preserve for the benefit of the new President every ounce of the political resources commanded by the late President.

It is predicted that President Coolidge will not alienate any of the Harding following. None of the appointees of the late President will be displaced and promises of appointments made by Mr. Harding will be fulfilled. Even Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, who was appointed chiefly for reasons personal to Mr. Harding, whose close friend and political manager he had been for many years, will remain in the Cabinet so long as he desires.

But while Mr. Coolidge starts the race for the nomination far weaker than Mr. Harding, he is by virtue of his office and power the leading contender already. He probably will go into the convention with more delegates than any other candidate.

STARTS RACE STRONG

To begin with, he will have the solid delegates from New England and from the South where Federal patronage controls. These will aggregate about 400 votes in a convention of about 1000 members.

A reapportionment of delegates in the Republican convention is in process of evolution by virtue of which the number from the South will be decreased and the number from large Republican States will be increased.

When this reapportionment is completed by the National Committee preparatory to formulating the convention call next December, the number of delegates from the South outside of the border States will be not far from 300 and the number from New England more than 100.

In the East, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be fighting ground but the West will be the section of the country in which the issue will be decided.

SAYS SOVIET IS GRATEFUL TO AMERICA

Relief Chief Tells of Good Done by Help Sent From This Country

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—"The soviet government is grateful and has put itself on record as saying so," declared Col. Haskell, chief of the American Relief Administration, who has returned from Russia, displaying a hand-illuminated parchment from the acting people's commissar, which he brought from Moscow.

This appreciation of America's free-will offering for Russia says American help came "in a period of national catastrophe," when the population "was emaciated by foreign intervention and blockade."

Col. Haskell appeared to be optimistic about the stability of the present government and Russia's internal conditions, but would make no statement regarding America's immediate trade or other relations with Russia until he had reported to Secretary Hoover and "learned the government's attitude."

He corroborated the soviet's estimate of 2,000,000 tons of surplus grain for this year, stating that Russia would be able to export a large part of it. "The famine is over," he reiterated, "and there is no cholera or typhus—some malaria, but that is not unusual in Russia."

POLICE CO-OPERATION IS SOUGHT IN EUROPE

COMMISSIONERS OF MANY COUNTRIES WILL MEET SOON IN VIENNA

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—Further steps in the direction of pre-war conditions in Europe will be attempted at the international police meeting in Vienna called by Police Commissioner Schober, formerly Austrian Chancellor, for September 3.

German, Danish, Swedish, Italian, Balkan, Swiss, Hungarian, Czech and Greek police commissioners will be among those participating. The chief object of the conference is to find some basis for re-establishing international relations among the police forces of various countries.

Commissioner Schober points out several notable cases occurring in the past few months, for instance, the Bevan case in which courts of justice were seriously hampered by lack of working relationships among the police departments of various States which before the war had agreements.

The need of reaching such agreements was pointed out recently by the British Chief Inspector, who visited Budapest in connection with a passport forgery case. The Budapest inspectors said they knew of numerous criminal suspects among the floating foreigners but had no way of investigating persons who had stolen passports. The conference will take up the international fight against alcohol and narcotics.

SUNDAY PERIL IS STUDIED IN WEST

REV. H. L. BOWLBY REPORTS CHURCHES WIDE AWAKE TO PROBLEMS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Returning from a forty days' trip to the Rocky Mountains and Pacific Coast Districts, the Rev. Harry L. Bowlby, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, gave out this statement on Sunday and weekly rest-day conditions:

"In Omaha, Denver, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Long Beach and many other points I discovered that both churches and labor forces are wide awake to the peril of the American Sunday, which is being made by certain commercial interests here the largest money-getting day of the week.

"The churches and Christian citizens in all these places are realizing that if we are to maintain a uniform weekly rest day greater attention must be given to the various Sunday problems from industrial and social as well as moral and spiritual standpoints."

Insist on Board Fire Insurance

For Your Sake

this house is refused insurance

DILAPIDATED buildings or buildings in bad repair are refused insurance. Why?

Because the fire risk is so great it would impose an extra heavy burden upon those who buy insurance for ordinary risks. Such refusal is in line with all good insurance practice. Everything possible is done to hold down losses and expenses to a minimum, to save every possible cent for the people who pay the premiums.

When you buy stock fire insurance, you do so with the assurance that you are not being penalized for the shortcomings of someone else.

THE cheapest way to buy insurance is to take every means to prevent fire first. To that end, an inspection of your premises by any of the undersigned agents would be of exceptional help.

Luis Pastes Partners in Easy Fashion

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Aug. 26. Unleashing some of the power in his massive shoulders in his daily workout at the Hound Racing Park this afternoon, Luis Angel Firpo administered a sound thrashing to three sparring partners and showed some improvement in his battle technique.

All three of the punch catchers, Joe McCann, the Newark heavyweight; Jeff Clarke, the "black ghost" of Joplin, and Natalie Pera, the Argentine Adonis, were badly shaken.

Firpo has shown such remarkable ability against the slow heavy me nof the sparring outfit, that Horatio Lavalle, chief trainer, announced today that he would try to employ lighter and faster men. Lavalle realizes that Dempsey is not a slow man and that if Firpo is to be properly trained, he must have fast men to punch at.

Each of today's punch-absorbers worked two rounds with Luis Angel. McCann was sent from the ring with a bloody nose and big red marks on his arms and body. Clarke, who was able in his first workout yesterday to swing rights and lefts to Firpo's jaw from a crouching posture, failed to land one good punch today, and was sent across the ring near the close of the session from a right, sent low and inside to the chin. Clarke though 34 years old, still is a wily boxer, but he said the South American was the strongest man he ever saw in the ring.

CLUB IS TAKEN OVER BY BARNEY MYERS

Barney Myers, former lightweight boxer of New York and boxing instructor in the A.E.F., has taken over the Southern California Athletic Club. Myers succeeds "Dutch" Myers in the gym and plans to have the most complete gymnasium in the West. Business men who join the club are offered boxing lessons free. Bert Collins works out daily in the gym.

Mlle. Langlen, world's champion woman tennis player, out of forty-one sets played since 1919 has lost only one. This compilation includes only her work at Wimbledon during the five year six question. For five consecutive years in partnership with Miss Ryan, the California expert, she has won the women's doubles title without the loss of a set.

FRESNO, Aug. 26.—The heavy hitting Hanford Kings jumped into the lead in the second half of the San Joaquin valley league chase this afternoon crushing Stockton at Hanford, 8 to 2, while the Dinuba Sun Maids were losing to the Fresno Tigers. Hanford and Dinuba were tied for the lead prior to today's game.

The Kings hammered Speed Martin hard and often. Speed seemed to take things pretty easy and as a result he was tagged for 15 blows. On the other hand, Red Oldham was in the box working hard for the Kings. He allowed eight scattered blows. Both clubs played perfect ball in the field.

Angels Walk Off With Twin Bill

VERNON LOSES TWO GAMES

Doc Crandall Hurls Seraphs to 5-to-1 Victory in Opener; Krug's Men Win Final, 4-to-2

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

Los Angeles won Sunday's double-jointed pastime, 5 to 1 and 4 to 2, which gave Krug's men the series from Vernon, six games to two. Doc Crandall, in top form, tucked away the opener. It was a ninth-inning rally largely promoted by pinch hitters, with Walter Golvin and Billy McCabe as the outstanding figures, which enabled the Angels to take a decision in the second game from Cecil Cruse, San Fernando recruit. Up to that point the valley boy had been displaying sensational stuff, and showing the way, 2 to 1.

Griggs had been retired when Cecil showed first signs of cracking. He hn Krug. Golvin was signaled from the bench to bat for Baldwin. He responded with a double, driving his manager to third. McCabe then slipped off his jersey and limped out. Bill met one flash in the face and it went to right of scoreboard for three bases, counting Krug and Golvin. Bill came home while Slade was tossing Coleman out at first. Twombly fouled but Cruse had already felt the crusher and Jones held Bengals in last half.

Doc Crandall, top sergeant of the rookies, and once chief of staff, drove out to the park in his closed car. Doc and his family had a number of close call en route. Flivvers lying in ambush pounced on him from side streets. Flivvers popping out of side streets have new system. They are using the hop-skip-and-jump. Later they will start turning handsprings at intersections. Eventually flivvers are expected to jump off springboards coming in from side streets and in this way get desired momentum. This will enable them to enter Doc's closed car through window.

Our progressive street railway system, alert to every emergency, must have known there was a double-header on. Anyway it was running two-car trains on the Moneta line. Front car was for those going to first game and rear car for those attending second.

Doc and Frank Shellenback were paired in the opener. Frank rode to park in open-faced boat, and was air-cooled. Result seemed to be in favor of the hothouse athlete. Frank was hit just about four times more frequently than Crandall, and yet it took some tough breaks to lose for him.

Saliva flowed freely. Both are spitballers. These cross-currents of saliva formed a whirlpool in which Shellenback was swallowed up. Krug resorted to youngsters in two positions, George Coleman being in left and Tony Rego wearing the oxygen tank. Rego drove in three of the Los Angeles runs and Coleman one. Angels got to Shellenback for first tally in second, when Lindimore, Krug and Rego collaborated on singles.

While Crandall was charged with three hits, only two of them were real and proper. Three, consist-

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—An international gliders' meet will be held in San Francisco in connection with the national convention of the American Legion October 15 to 19, according to an announcement at Legion national headquarters here today. European as well as American-made machines will be entered, it was said.

Maj. Harris C. Allen, chairman of the convention committee on aviation, has approved plans for the glider concourse to fit in with the general aerial program of the convention. Modern types of gliders, some of which have established records in this country and Europe, will be on exhibition and are entered in the contests.

Capt. Edward Rickenbacker, American ace in the World War, has offered a $5000 trophy as first prize in the contest and other prizes will be announced later. The finals in the meet will be held on Thursday, October 18, according to the announcement.

LINCOLN GOLF FINALIST

By defeating S. C. Graves 6 and 5 in the semifinal round of the C. L. Bundy cup tournament at Brentwood yesterday, W. F. Lincoln moved into the final round of the golf club affair. Lincoln will have his work cut out for him in the final round, as he is scheduled to meet H. W. Kirby in an 18-hole match for the trophy Wednesday. Kirby advanced to the finals by trimming Judge L. R. Works, 2 and 1.

Two more tournament are scheduled for the near future at the Brentwood Country Club. Next week-end the members will play the qualifying rounds of the club championship, matches in which will be played the following week. Labor Day will find the Brentwood golfers competing in a blind bogey tournament, for which several handsome prizes have been put up.

Challenge Round of Davis Cup Tournament to Open Next Friday

STELLAR TEAM DEFENDS TROPHY FOR AMERICA

Bill Tilden, Johnston, Williams and Richards Will Meet Australia's Best at Forest Hills

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Aug. 26.—Four of America's finest will defend the Davis Cup, a trophy that for years has promoted good fellowship between the tennis players of all the nations, Friday on the turf of the West Side Club's stadium. For the third succesive year America will fight to retain the greatest of all net trophies, this time sought by seventeen other nations.

The defending team, chosen by a committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, will include William T. Tilden, national champion, William M. Johnston, World's champion, Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams. It is doubtful if ever before as great a team has carried the colors of this nation. Every one of the four is a finished player, a player to be wholesomely feared by the challenging net men.

The nations competing for the cup this year were divided into two zones for the preliminary play. Canada, Japan, Hawaii and Australia were assigned to the American zone. Japan defeated the Canadians at Toronto, Australia triumphed over the Hawaiians at Orange, N. J., and in the final matches of the play the Anzacs defeated Japan at Chicago.

In the European zone France triumphed over Spain in the final round, winning the right to play Australia in this country for the honor of challenging America for the cup. Switzerland, India, Ireland, Argentina, France, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Spain, Belgium, Rumania, England, Italy and Holland were represented in the foreign zone.

Upon meeting Australia in this country for the right to challenge America, France falled, falling before the Anzacs recently at Boston. It will be Australia therefore that will vie with America for the trophy Friday.

But three nations have ever held the cup since the trophy was first donated by Dwight W. Davis of Washington, D. C., in 1900. Australia has won the cup six times, as has America, while England has taken the trophy home on five separate occasions. There were no challenges for the cup in 1901 and 1910, while play was suspended during the war years, 1915, 16, 17, and 18.

The donor of the famous cup is now the president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association and Assistant Secretary of War.

How is the "American twist" service executed?

Answered by

R. LINDLEY MURRAY

Brilliant left-handed player. National champion, 1918. Winner of national patriotic singles tournament, 1917. Famed for his speed, especially in serving.

The American twist serve imparts top and side spin to the ball. The left foot (for a right-handed player) is placed two or three inches back of the base line and nearly parallel to it, the body facing to the right along this line. The ball is thrown about 3½ feet above the head over the left shoulder and at the same time the racquet is swung back and up in an arc until it points downward across the back, the handle being over the right shoulder. It is then swung up until it comes in contact with the ball just as the latter starts to descend, the point of contact being as high off the ground as possible, the server even rising up onto the toes of his left foot. The server should keep his eyes on the ball until it is hit; this is absolutely essential. When the racquet meets the ball it passes diagonally across it and over the top, so that it gives to the ball both a top and side spin, causing the ball to curve to the left and bounce to the right, as shown above. The stroke is finished (after hitting the ball) by a follow-through which ends with the racquet nearly hitting the ground a couple of feet inside the base line, and with the right foot just finishing its first step towards the net.

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Bases are full in first inning of ball game with none out. Would you, were you a manager, instruct your infield to play close in an effort to cut off run at plate, or lay back for a double play and take the chance of one run counting?

That situation came up recently at Washington Park, and precipitated a discussion among a group of baseball men. Opinion was divided.

With the infield close in the chances for a double play are reduced, and any sharp drive is liable to go for a hit, counting anywhere from one to three men, and that is a formidable lead to overcome even with eight more rounds to go. When the inner defense is concentrated in this manner the radius of its fielding is reduced, and the opportunities for hitting safely increased.

Of course, later in a close game with a victory possibly hinging on one run, there would be little room for argument. The logical move would be to play close and take the gamble of stopping the front runner at the pan.

The late Hap Hogan never would allow his infield to play close the first inning in a situation of this kind. He preferred that the opposition should get one run in the first rather than take a chance of two or three scoring. His line of reasoning was that his own club, unless it scored at least one marker could not beat the other team even if his own pitcher twirled a shutout ball, and relied on his batsmen producing at least a pair of tallies in nine rounds. But two or three runs scored against him in the first might prove a handicap which could not be overcome. So his early defense was the reverse of many managers. Just what the percentage would be for or against either of these systems would require observation over a long period as such situations are not exactly frequent.

Perhaps a compromise between the two would prove effective. That is, draw the first and third basemen in and allow the shortstop and the second baseman to lie back for a possible double play. It strikes one as a happy medium that might meet the situation, and satisfy the adherents of each policy.

Many of the older fans will recall how the ball hopped and rolled on the sunbaked field at Washington Park, then known as Chutes, before a coating of new soil was added and grass planted.

It is not much of an exaggeration to remark that the infield and outfield was as hard as the proverbial brick. Some idea of its solidity can be gained from the fact that occasionally a tall fly hitting the ground near the fence would bounce clear out of the park. Jimmy Toman, then shortstop of the Los Angeles club, obtained his home runs in this manner, being hardly hefty enough to slam them over the fence.

Playing of these grounds shortened the career of Frank Dillon. They caused his feet to cave it. That was before this ailment was known to the peepul at large as fallen arches. So it wasn't Dillon's knees that cracked on him, as generally believed, but a general decadence of his hoofs.

While discussing the granite-like quality of these grounds, Dillon recalled what he regards as the funniest play he saw in a long career on the diamond.

That year the Los Angeles club had a very good set of outfielders, but one which was notoriously close-mouthed. In left was Artie Ross, who spoke on an average of two words per season. Dummy Hoy in center had Artie beaten in this respect, for Dummy was a mute. Gavvy Cravath, in right, could not be accused of being argumentative. Combining fielding and hitting in a well-balanced degree, it was rather a popless combination.

On this particular day, some one hit a terrific line smash at Cravath. Gavvy came in at top speed, lunged for the ball, and met it with his leg. The sphere rebounded from Cravath's massive shin in the direction of the scoreboard out in left. Neither Ross nor Hoy made a move to retrieve it. Perhaps they enjoyed seeing Gavvy run. Anyway, Cravath didn't stop until he had overtaken the ball. He pursued it clear across the outfield to the scoreboard while the runner circled the bases. At no time did the ball seem to be more than a few feet in front of him, yet he couldn't gain on it. This was a slight to arouse the risibilities of even the serious-minded Dillon, who smiles over it even at this late day. Cravath, now a prosperous realty man at Laguna, also probably gets an occasional chuckle out of it.

PLAN WINTER SPORTS FOR FOREST PRESERVE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Prospects for a winter-sports carnival in one or more tracts of the Forest Preserve district have not only won the approval of amateur athletic groups but have caught the popular fancy of the citizenry generally in Cook county and now President Anton J. Cermak and his colleagues of the board of commissioners have taken serious hold of the project.

The board already has passed resolutions in support of winter sports and has asked its forester and engineer to procure estimates on the cost of constructing a skiing slide as well as shelters for skaters.

AZUSA NINE IS HANDED WALLOPING

San Gabriel Outfit Cops Top Honors in 5-to-3 Diamond Fracas

Harry Nelson herded the San Gabriel squad to Azusa yesterday for a game of baseball with the Azusa team and left that city with a 5-to-3 victory tucked under his arm. Manager Butch Gauntner selected Dierks to deal for his outfit and the latter was touched for a total of ten hits, which he kept well scattered. Noriega, who appeared on the mound for the winners allowed but six bingles.

COMPTON FIREMEN WINNERS

McAdams's Homers Bring About Defeat of Downey by 7-to-3 Score

Two home runs by Catcher Charlie McAdams gave the Compton Firemen a 7-to-3 win over Oscar Williams's Downey Club yesterday on the Compton lot. McAdams drove in five of the Firemen's runs with his circuit clouts. The first came in the third inning with one man on, while his second four-base clout occurred with two on the bags in the sixth inning.

Buckley was on the mound for the Firemen and heaved his customary good game. He allowed but seven hits and fanned seven men. Roy Hevle, Downey heaver, also twirled a good game aside from the two home runs. Hevle fanned nine men and allowed but nine hits.

Smith, Hill, McNeely, Buckley and McAdams were the heavy hitters. Score:

Whiting-Mead Squad Loses to Hercules

Although the Whiting Mead Cubs started off with a flourish, making a tally off two hits in the opening inning, the Hercules Gasoline Company's crack baseball outfit tied the score in their half of the inning and won the game by pushing two more runs across the platter in the fourth, score 3 to 1. The game was played at the Salt Lake Playgrounds.

The contest was a pitcher's battle, Gould allowing the gasoline gurglers seven bingles, while Stalcup was holding the Cubs to five well-separated hits. Gould tried hard to win his game by making three of his team's five safe hits. The winning team executed a lively double play. Score:

DEL MONTE POLOISTS LOSE TO PICKED FOUR

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, Aug. 26.—In an exhibition polo game today between the Del Monte team and a team of picked players visiting here, the visitors easily defeated Del Monte, 8 to 4. The playing of Thomas Hitchcock, nationally known Meadowbrook player, was the feature of the day. Spectators declared that his riding and hitting never had been excelled on the Pacific Coast.

SAM AGNEW FINED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Sam Agnew, San Francisco catcher, was fined $25 and suspended from the Pacific Coast League for three days by President William H. McCarthy here today, following a verbal battle between Agnew and Umpire Ward in the Oakland-San Francisco game at Oakland yesterday. Agnew protested a strike that Ward called on him. Ward banished Agnew to the clubhouse.

BUICK AUTOS TAKE GAME

Thielman's Squad Defeats San Diego Firemen on Excellent Pitching by Kelley, 2 to 1

Tom Kelley bested Perry in a twirling duel and Dad Thielman's Buick Autos edged out the San Diego Firemen, 2 to 1, after a sensational game played yesterday in the San Diego Stadium. One of the largest crowds of the season turned out to see the best game played in the San Diego Stadium for a long time.

Both Kelley and Perry allowed but six hits and each hurler was given errorless support by his teammates. The Buick Autos bunched two hits and a walk for their pair of runs in the fourth inning. J. Thielman led off coaxing Perry out of one of his two walks. Wilburn followed with a single that sent J. Thielman to third on a close play. Wilburn took second on the throw to third. J. Thielman then singled scoring both runners.

San Diego got its only marker in the sixth inning, S. Almgreen coming across the plate. The Firemen bunched three hits in this inning, but Kelley proved equal to the task of holding the Southerners in the pinch. The score:

TEE, FAIRWAY AND GREEN

BY 'CHICK' EVANS

"GOLF FUNDAMENTALS"

There are endless books on golf, and there is the wonder book in the royal and ancient sport. Seymour Dunn's "Golf Fundamentals" is the wonder book. Before undertaking to tell briefly what Mr. Dunn has accomplished in this volume I would like to say, with emphasis, that here is the most remarkable word and picture presentation of golf that has ever been put into the accumulated literature relating to the sport. Mr. Dunn, the author, is a grandson of "Old" Willie Dunn and the son of Tom Dunn, so that the data he sets forth are the result of a life study of golf handed down from generation to generation of famous golfers. Mr. Dunn's mother, Isabella Gourlay, true to family traditions, was the greatest woman golfer of her day, while back farther still on his mother's side of his family we find Douglas Gourlay, who was appointed teacher of golf to James V of Scotland.

Seymour Dunn is a golf professional at Lake Placid, N. Y. (Saranac.)

"Golf Fundamentals" is a complete analysis of the science of golf, and is greatly condensed and to the point, and, to make it thoroughly accurate, technical terms are employed, since it has been taken for granted by the author that "Golf Fundamentals" would be used and enjoyed by the golfer of some advancement in the game. The volume is in four parts, as follows:

Book 1—Mechanical Laws of the Gif Swing.

Book 2—Dynamic Laws of the Golf Stroke.

Book 3—Golf Psychology.

Book 4—Seymour Dunn's Orthodoxy of Style.

The first book describes the science of becoming onsistently accurate with the golf swing, the fundamentals being, (1) Maintain a steady swing center, (2) Maintain a proper swing radius, (3) Keep proper oblique plane of swing, (4) Guide club through proper swing parallel and (5) Strike with square impact. The second book informs the golfer how he gets the greatest distance of which he is capable, with a list of pegs on which to hang the golf thoughts. In this phase of the game the author describes, and tells how to acquire, proper hip action, proper shoulder action, proper arm action and proper wrist action, co-ordinating all these to bring about the most effective concentration of power with the most resultful transmission of power. This book gives a complete summary of the mechanics and dynamics of the golf stroke.

In the book on golf psychology Mr. Dunn has set down an analysis of the golf stroke that is truly amazing. Here the player gets from this great golf scientist the psychology of learning the swing, the psychology of proper aim taking, the psychology of producing the shot, the proper attitude of mind toward the game, and the psychologically correct way to correct golf faults. The golf student, possessed of a copy of this superb volume, would not part with it, I dare say, for a dozen times its cost if he could not replace it. In the book on golf psychology I found a picture of Mr. Dunn preparing to hit his ball which consittutes one one of the most effective snapshots I have ever seen. This one picture is a sermon on golf in itself.

WHITE SOX ARE UPSET BY EAGLES

Sam Cox's Crew Wallops Out 8-to-1 Victory Over Colored Squad

Manager Jasper's hard-hitting Los Angeles White Sox were unable to solve Pitcher Russell's slants and went down to defeat before the Pasadena Eagles, 8 to 1, yesterday at the White Sox Park. Russell, although tapped for nine safeties, was invincible in the pinches and had the colored sluggers whiffing the air when hits meant runs.

Russell would have had a shutout had not Bolz dropped a lazy fly in left field after two were out in the sixth inning. Linder started for the White Sox but was bumped hard by the Eagles. In the third inning five hits and two walks gave Sam Cox's crew six runs, while four more hits gave the Eagles two other runs in the sixth. Foote relieved Russell after the sixth and pitched a good brand of ball.

Joe Pirrone, with two doubles, Lee, McNabb, Strickland, Hildebrand, Winchell and Russell all hit the ball hard. Hildebrand and Strickland pulled off the feature fielding stunts. Score:

Wilhite Heaves Consistent Game for Losers

Moose Trautwein, former Vernon Tiger twirler, was in rare form yesterday and hurled Manager Dave Anderson's Barry's Classy Hats to a 3-to-1 victory over Glendora yesterday on the losing squad's diamond. Moose fanned fourteen men during the game and in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings whiffed nine consecutive batters.

Nichols, Glendora shortstop, robbed Trautwein of a shutout in the fifth inning when he stole home after two were out. Five hits were gathered off Trautwein's delivery, two coming in the fifth.

Ray Wilhite was on the mound for Glendora and chucked a consistent game of ball. He struck out nine men and was touched for ten hits. Poll Perritt, former Giant and Coast League pitcher, who is managing the Glendora club now, played right-field for his team and drew down one hit in three times at bat. Casey and Barnes came through with some timely hitting for the Barry Hatters. The score.

HOOVER FEARS LOSS OF TRADE

Secretary Points to Europe as Best Customer

Too Much Emphasis Given to Asia and Latins

Farmers, Exporters Urged to Study Conditions

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover fears that the trade of the United States with Europe is suffering from the newly manifested intense interests of American manufacturers in expanding business with South America and Asia.

The secretary's view is set forth in the leading article of this week's "Commerce Reports" published by the Department of Commerce, which winds up by throwing out a familiar hint that American farmers and other producers of exports to Europe should interest themselves in the conditions affecting Europe's capacity to import. The article follows:

"Europe remains our greatest market.

"Government officials in close touch with export activities feel that too much attention has been given to the promotion of American foreign trade with South America and Asiatic countries to the detriment of our trade with Europe.

EUROPE BEST TRADER

"The fact deserves emphasis that the European area is still the largest customer of the United States and that the policy just mentioned, which seems to be general in American organizations interested in developing our foreign business may result in retarding its development.

"The emphasis placed on exports to non-European fields, which is out of proportion to the actual volume of business done there, can, however, be explained. It does not lie only in the general supposition on the part of Americans that our trade with Latin America and the Far East is a growing trade in expanding countries with increasing standards of living whereas European trade has already been developed in past decades.

"There is probably an even more weighty reason. In examining the trade statistics it will be observed that our trade with Europe consists mainly in raw materials, foodstuffs and other staple commodities, whereas in other fields we have developed our business in manufactured goods and finished products. Staple commodities in the world's markets are generally handled by middlemen.

DON'T FOLLOW THROUGH

"The farmer whose grain moves to the United Kingdom and the cotton grower whose product is received on the Bremen docks, have little knowledge of and therefore comparatively little direct interest in their goods after they have been received and paid for by the American middleman. The manufacturer of machinery, electrical equipment and specialties, however, is generally personally interested in his foreign business because it is carried on by direct trade.

"For this reason European conditions are closely followed by a group much smaller in number than is the case with respect to non-European fields. The effect of reduced purchasing power in Europe is tremendous in this country and its reaction on our economic life is pronounced. In order to maintain and develop our European trade the original producer must interest himself in conditions there affecting his product (even though he does not market this goods direct,) so that he may determine his own domestic policy."

PROMOTION AWAITING NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Daily Express this morning says the appointment of Neville Chamberlain, present Minister of Health, to the Chancellorship of the Exchequer will be announced immediately. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the present financial secretary to the treasury, will succeed Mr. Chamberlain as Minister of Health.

This virtually vacant post of the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, which Stanley Baldwin has nominally held since his assumption of the Prime Ministership and which rumor had assigned to several politicians, at last will be filled with the best man at the service of the Baldwin government.

Neville Chamberlain thus succeeds to a post which has been twice held by his elder brother, Austen.

notice the public to know that it has no connection whatever with any organization now making a drive for memberships in Los Angeles. The aim of the International Narcotic Education Association is the education of the narcotic menace through the power of education, as expressed in the motto, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The membership campaign of the International Narcotic Education Association, as previously announced in the press, will take place in October, but the association is not conducting a crusade, although its constructive education work must be the foundation for any successful world-war against the narcotic evil. Its objective is to reach regularly with information on the perils of narcotics all the young people in America's institutions of learning, about 20,000,000 for the nation, and have the association represented in every home with at least one member, about 20,000,000, in contact with the movement through its literature and speakers! In this manner the International Narcotic Education Association hopes to insure the preservation of our institutions and the perpetuity of the race itself, menaced by the growing horror of narcotic addiction. This statement is published so that there may be no misunderstanding or confusion or misunderstanding as to this organization, its aims and activities.

NEW EVIDENCE OF STATE AS ISLE

Ancient Map of Arizona Supports Contention of Traveler

Publication in The Times of a memorandum that the noted traveler, Frank G. Carpenter had found in the University of Prague a terrestrial globe on which California is noted as an island, has sustaining evidence in a map in the Arizona collection of Dr. J. A. Munk, in the Southwest Museum.

The map, published in 1653, was made in Paris by N. L'Anson d'Abbeville, covering the "Audience de Guadalajara, Nouveau Mexique, California, etc." California is shown as an island, with the "Mer de Sud," the "Southern Sea" on the west and the "Mer Vermejo," the "Vermilion Sea," on the east, the latter sprinkled with a half-dozen islands.

Cape San Lucas is noted as the southernmost point, with correct placing of a number of the earlier settlements of Lower California. Also to be noted are San Diego Bay, La Conversion, about the location of Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Point Conception, Catalina and Clemente islands and Cape Mendocino. On the mainland is marked a great stream, "Rio del Norte," presumbaly the Colorado, proceeding out of a lake in the country of the "Apaches de Navajoa."

Prominent Men of Alhambra in Toils of Police

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 26.—A sensation was caused among the crowds at the Business Men's Carnival last night when a squad of police officers swooped down upon a "model bungalow," one of the many exhibits, and arrested nine prominent local business men on a warrant sworn out by City Building Inspector, C. E. Jenkins, charging failure to obtain a building permit for the erection of the bungalow.

Although the men arrested were busy upon the grounds in connection with the opening night's program, they were all hustled off to the police station where they were booked and "mugged," despite their protests. They were later released upon their own recognizance and ordered to appear in Police Court at 10:30 a.m. Monday. Included in the number were E. A. Neiger, president of the Business Men's Association; George W. Tobin, contractor and director of the association's Frank Olson, president of a local bank and also an association director; C. E. Morgan, Ritz E. Heerman, M. G. Watkins, C. H. Winchester, H. J. Kimmel and H. Hammel.

The entire affair was carried out by the police in formal manner and the men involved are wondering today whether it was a joke. Mr. Jenkins, who caused the arrest, refuses to make a statement.

SUN'S RAYS SLOWLY KILLING YOUNGSTER

DISEASE MAY BE CHECKED IF CHILD REMAINS IN SHADOWS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—Rays of the sun, which doctors usually recommend to those who are sick for betterment of their health, will act as the executioner of a 3-year-old Louisiana boy. Doctors of the Charity Hospital here today decided that Alton Lindsey of Liverpool, a small village, could not possibly live two years unless he was kept out of the sun.

Alton suffers with xeroderma pigmentosa, one of the rarest of skin diseases, which some of the best-known doctors have pronounced as incurable.

The disease consists of hard little ulcers that form on the skin and gradually degenerate so that their cancerous growth has to be removed or a ray of the sun will cause death. Alton was brought to New Orleans by his father March 29.

Dr. Irwin, house surgeon of Charity Hospital, said today that the boy's case was hopeless and that there was nothing that could stop the disease from spreading. "The boy suffers with xeroderma pigmentosa," said Dr. Irwin, "a sort of segmented hard surface that forms on the skin and degenerates and must be removed as it degenerates.

"The sun irritates the color cells in Alton's skin and that makes them form ulcers which must be removed in order to save the little fellow. But the operations can't go on forever.

"The boy may live a year or more, but I do not think that he will live any longer than two or perhaps three years."

KLANSMEN IN MEXICO NAB EDITOR

Taken to Outskirts of City; Is Pledged to Publish Article

BY JACK STARR-HUNT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—Jose E. Campos, editor in chief of the Excelsior on leaving his home last night, was held up by a group of masked men, claiming to belong to the recently organized Ku Klux Klan here.

The klansmen bandaged the editor's eyes and forced him to accompany them in an automobile to an open field on the outskirts of the city. There they explained that their action was due to a desire to impress him with their existence.

Campos recently published articles condemning the klansmen for their recent visit to the Excelsior office, when they demanded the publication of a certain article.

Campos was informed the Klansmen killed only as a last resort. His captors then demanded that the Excelsior publish on its first page Monday an article admitting their existence. They declared they intended to see that justice was done in Mexico.

They took the editor's revolver from him but did not otherwise molest him though they held him from 8 p.m. until midnight. Campos said the men of the party were well educated.

This is the first time the klansmen have taken definite action against any prominent person. The capture of Campos took place within two blocks of the United States Embassy.

COL. HARVEY GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN TO DISCUSS FOREIGN POLICY WITH COOLIDGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Col. George Harvey, American Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived in Washington last night and went direct to the White House, where he will be the guest of President and Mrs. Coolidge for several days. Col. Harvey is accompanied by Mrs. Harvey and it is understood they are scheduled to sail for England on September 8.

Particular significance is not to be attached to the visit of Col. Harvey to the White House at this time, it is stated, as it was understood during the Ambassador's trip to Washington for the Harding funeral ceremonies that he would again return to the capital before sailing for his post to confer with the new President on the European situation and receive from the latter his final oral instructions.

Ambassadors are direct representatives abroad of the President and it is understood the present visit is being made on invitation of the President not only for the purpose of acquainting Col. Harvey with the views of the President regarding problems figuring in Anglo-American relations, but also of bringing the President into touch with Col. Harvey's knowledge of the European situation.

Col. Harvey will return to London with the knowledge that there has been no change in the attitude of the American government toward the reparations and Allied debt question, and that the present President is following in the footsteps of his predecessor with respect to questions in controversy between the United States and Great Britain. There are a number of these, not the least of which is that of the attitude of this government with respect to the enforcement of the prohibition law.

PROVIDENCE AGAINST HIM

It was the very laudable custom of the good Jewish housewives of Lithuania to invert the family laundry after washing, so as to keep the outside immaculate, and before putting on a garment one had to reverse it.

The rabbi of Grinkishok, however, a true sage and becomingly absent-minded, never could think of performing that little task and he always put on his underwear the wrong way—to the chagrin and vexation of the "rebbetzin," his alert helpmate.

One Friday afternoon the spiritual leader was preparing to go to a Turkish bath, as was the custom every Friday of all good Jews of for a suit of undergarments, the small community, and he asked

The wise woman, well knowing that the saintly man was absent-minded, turned the garments before she gave them to him.

That afternoon the great man just happened to remember the continual warnings of his spouse and he turned the garments inside out before putting them on.

At night the solicitous lady discovered, to her utter amazement, that the "rov's" undergarments were again inside out.

"Shlemiel!" she exclaimed in rage. "Before I handed you the garments today I turned them for you, and still you wear them the wrong way!"

The sage looked puzzled and stroked in silence his long, patriarchal beard.

"It's beyond my comprehension," he finally commented. "You reverted them once and I turned them once, and yet they remained inside out. It seems as if providence itself is against me."—[Jacob Richman, in Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

With One Possible Exception

Little Barbara, aged 4, was getting undressed for bed when her father entered the room. It was the first time she had seen him in evening clothes, immaculate from crown to shoe-tips, and the child was strongly impressed by his appearance.

"Daddy, you are the very prettiest man I ever saw," she confided, snuggling in his arms for a goodnight kiss. "I think you are the prettiest man there is."

"Baby, you're a flatterer!" he laughed, by no means displeased by her appraisal. "Surely not the handsomest man in the world?"

"Well, daddy," she replied, as one who desires to be just about all else, "Of course I haven't seen God yet."—[Boston Transcript.

She Would Hold the Ladder

A very loving couple had just returned from their honeymoon. "Hilda, dearest," said George, "I see there is some asparagus ready for cooking. Shall we go and pluck it together, love?"

To which Hilda replied, coolingly, "George, dearest, it will be heavenly! You shall pluck it, and I will hold the ladder."—[Tit-Bits.

WASHINGTON, agosto 26.—Los líderes políticos conceptúan al Presidente Coolidge un candidato más difícil de designar que lo hubiera sido el Presidente Harding; pero, una vez designado, resultaría más seguro en las elecciones. La contienda para la designación, en la que el principal adversario será el Senador Johnson, de California, tiene que decidirse en el oeste. Hazañas de los Ku Klux Klan en Méjico

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, agosto 26. José E. Campos, jefe de redacción del Excelsior, salía ayer noche de su casa cuando fue atracado por un grupo de enmascarados, que pretenden ser miembros del Ku Klux Klan, recientemente organizado aquí. Los "klansmen" le vendaron los ojos al redactor, obligándole a que los acompañase en un auto hasta un campo abierto en las goteras de la ciudad. Allí le explicaron que este acto de su parte obedecía al deseo de hacer conocer al redactor que ellos existían.

Hace poco que Campos publicó artículos en los que censuraba a los del Klan por su reciente visita a las oficinas de Excelsior, ocasión en que exigieron la publicación de cierto artículo.

Informaron a Campos sus secuestradores de que los del Klan sólo como último recurso matarían, y le pidieron que publicara Exselsior el lunes, en primera página, un artículo en el que confesara que ellos existían. Agregaron que su propósito era hacer que "se administrara justicia en Méjico, pues que tanto el gobierno como los funcionarios de policía se muestran ineptos para mantener el orden en toda la República. Quitáronle al redactor su revólver, pero no le molestaron en otra forma, conformándose con detenerlo desde las 8 p.m. hasta media noche. Manifestó Campos que los individuos del grupo que le secuestró son bien educados.

Es ésta la primera vez que los del Ku Klux Klan toman providencia definida en contra de persona prominente. Campos fue atracado cuando se hallaba a dos cuadras de la Embajada de los Estados Unidos.

Colisión de dos Buques Proa contra Proa

El Abeto es un barco de acero que explota la compañía Los Angeles Lumber Products, y que hace el tráfico entre este puerto y la isla de Graham en la Colombia Británica. Fue construído en 1919, en Ecorse, Mighigan, para la Dirección de Navegación de los Estados Unidos; tiene una eslora de 253 pies, y capacidad re 1527 toneladas líquidas.

El Abeto va a ser enviado a los patios de la Compañía de Diques Secos y Constructora de Buques de Los Angeles, para ser examinado y reparado, operaciones que demandan varias semanas.

El Devolvente permanecerá anclado aquí, mientras se le manda a un astillero del puerto para que sea reparado. Es uno de los más hermosos buques-cisternas que hay a flote, y lo tiene ahora fletado la Compañía Petrolera Beacon de Boston. Fue construído en 1919 en los astilleros de la Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, en Alameda, para la Dirección de Navegacion, y tiene 425 pies de eslora, y desplaza 4125 toneladas líquidas. Lleva una tripulación de treinta y dos marineros y oficiales, en tanto que la del Abeto consta de veinte hombres.

Ayer mañana chocó la proa de El Abeto contra la del gigantesco buque-cisterna "Devolvente," diez millas al noroeste de Punta Concepción, habiendo sido aplastada toda la parte de proa del casco de El Abeto, y resultando también con serias averías el Devolvente. A la rara sangre fría del Capitan V. C. Iverson, patrón de El Abeto, se debe muy probablemente que se librara de la muerte toda la tripulación de su barco.

Pláticas Diarias en Español por el Prof. R. Guerrero, del Departamento Español de The Times

Es tan natural en el que habla español alterar el orden de la sintaxis regular, que el mismo Sr. de la Peña, al explicar en uno de los párrafos que cito en la plática anterior en qué consiste ese orden, lo altera anteponiendo el adjetivo "perfecto" al sustantivo "paralelismo," y el adjetivo "mismo" al sustantivo "orden." En el párrafo siguiente, también citado, dice "determinado concepto" por "concepto determinado."

Qué más! Hasta la correcta carta en que mi estimable lector protesta contra la anteposición de un adjetivo, comienza por el hipérbaton "Distinguido Señor Profesor;" dice más adelante: "Sus pláticas están escritas en correctísimo español," y concluye con la fórmula cortés "atento y seguro servidor." En las locuciones citadas se han antepuesto—con entera corrección — los adjetivos "distinguido," "correctísimo," "atento" y "seguro" a los nombres que califican.

Y si para autorizar este linaje de dicciones figuradas fuese necesario acudir a los escritores clásicos españoles, en pocos ejemplos veríamos más patente la elegancia de la construcción no regular que en el siguiente que la Gramática de la Academia toma del Quijote: "Otros cien pasos serían los que anduvieron cuando, al doblar de una punta, pareció descubierta y patente la misma causa, sin que pudiese ser otra, de aquel horrísono y para ellos espantable ruido, que an suspensos y medrosos toda la noche les había tenido. Y eran (si no lo has; oh lectoró por pasadumbre y enojo) seis mazos de batán que con sus alternativos golpes aquel estruendo formaban."

En este pasaje, dice la Academia, se altera más de una vez la sintaxis regular. El complemento circunstancial "al doblar de una punta" se antepone al verbo "pareció." Entre el vocablo "causa" y los complementos que lo determinan por medio de la proposición "de" se interpone la oración "sin que pudiese ser otra." Más adelante, la que inicia la conjunción "y" es interrumpida por el paréntesis "si no lo has, etc." "Descubierta," "patente" y "misma," adjetivos de "causa;" "horrísono y para ellos espantable," califican al nombre "ruido;" "suspensos," "medrosos" y "toda la noche," son dicciones que en lenguaje no figurado ocuparían otro lugar. El verbo "formaban" se coloca por elegancia despúes del complemento directo "aquel estruendo," como ésta detrás del circunstancial "con sus alternativos golpes."

Pruebe el lector a colocar las expresiones anteriores en los sitios que les prescribe la sintaxis regular y verá cuánto pierde en vigor, en eufonía y en elegancia el citado fragmento de Cervantes.

En pasadas ediciones figuraba también el siguiente ejemplo en la Gramática de la Academia Española: "Arrójase Colón a las inciertas olas del Océano en busca de nuevas provincias, y ni le desespera la inscripción del "Non Plus Ultra" que dejó Hércules en las columnas de Calpe y Abila, ni le atemorizan los montes de agua interpuestos a sus intentos."

En tal ejemplo pedía el orden regular esta construcción: "Colón se arroja a las olas inciertas del Océano en busca de provincias nuevas, y ni la inscripción del "Non Plus Ultra" que Hércules dejó en las columnas de Calpe y Abila le desespera, ni los montes de agua interpuestos a sus intentos le atemorizan. Pero; cuánto no se ha perdido aquí de energía, elegancia y belleza!

Hacen observar los gramáticos que son de dos clases las cualidades connotadas por los adjetivos calificativos; las unas convienen a la cosa significada por el sustantivo tomado en toda su extensión, y forman parte de la idea o concepto que de esa cosa tenemos; las otras no convienen al sustantivo tomado en toda su extensión, ni forman parte de la idea o concepto propio de la cosa significada por él. Los que connotan cualidades de la primera clase se llaman "adjetivos analíticos o explicativos;" los que connotan las de la segunda clase, "sintéticos o especificativos." Cuando decimos "el fiero león," "la mansa oveja," "la fría nieve," los adjetivos empleados son explicativos, pues que "fiero" nada añade al concepto que tenemos formado del leon, que si es tal, "fiero" had de ser; "fría" nada añade a la idea que de la nieve tenemos, ni tampoco "mansa" al concepto que de oveja nos formamos. En estos ejemplos son, pues, explicativos los adjetivos citados. Agregaremos que POR REGLA GENERAL el adjetivo explicativo suele ir delante del sustantivo.

Watermelons $1100 a Car

The watermelon crop is short—only $6,000,000 early melons available, making three eaters for each melon, a deplorable situation. Watermelons sold in New York City the other day for $1100 a carload. If the farmer who raised the melons knew this he'd blow up.—[Capper's Weekly.

SIBERIAN PRINCE REFLOATED; GAME CROPS REPORTED GOOD; LATEST DOMINION HAPPENINGS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VICTORIA (B. C.) Aug. 23.—Another remarkable feat of salvage skill and perseverance was accomplished in the refloating of the steamer Siberian Prince, of the Prince Line, which had been stranded on Bentinck Island since the end of July. The salvage vessel Algerine, of the Pacific Salvage Company, Victoria, which stood by ever since the Siberian Prince first struck the treacherous rocks in an early morning fog, July 29, has claimed another ship now moved to Esquimalt Harbor.

A GREAT TASK

The task of dragging the Prince liner from her temporary and insecure resting place, was one which tried the skill and prowess of the salvage experts to no small degree. With cables aboard the stranded hulk, the Algerine, both engines going full speed astern, and the tugs Nitinat and Burrard Chief, also with cables aboard the Prince, strained in one supreme effort to bring the patched vessel into the water. Gracefully and gently the Siberian Prince took to her native element once again. One seven-and-a-half-ton anchor, and a smaller kedge anchor, took a part of the tremendous strain, as the ship slid slowly down to the sea, and floated once again. Meanwhile, several huge pumps threw streams of water over the side of the Siberian Prince with a noise of a thundering waterfall. But she floated, although with only inches to spare under her keel, and was propelled to deep water, from whence she was immediately taken to Esquimalt Harbor.

PRECARIOUS POSITION

The Siberian Prince had been lying in a most precarious position. The jagged rocks, which have been her bed for the last two weeks, were dark and forbidding when the sea rose to the urging of the riotous Pacific winds. If more arduous weather had been experienced, the Siberian Prince would ultimately have crushed her bottom to pieces on the rocks, and if she had been worth salvaging at all, the expense of repairing her would have been enormous.

As she lay she was badly shattered about the stern; the rocks even piercing the tank tops, and the patching done by the salvaging operators was of great extent and a work of art, as Capt. Robert Milliken, master of the Prince, himself said. Patches ranged from nineteen, seventeen and ten feet in length, to ones of smaller dimensions. She floated at 4:40 p.m.

In the holds of the Siberian Prince there still remains cargo to the extent of some 5000 or 6000 tons. This will be removed before the ship goes into drydock. She has a good number of tons of wheat, sand, spelter, cased goods and lumber. Tenders for the repairing of the craft will be called for in the near future, and it is hoped that Yarrows, Limited, will eventually be granted the contract.

VICTORIA (B. C.) — Fine "crops" of birds and game of nearly all descriptions are maturing in British Columbia woods now, according to reports received by the Provincial Game Department. The smaller number of forest fires compared to last year has enabled birds and other game to mature with little molestation. Last year, when fire swept through vast forest areas, large numbers of animals were destroyed before the shooting season arrived.

Pheasants are said to be on the increase in practically every locality on the lower mainland. Last year the game department liberated throughout the Province about 2000 birds that had been artificially reared in the two government areas near Victoria, 800 of them being let loose on Vancouver Island. A new policy has been decided on this year. The birds will not be set free till the spring, so that they will have a chance to get familiar with their surroundings before mating season, when it is hoped the crop of young will then be better than ever.

A large number of quail was turned loose in the Ladner district last year, and reports coming in now are to the effect that there is an abundance of young birds.

After a close period of four years, there will be an open season for elk this year, from October 1 to October 20, in the districts of Fernie, Cranbrook and Columbia, the condition being that only males may be killed.

In the Bella Coola and Cariboo districts where the migratory birds breed, last year's sport was poor, due to the fact that the long, dry fall and lack of food for the water birds drove them south much earlier than usual. There has been a lot of nesting this season, according to reports, and given the necessary rains a little later on, there is every prospect of plenty of sport.

NEEDED HARVESTERS ARRIVE

WINNIPEG—Since the harvesters' excursions commenced from the old country and Eastern Canadian points, about two weeks ago, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have brought into Winnipeg and distributed to western districts a total of 26,396 men, according to official figures obtained from the railway offices here today.

This is approximately half of the total required, but there are many more en route, arriving here within the next forty-eight hours, and on Saturday and Sunday. Up to this morning the local passenger department of the C.P.R. handled 13,464 harvesters from Eastern Canada, and approximately 1500 from Great Britain, and report an additional 3800 to arrive within the next forty-eight hours, and 2250 British workers are scheduled to arrive over the week-end.

Thirty-two hundred and sixty men have left British Columbia for the harvest fields of Western Canada, it was stated here today, by Mr. James H. McVety, superintendent of the Provincial employment service. A large number of these men helped to harvest last year's crops in the prairies. Arrivals on the C.N.R. totaled 11,400 since the inception of the excursions.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan points report all men being placed immediately upon arrival, while in Alberta there are more men than jobs at the present time, owing to the delayed harvesting operations.

STRONG MEN NEEDED

WINNIPEG.—"Canada's greatest need today is for strong men at the head of its administrative departments" was the opinion expressed by Senator George H. Bradbury on his arrival in the city from Ottawa. "Such men as Sir Robert Borden, Sir Clifford Sifton, Sir Thomas White and Hon. William Pugsely are not too old to be brought from their retirement and placed in charge of the conduct of public affairs again. We need clever parliamentarians at Ottawa. It is all right to talk about getting clever business men to run the country, but that is as far as it should go. The cleverest of them, when they get to Ottawa, are lost in a maze of parliamentary detail and the country is run by departmental officials."

Senator Bradbury stated he was not in favor of a return to union government. The country had had enough of that, but in his opinion strong leaders are needed both on the government and opposition benches.

The action of the Senate with reference to the Canadian national railways was perfectly justified, Senator Bradbury stated and had his support. It was, he said, an unprecedented thing for a government to ask a blank cheque for the expenditure of such a huge sum of money, and particularly to bring it in the dying days of the session. If the government had introduced a bill providing for specific extensions at a definite cost, it would probably have been approved. Senator Bradbury formerly represented Selkirk, Man., in the House of Commons. He makes his home now in Ottawa and is only visiting here for a month, during which time he will be at the Royal Alexandra Hotel.

TAKES CANADIAN BRIDE

MONTREAL.—The engagement is announced of the Earl of Haddington, M. C., to Sarah Work of Montreal.

The Earl of Haddington is a Scottish nobleman, twelfth of his line, bearing a title dating gack to 1691. His ancestors have borne a distinguished part in the history of Scotland and the United Kingdom.

He was born September 18, 1894. In 1915 he was appointed an A.D.C. to the Duke of Devonshire, then Governor-General of Canada. He served in the World War, was awarded the Military Cross and has the rank of captain, reserve officer, Royal Scots Greys. He is the owner of about 34,100 acres. The family seat is Tyningham House, at Prestonkirk, Scotland.

LOS ANGELES TRIBUTE

VICTORIA, B. C.,—"I used to come over to Victoria some years ago on business, now I come from down South to spend my vacation," remarked a gentleman from Los Angeles. "Just before I started I received a personal letter from your publicity bureau suggesting that as a brain worker I needed a northern tonic during the hot southern summer. I was coming anyway, so I showed the letter to a friend who had been rather against the trip. That letter got him and he's just gone back a real booster for Victoria and your wonderful island. You people have got a new slant now and if you go on developing the tourist trade and selling your scenery and wonderful northern air you'll be seeing your city grow so quickly that you'll get kind of scared and ask yourself the question, can it last? well, don't stop to worry; just keep right on. Just remember that every satisfied tourist goes away a booster for your city and your island and he and his wife will just naturally be selling your scenery and climate during the next twelve months. And think what a sales force such an army is. They not only know the goods they are selling, but believe in them. That means that their words carry conviction and so convince. Yes, it's your satisfied tourists—and hundreds are going back home every day—who are going to make Victoria known as the premier tourist resort of the Pacific Coast."

TO END FUEL SHORTAGE

TORONTO—Premier Ferguson was waited upon by a delegation of Alberta coal men, headed by Sir George Fillmer, who declared they were prepared during the coming fall and winter to ship 100,000 tons of fuel here, so as to compete successfully with United States coal, despite the high freight charges.

They asserted the coal would be positively the first quality, comparing favorably with United States anthracite. They proposed to ship by rail to Fort William and by boat from there, thus effecting a substantial reduction in rail haulage charges.

Sir George and associates are interested in the Drumheller mining region. The announced object of their visit to Ontario is to endeavor to interest citizens here in the western mines as a source of their winter fuel requirements.

BOOSTS CATTLE TRADE

OTTAWA—"The removal of the embargo has given the cattle trade in Canada a new lease of life," said Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, today, when asked about the working of the new regulations. "We are very glad to get into the market, but we think some of the regulations still leave too much to the judgment of the veterinary inspector in England.

"It is on the judgment of these officers that the decision rests whether the animal is to be classed as a stocker or as fat. If he classes an animal as fat, it means that it will have to be slaughtered within ten days, and this affects the market so as to make a reduction of $20 in an animal's value."

The minister said that the questions to come before the economic conference will include the admission of pedigreed breeding animals.

TAKES SMITHERS MINE

VICTORIA (B. C.)—The Federal Mining and Smelting Company, subsidiary to the American Smelting and Refining Company, has acquired control and management of the Duthie Mine on Hudson Bay Mountain near Smithers on the line of the G. T. P., from J. F. Duthie of Seattle. Mr. H. A. Guess, vice-president and managing director of the mines for the American Smelting and Refining Company, with headquarters in New York, after a trip of inspection to the new property and the one already owned and operated by the company at Dome Mountain, put through the deal a few days ago, according to The Prince Rupert News.

Mr. Guess also announced that all the ore from the mine will be shipped by way of Prince Rupert to the smelter at Selby, California. It will be transported by team and tractor from the mine to the railway at Smithers.

Mr. Guess stated that a vigorous program of development and shipping was to be inaugurated. About fifty men will be employed at the mine to start with and the number will be increased in the near future. Charles Wethered, formerly of Wallace, Idaho, will be in charge. Mr. Duthie still retains an interest in the property.

Operations at the Dome Mountain mine are proceeding very satisfactorily. A power plant and compressor are being put in and the trail to the property is practically completed. Operations on the mine at present are confined to development work.

Mr. Guess was accompanied by Dale L. Pitt, manager of the Premier mine, at Stewart, also controlled by the American Smelting and Refining Company.

SEES CONSERVATIVE WIN

Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M. P. for Victoria and chairman of the new organization committee of the National Liberal-Conservative Association, is now on his way east, having started for the prairies immediately after visiting the Vancouver live-stock exhibition on Wednesday night.

He will stop at Kamloops, Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg on his way east. He will confer with the national committee during the first week of September to give an account of the organization work he was able to accomplish in the West and in other parts of Canada.

When Dr. Tolmie arrived in Victoria he told The Colonist that a wave of conservatism was sweeping Eastern Canada and that it was also penetrating the prairie provinces. He pointed to the victory of the Conservative forces in Ontario and Prince Edward Island and the weakness of the Bracken government in Manitoba. "From what I am told, the Conservative party is getting stronger every day in British Columbia," he said.

That was his first impression. Since then he has had exceptional opportunity to analyze the political situation in British Columbia and he is convinced that whenever the Oliver administration goes to the country the Conservatives will be able to register just as strongly in this province as they did in other parts of Canada where elections were held. His report to the national committee will be one not only of hope, but of confidence in the power of the Conservatives to extent their victory to the Pacific Coast.

Dr. Tolmie is accompanied on his way east by Mr. C. H. Dickie, M. P. for Nanaimo.

LATE DOMINION NEWS

OTTAWA (Ont.)—The acquisition has been definitely concluded by Canada of a new overseas home in London, Eng. In March, 1924, the Canadian High Commissioner and his staff, as well as other representatives of Canada, will move into the new Empire home of the Dominion, situated in Trafalgar Square, the very center of the heart of the British Empire. The new Canadian building is an imposing edifice built in 1824, overlooking Trafalgar Square. When the contemplated alterations are complete the building will be one of the finest architecturally in London. The spacious ground-floor rooms, after remodeling, are to be used as public rooms, including reading and writing-rooms, and a library where Canadians visiting in London will find every convenience at hand, making a very suitable headquarters.

All the Canadian government activities, now scattered over London, will be housed in one building and the High Commissioner will be able, as never before, to keep in close touch with all branches of the work. In close proximity are the offices of all the Canadian steamship and railway companies, including those of the Canadian Pacific Railway. In fact, with the new settlement in March, this peculiarly desirable corner of London, with all that it means to be so conveniently situated in the empire's capital, will be Canada's own.

REGINA (Sask.)—It is estimated by the provincial government that Saskatchewan has 12,332,000 acres devoted to wheat this year and 5,098,000 acres to oats. Other leading crops are as follows: Barley, 617,000 acres; rye, 875,000 acres; flax, 461,000 acres, and hay and clover, 275,000 acres.

EDMONTON (Alta.)—Indicating the growth of the dairying interests in the Province of Alberta, it is reported by experts of the Province that the number of milking cows is at the present time nearly 400,000. The value of these cows is estimated at $19,500,000, and the value of their production in the past year, $23,000,000, $3,500,000 more than the value of the cows. Fifteen creameries have been established in Alberta this year, making a total of sixty-nine now in operation.

OTTAWA (Ont.)—The Soldier Settlement Board has compiled crop production reports on 18,216 soldier-settlers' farms for the season of 1922. They show a total of field, orchard and garden crops amounting to $15,966,203. Eighty-one per cent of the settlers had a farm garden, 79 per cent had milch cows, 43 per cent, brood sows, and 77 per cent, poultry. They accounted in the year for the raising of 7,594,018 bushels of wheat and 6,430,731 bushels of oats.

MONTREAL.—According to advice from New York, 600 Danes, Norwegians and Swedes, all farmers and most of them with families, arrived on the Frederick VIII en route to farms in the Canadian Northwest. Some of them, it is said, were in possession of from $20,000 to $30,000.

SYDNEY (N. S.)—A record tuna, weighing 720 pounds, has been caught here by Commander J. K. L. Ross. The commander, who is recognized as one of the greatest tuna fishermen in America, some years ago caught a specimen weighing 600 pounds, which up to the present constituted a record catch.

OTTAWA (Ont.) — The total quantity of sea fish landed on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the month of June was $19,164 cwts., valued at $3,313,095, according to the Department of Fisheries report. This catch is 131,897 cwts. less than that in June, 1922, but the value is $230,819 greater.

WINNIPEG.—What is conceded to be the largest steer yet seen in the Winnipeg stockyards was sold during the week. The animal weighed 3170 pounds and sold for $250, the highest price brought at local yards since the war. The animal, which came from a Wainwright (Alta.) ranch, stood six feet at the withers and is destined, for a while at least, to be a sideshow attraction.

OTTAWA (Ont.)—The population of Ottawa proper increased during the last year from 150,100 to 156,323, according to the latest city directory. The capital's suburbs are estimated to have a population of approximately 50,000.

ARCHBISHOP ARRESTED IN GALICIA

Primate is Charged With Encouraging Independence of Country

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WARSAW, Aug. 21.—The Greek Catholic archbishop, Szeptycki, primate of Poland, was arrested last night while attempting to enter Poland. Archbishop Szeptycki, whose brother is a Polish minister, was accused of encouraging the independence movement in Eastern Galicia for Ruthenia. Archbishop Szeptycki's family is of Ruthenian origin.

The Polish government offered to release the archbishop and permit him to return to Warsaw to take up his duties as head of the orthodox church of Poland if he would sign a declaration acknowledging the Polish rule in Eastern Galicia and pledge his support to the government. He has not yielded.

The Foreign Office today waited on the Vatican for an expression which will give the government moral suport in this action in the eyes of the public.

BULGARIAN MINISTER IS KILLED

M. Daskaloff, Shot Three Times, Dies on Operating Table at Prague

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PRAGUE, Aug. 26.—Three shots were fired at M. Daskaloff, the Bulgarian Ambassador, at noon today. He died a short time later on an operating table. His assailant, Atanas Nikoloff, a 26-year-old Bulgarian, was arrested.

M. Daskaloff was appointed Ambassador to Czecho-Slovakia under the regime of former Premier Stamboulisky. When Stamboulisky was overthrown by the Bulgarian army in June of this year the new Sofia government requested the Czech authorities to extradite Daskaloff, but the request was never complied with.

In December, last, when M. Daskaloff was Minister of the Interior, a bomb was thrown at his automobile as he was leaving Parliament.

No one was injured and no damage was done.

YOKOHAMA WOULD MULCT FOREIGNERS

CITY MAINTAINS $150,000,000 DUE IN TAXES ON CONCESSIONS

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 25.—That Yokohama city officials are serious in their move to make foreigners living or doing business in what was the former concession pay taxes, in spite of the Hague ruling regarding taxes on perpetual leases, was indicated in a forceful manner recently when it was announced that 30,000 yen had been appropriated by the city to provide funds for bringing into being an organization which will be set apart to collect arrears of taxes which foreigners are to be asked to pay.

Foreigners are to be carefully card-indexed according to taxes they owe and agents are to be employed to get in touch with the foreigners concerned and inform them of the case. Tactful methods, according to the Yokohama city officials, will be employed, but in case these are not successful it is said that "other measures" what they are is not stated—will be employed. The municipality of Yokohama asserts that 300,000,000 yen is due it in taxes from foreigners.

Previous to this plan, officials of the Yokohama city office called on the foreign office in Tokio and declared that they proposed to collect these dues by "all means possible." The foreign office frowned severely on the idea, but as to how the State Department of Japan will view this new proposal for collecting taxes in arrears is not yet known.

Foreigners generally refuse to pay taxes and are sticking to the interpretation with regard to perpetual leases pronounced by the Hague court some years ago, an appeal against which the Japanese authorities once entered but lost.

Sixty Kegs of Rum Seized at Sierra Madre

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 26.—It is believed to be the largest quantity of liquor ever taken in Sierra Madre was seized late this afternoon at the home of Lewis Rocco, 282 Santa Anita Court, by City Marshal A. M. Brady. The raiding officers confiscated sixty kegs of barreled liquor. The liquor was buried in a cave under a goat-pen. By using steel rods with sharp points officers found the cave.

Rocco was taken into custody with Farinacca. A. Mariotti, a son-in-law, and Mariotti, it was declared, married Farinacca's daughter two years ago. Both defendants will be arraigned before Justice Forman tomorrow. The Farinacca home is one of the finest in the city. Deputies from the residence of Justice Forman.

Officers in the basement investigating officers found a number of large vats which it is said were used in making wine. About thirty kegs of liquor, most of which was empty, were seized.

Deputy Sheriff Udell was assisted in making the raid by Constable Jim Quinby of Monrovia. Other officers were Sheriff Oddwalker, Lee Hibbs and Bill Bamberger.

Coroner Discusses Use of Glass Container to be Dashed on Floor

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FRESNO, Aug. 26.—Plans for the use gas bombs of special manufacture in the warfare on bootleggers have been discussed by Chief of Police Frank Truax and District Atty. George R. Lovelace, according to a statement made yesterday by the former. No decision has been reached.

RAISIN BOOST PROPOSED

Sun-Maid Concern to Ask All Bakers to Specialize on Fruit Products Each Wednesday

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
FRESNO, Aug. 26.—Arrangements for a country-wide advertising campaign in September were announced here by J. A. Brodgen, sales and advertising manager of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers.

Bakery use of raisins will be particularly stressed. In announcing his plans, Grogdon said, in part:

"Newspapers will play a distinctive and significant part in the new campaign. They will be used exclusively to promote the manufacture and sale of bakery products containing raisins. It is an accepted fact that the bakery industry provides the biggest single outlet for raisin consumption. It deserves our best thought and intelligent sales effort. Our plan to increase bakery consumption and sales has been enthusiastically indorsed by the Retail Bakers' Association and the Wholesale Bakers' Association.

"Saturday is the bakers' biggest day. We propose to put two Saturdays in every week. Wednesday, the pivotal midweek day, will be a national raisin day every week. Bakers will be asked to specialize on raisin products every Wednesday. The Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning papers will carry the message in large, dominant space: 'Wednesday is raisin day. Bakers everywhere make raisin products fresh today. Serve raisin bread or pie on your table today. Ask for it at your favorite cafe.'"

MORE DAMS ARE NEEDED FOR WATER

Flood Control Engineer Urges Conservation of the Present Sources

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
POMONA, Aug. 26.—Large storage dams are more necessary in canyons near Pomona than check dams are in some of the smaller canyons, was the statement made by J. W. Reagan, county flood-control engineer, at a meeting here with the Chamber of Commerce flood-control committee. The larger dams must be built first to conserve the water, then the smaller check dams can be built, he said.

"The conservation of water is the biggest problem before the county today," said Mr. Reagan. "To keep pace with the fast-growing population, more water must be obtained. The present amount of water now being used will some day have to be used for domestic purposes only. Other water must be found for irrigation use."

That Mr. Reagan is looking into the future is evidenced by the fact that at present the water situation in Pomona shows ample supply for both domestic and irrigation use. At the rate that population is increasing all over Southern California, Mr. Reagan has demonstrated that in years to come water supply will be a big problem unless solved soon all over the south.

Asserted Booze Runners Nabbed With Auto Load

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]
ALHAMBRA, Aug. 26.—An asserted party of "booze runners" came to a halt in Alhambra early this morning, when officers stopped a large touring car on the Valley Boulevard near Marguerita street and found packed in the tonneau of the machine twenty-eight gallons of whisky in pint bottles. The three occupants of the car, two men and a woman, were arrested and are being held at the local jail on charges of violation of the Wright Act, cash bail of $2000 being set for each of the men and $500 for the woman.

The prisoners gave their names as Theodore Dusterhoft, 22 years of age, of 817 Acacia street, Glendale; Fred Epps, 26, of 3144 Blanchard street, Los Angeles, and Helen Jones, 166 East G street, Colton. Up to a late hour today none had succeeded in raising bail.

Officers Boone and Vigneau spotted the car at 4 o'clock this morning and their suspicions were aroused by a canvas stretched over the rear seat. When the officers came up one of the men threw out a pint bottle of whisky, it is said. A search of the contents of the car revealed 224 pint bottles neatly packed in paper shopping bags bearing the name of a well-known chain-store grocery, each bottle wrapped in paper, and eight bottles in each bag.

At the station the girl stated she was the "victim of circumstances," and was not implicated in the transportation of the liquor. It is thought the party was on the way to San Bernardino or Needles.

FIRST WINTER APPLES

Shipment From Yucaipa Valley Is Sent Here

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
REDLANDS, Aug. 26.—The first shipment of winter apples from the Yucaipa Valley was made yesterday when a consignment of King Davids went from the L. G. Cobb orchards to the J. W. Beasley, Jr., Company of Los Angeles. The apples being the first to market, are expected to bring a good price. They were of good size and excellent color.

Some cash sales of apples have been made in the valley and they are taken as an indication of good prices. E. M. Marks and F. M. Benton having sold their crops for 90 cents a field box. This makes 2¼ cents a pound for the King Davids, Winesaps, Rome Beauties and Delicious apples they have. G. A. Hover has an offer of $2 a box for his Delicious apples.

The finest pears and peaches on the Los Angeles market this year came from Yucaipa Valley orchards. The pears were sold for about $100 a ton and the peaches, especially the crop of J. H. Hale peaches, one of the finest in the section, was sold for 7 and 8 cents a pound.

The apple crop is large and the fruit of good quality.

CONCRETE CAUSEWAY TO REDUCE CRASHES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
OXNARD, Aug. 26.—Plans for construction of the new concrete causeways along the Rincon have been completed and approved by all members of the California State Railroad Commission, and work is being delayed only until the decision of the Southern Pacific Company regarding the portion of the expense to be borne by them is rendered. Improvements of the passageway beneath the Southern Pacific tracks near Ventura, also is included in the plans, the passage is being widened forty feet, and the railroad company is being asked to share part of that expense. The turn this way will be straightened out making accidents at this point less frequent.

Girls Bitten by Dogs; City May be Quarantined

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
MONROVIA, Aug. 26.—Monrovia may go under quarantine for rabies in the near future, according to Sanitary Officer A. E. Sheets, following the announcement that two little girls had been bitten by dogs, one of which died a short time later with every indication of rabies.

The victims are Frances Jackson, 7 years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson of South Monrovia, and Esther Strong, 4, daughter of Mrs. Roy Strong, 726 Valley View.

The local police force, under orders of Constable J. L. Quiggle, are rounding up every dog in the city, destroying strays and ordering others to be confined for the present.

A dog declared to be suffering with rabies in a violent form was shot by the officers yesterday after it had bitten eighteen other dogs. During the summer there have been infrequent cases of alleged rabies here and in Duarte, but present conditions apparently warrant drastic action on the part of the health authorities.

NEW REDLANDS HOMES

Two Residences Contracted for at Cost of $27,000

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
REDLANDS, Aug. 26.—The Redlands home section received a big boost yesterday when permits were taken out for two of the finest homes to be erected here this year. One is for Jay C. Sexton, vice-president of the First National Bank, and is to be erected on Cypress avenue near Alvarado to cost about $14,000. G. Huizing is to build the home, which will be of plaster in Spanish design of two stories.

The second is to be in the same neighborhood and will be built by Davis Donald for C. M. Mullen, a newcomer in Redlands and a brother of George Mullen, for several years a resident here. This will cost about $13,000 for the house alone and will have all modern features and tile roof.

As a result of these two permits the total for this month climbed and will in all probability equal August, which was the banner month of the year.

CITY ARCH PLANNED

Entrance Way to Orange Rapidly Nearing Realization

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
ORANGE, Aug. 26.—A municipal archway for Orange, plans for which have been prepared, is rapidly nearing realization, according to the joint Chamber of Commerce and City Council committee working on the details.

One plan represents a single arch across the street and another a more elaborate affair with supplementary arches across the sidewalks on either side.

The smallest will cost $3000 and the one most generally favored, $3600, according to estimates.

In either plan the framework will be of light steel construction with a covering of stucco in an appropriate shade. The word "Orange" in large electric letters will be scrolled across the top in a circular design.

The arch is to be erected on West Chapman avenue near Main street, where it can be viewed from the State Highway between Los Angeles and San Diego.

CHARGES DEBT LEVY DAMAGED BUSINESS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 26.—Irma B. Potter of Johanneaburg seeks to recover damages to the extent to $10,000 which she claimed were incurred in her business as a result of action on the part of the defendants, R. E. Wood and E. G. Wood, in levying an attachment on her place of business during a particularly busy period.

According to the complaint, the plaintiff owed the defendants $227 for supplies of meat and ice. After having granted an extension of time for payment of the debts, the plaintiff alleges, the defendants attached her place of business before the time for payment of the debt was due.

The complaint charges that Irma Potter's business was damaged to the extent of $10,000.

ESTABLISH NEW COURT

Long Beach Prepares to Name Superior Judge

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
LONG BEACH, Aug. 26.—The Long Beach branch of the Superior Court of Los Angeles county provided for by the last session of the State Legislature, will be established in quarters in the new City Hall on September 5, it was announced this morning. Although the assignment of a judge for the new branch will not be made until Monday by Presiding Judge Crail, it was generally believed here today that Superior Judge Ralph Clock, whose home is in Long Beach, will be named.

The City Council has officially set aside a portion of the sixth floor of the new City Hall here for the new courtroom and other offices will be provided for a branch of the County Clerk's division and for judge's chambers, it was announced. Action of the Council followed a conference here between Judge Crail and city officials.

UNCLE WALT IS CONVERTED TOO

Falls Victim to Charms of Southland

Thinks Seriously of Turning Orchardist

Tells of Impression in Verse Camouflage

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
DEL MAR, Aug. 26.—"Uncle Walt" Mason, inventor of camouflaged poetry, is thinking of becoming an orchardist, being convinced that under modern methods in Southern California he "still could turn out by the bale his deathless songs, while golden kale grew all around on trees."

The other day" Uncle Walt" drove from his home in La Jolla to visit Rancho Santa Fe, a 9000-acre project here which the Santa Fe Land Improvement Company, subsidiary of the Santa Fe Railway, has subdivided into scientifically planned units for orchardists.

The contrasts of its modern methods with those of the "dear old farm" of his boyhood days so impressed "Uncle Walt" that after his visit he sent L. G. Sinnard, manager of the project, the following:

When I was young 'twas with alarm I thought about the dear old farm, where there was naught to do but toil and sweat from a.m. till flocks of stars began to gem night's vault of deeper blue. The farmers then, astute and wise, took so much daily exercise they couldn't keep awake at night to even fret about the rates, the mortgage and the drought and many a rheumy ache.

I took a little ride today to look at Rancho Santa Fe, the latest enterprise where orchardists expect to hook success so easy they must look to golf for exercise. Where their good wives need merely change the clocks on each electric range and then go for a drive, sure that their dinners, safe from burn, will all be cooked just to a turn when they get home at 5.

Here scientists with lofty brows direct the planters and the plows and analyze the soil, and for each acre they advise what is most certain to prove wise, so none need vainly toil. When rain threatens they turn a switch and quickly flood each pipe and ditch with just the right amount; and to each door there leads a road that's good enough for any load, with no bad grades to mount.

Why, even bards devoid of guile, who woo the muse in caveman style and drag home rhymes like these, here still could turn out by the bale their deathless songs, while golden kale grew all around on trees. This modern ranch life has some charms not common to the dear old farms I knew in boyhood days. It yields the money we desire yet gives us time to twang the lyre and wreathe our brows with bays.

Sun-Maid Raisin Hurting Spanish Trade in Mexico

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
FRESNO, Aug. 26.—Spain's domination of the raisin market in Mexico is steadily being undermined by Sun-Maid growers from California, according to H. B. Lewis, Sun-Maid representative in the southern republic. He has just departed for his post after spending several days here in conference with officials of the raisin association.

"Because of the condition of the country," he said, "Mexico has been forced to call on the outside world for a great many food products, and hard as it is to believe, has to import such commodities as eggs, flour, lard and fresh and dried fruits.

"Virtually all these products are brought in from the United States with the exception of dried fruits and especially raisins, which largely have come from Spain. Sun-Maid raisins virtually were unknown in Mexico until last November when the association started its campaign in that country.

"Sales efforts have resulted now in excellent distribution in the sister republic."

Numerous importers, including the two largest in the country, have been won over to handle California instead of Spanish raisins, he said.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
RIVERSIDE, Aug. 26. — The new Southern Sierras Power Company will begin the construction of its new building early this fall, probably within thirty days, it became known today when President A. B. West of that company returned from a directors' meeting of the concern recently held in Denver.

SAILOR MYSTERY DEEPENED

One of Eight Missing at Port Luis Found With Broken Back; Foul Play Hinted

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 26.—The mystery of the disappearance of sailors from Union Oil Company steamers at Port San Luis was deepened when Fritz Johansen, from the steamship De Roche, was found with his back broken beneath a Pacific Coast Railway trestle, between Port San Luis and Avila.

Johansen was the eighth sailor to disappear mysteriously and the Sheriff's office is conducting an investigation. One of those who disappeared was a captain. Several of the missing men left money and valuables aboard; the Captain left behind personal belongings and more than $100 in back pay.

Shortly after the disappearance of one of the men a body was found floating in the Santa Barbara Channel, but it could not be identified.

Johansen, in a critical condition, is in a hospital here, and is unable to tell what happened to him. It was thought at first he had fallen from the trestle. In regard to the other men, officers believed they had become intoxicated and had fallen overboard or had wandered away. Johansen is the first of the missing to be accounted for unless the drowned man was one of them. Officials are at a loss to account for the disappearances, unless on the theory that an organized gang of thugs is at work.

SLAYER OF WIFE LAYS IT TO RAGE

Jealousy and Fear That Rival Would Have Her is Blamed by Fresnan

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
FRESNO, Aug. 26.—Jealousy led C. C. Murphy to slay his divorced wife and wound himself here a week ago according to a confession that the police said the man has made.

Murphy, a resident of Fresno, shot and killed Dora Murphy at her home, 919 P street, August 17 and then sent two bullets into his own body. Driving away in an auto, he ran the car against a telephone pole, wrecking it and injuring himself further.

The police say he has told them he was actuated by the alleged attentions of other men to the woman, particularly a man for whom she was employed as housekeeper.

Yesterday on his cot in the County Hospital Murphy made a long statement to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Gilbert Jertberg. He said he had made many attempts at reconciliation with his former wife, but that she had refused to return to him and their children, Viril 17 years of age, and Dorothy, 14. On the day of the killing, according to the purported confession, Murphy talked to the woman for a long time without changing her attitude. He then went to his automobile standing in front of her house, obtained an automatic pistol that he carried in the car and killed her so that she could not "shower her affections upon another," the confession recited. While driving away from the house he fainted from loss of blood.

PLAN EXPANSION

New Long Beach Club's Aim Is Huge Annexation Program

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
LONG BEACH, Aug. 26.—With the launching here of the Greater Long Beach Club tentative plans for a campaign that will have for its object the annexation of all territory to Long Beach between the city and the Orange county line on the east and Compton on the north have been prepared, it was announced here today.

Organization of the club will be completed next Wednesday at a meeting of thirty representative business and professional men of the city. F. R. Dunn is chairman of the committee appointed at a meeting of the realty board recently to work out the plans.

One of the purposes of the club will be the directing of movements launched by residents of various territories adjacent to Long Beach for annexation to the city. Although the general plans of the club are ambitious ones, in that it is the goal of the organization to eventually annex to Long Beach all the unannexed territory for miles around, the annexation of the Signal Hill district will be the first movement to be taken up by the club, it was said.

City Council to Aid in Forming Lodge for Elks

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]
ORANGE, Aug. 26.—A municipal census in connection with the plan here to form an Elks' lodge will be taken at an early date, according to an order issued by the City Council at a recent meeting.

The Council, wishing to know the exact population of Orange for advertising and other purposes, has agreed to help the Elks finance the canvass.

The Elks are interested in having a census taken because in order to form a lodge here the Exalted Ruler of the lodge must be furnished with a municipal, State or Federal census showing the town to have a population in excess of 5000 white people.

While Orange's population is estimated at 8500, wit habout 7500 of these whites, the figures are based on water connections and are not definite enough. However, there is no fear that Orange cannot show a white population greatly in excess of the lodge requisite.

City Clerk W. A. White has been instructed to appoint deputies and proceed with the enumeration which is expected to require two weeks to complete. A thorough census is to be taken, as there will be no Federal census for seven years.

VIGILANT BODY WILL FIGHT OXNARD CRIME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
OXNARD, Aug. 26.—Owing to the large number of crimes committed in this city during the past two weeks, it was voted at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last evening, that a vigilant committee of about fifty business men be detailed as policemen. They will be subject to call at any time help in curbing crime is needed. An average of two burglaries have been committed here each night for two weeks.

ORANGE COUNTY WILL CELEBRATE

Plans Laid for Pageant on Armistice Day

Football Game and Other Events Scheduled

November 12 Announced as Official Time

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
ORANGE, Aug. 26.—While still in the tentative stage, plans for the fourth annual Orange county Armistice Day celebration which will be conducted in Orange this fall are progressing to a point where they are beginning to take encouraging shape, according to George W. Sherwood, chairman of the historical committee which has charge of plans for the mammoth pageant to be given in connection with the affair.

The celebration, given annually by county Legion posts, rotates to a different city each year. This year Orange Post 132, American Legion, will handle the affair with the aid of the city.

DATE IS NOVEMBER 12

As Armistice Day falls on Sunday this year, the official date has been fixed for Monday, November 12.

According to Sherwood, who with his committee has been working on plans for several months, civic, social and educational institutions have been asked to participate in the celebration.

A pageant depicting leading events in American history will pass in review through local streets.

The historical committee, headed by Sherwood, has completed the undertaking of arranging the various subjects in the tableaux and assignments are now being made.

PLAN FOOTBALL GAME

Various committees have been named to handle details of the celebration. Among various features in addition to the pageant, are a football game, organ recital, dancing, speaking, fireworks display, band concerts, dramatic entertainment and vaudeville numbers. The football game is to be played on the Orange High School athletic field.

At least six naval bands will be on hand for the occasion. An invitation has been extended to Gov. Richardson to participate in the celebration and deliver an address during the afternoon. The Governor executive likely will occupy a box in the judge's stand.

SHARPSHOOTERS TO VISIT CAMP PERRY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
SAN DIEGO, Aug. 26.—Five San Diego shapshooters, selected from the Four Hundred and Sixty-third and Four Tundred and Sixty-sixth Companies, National Guard, to compete in the national rifle contests at Camp Perry, Ohio, next month, will leave here tomorrow for the East. The detachment includes Capt. Millard Greenbaum, Lieut. J. Thompson, and Sergts. T. A. Lamb, Rodney R. Reese and Fred L. Fenton. This is the third consecutive year that Sert. Lamb has been selected to represent the California National Guard at the Camp Perry shoot. He is expected to be a keen contender for first honors, as he just won the State championship rifle competition at Oakland, scoring 695 out of a possible 700 points.

QUARTET HEARD BY RADIO FANS

Zoellner Family Furnishes Excellent Program

Sacred Services Given in Morning Period

Two Organ Recitals Also Are Broadcast

BY BEN A. MARKSON

Dignity and pride in their steadfastness to the ideal of musical art is one of the outstanding attributes of the members of the fine Zoellner Quartet who appeared in a chamber music recital last night. Their concert, given in The Times studio, was such as draws the most sincere response from devotees to the best music.

The Zoellner Quartet, cornerstone of the Zoellner Conservatory of Music, is composed of Joseph, Sr., Joseph, Jr., Antoinette and Amandus Zoellner. European and American concert circles have cause to hold them in esteem, for their string ensemble, once heard, is a remembrance of conformity in temperament and aristocracy of rendition.

One cannot help but feel the fidelity to standard which goads the efforts of these artists. They reveal no penchant to dazzle by attacking difficult constructions; striving, on the other hand to assert a melodic finesse, even though the choice falls to marked simplicity. Note, for instance, their selection last night of MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," and Grainger's "Molly on the Shore," an Irish reel. The effect in the former, by the way, specially arranged by Joseph, Sr., was one of sure and lovely appeal; in the latter, the pulse of liveliness and lightness of heart.

EXCELLENT BALANCE

Not that there is an avoidance of depth or of intricacy in phrasing. One can hardly ascribe intimation of this sort to the theme and variations based on Schubert's song, "Death and the Maiden," so splendidly rendered by the quartet; nor, again, to Moor's Suite for Two Violins and Piano, Op. 144, with its movements andante, vivace, adagio and allegro giocoso. The suite was played by Antoinette and Amandus, violins, and Joseph, Jr., piano. The quartet numbers were presented by Antoinette and Amandus, violins; Joseph, Sr., viola, and Joseph Jr., violoncello.

To those alike, who listened in or failed to hear the Zoellner Quartet, a mere glance at the remainder of the titles will convey the complete beauty and balance of the chamber recital: "Hymnus," by Hartmann; "Humming Bird," by Bragdon; "Berceuse," by Ilyinski; "Russian Dance," by Rimsky-Korsakow, and "Traumerei," by Schumann.

MRS. WELLS SOLOIST

Mrs. W. C. Wells, soprano, was the soloist for the forenoon sacred services. She was accompanied at the Knabe by Mrs. F. E. Stewart. Together with the powerful sermon, delivered by Rev. Thomas Lutman, the text of which will be found in the church columns of this issue, the hymnal songs completed a reverent broadcast session. Mrs. Wells sang with fervent grace "Does Jesus Care," and "His Eye Is on the Sparrow."

The spiritual force of Rev. Lutman's sermon can best be told by an unusual incident that occurred while he was speaking. A man listening outside a window of the studio went to the pastor, and with tears streaming from his eyes, said he had been so deeply touched that his faith in divinity had been revived.

KHJ broadcast two superb organ recitals by line telephony from the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Arthur Blakeley, celebrated organist, at the Ewart Watchorn memorial organ, played at 10:30 a.m. and again at 7 p.m. The marvelous voice of the organ was heard in the beauties of introduction and allegro, "Symphony in D Minor," by Haydn; "Pastorale," by Lemare, and "Ave Maria," by Henselt.

PLANS LANDING FIELD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 26.—Maj. Max Fleischmann, polo and airplane fan, is planning a private polo ground and airplane landing field on his large estate between Summerland and Carpinteria. Fleischmann has several big planes, none of which has been brought here because of the lack of adequate landing facilities.

He holds that policing is needed and that the bill seems to fill the requirements. The District Attorney will present his opinion before the supervisors at their September meeting.

FLATTERS SUCCEEDS IN FILM SWINDLE

WOMAN PAYS $13,000 FOR CHANCE TO OUTSHINE FILM STARS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Two men and three women, supposed leaders of a confidence gang, are expected to be arrested this week on complaint of Mrs. Henry J. Reusman, Brooklyn, who charges she was defrauded of $13,000.

Nita Naldi, Nazimova, Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge — any one of the most popular stars —were to be made jealous of Mrs. Reusman when she went in the movies, the gang promised. Her beauty was to be known around the world; her name would be in electric lights of Broadway; her name would be on the lips of millions; she would be the toast of the town.

Few good-looking women of 56 could resist such a prospect. Mrs. Reusman didn't. She was photographed, and the trial film showed up so well the producers persuaded her to invest $13,000 in a $1,000,000 stock company which was to handle her films.

But the film never was made; Mrs. Reusman waited for months, eating lemons and bobbing her hair in order to be in condition without getting the wonderful chance to out-star "Our Mary."

So the case is now in the hands of her lawyer, Rufus L. Perry, who tomorrow will ask the arrest of the producers.

Mayor Sets Aside August 28 as Public Holiday

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Aug. 26.—Mayor Charles L. Cliff has issued a proclamation designating Tuesday, the 28th inst., a public holiday for the citizens of Whittier, the occasion being the annual community picnic, which is to be held this year in Ganesha Park, Pomona.

Messrs. Orcutt and Remington will be in charge of the prizes and Mark Fletcher will make the awards. Morris Peele will be in charge of the transportation and a number of large busses have been chartered, although most persons probably will go in private machines. C. A. Matteson is to be in charge of food arrangements, and coffee, lemonade and ice cream will be furnished on the grounds.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Two are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter separate, stating what tests are desired. Make sample of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for reference, with no marks of identification on samples, will hereafter receive no attention. Analyses are made free of charge.

Wollastonite

LONE PINE, Aug. 15.—Question: Please classify and test the attached sample.

"SUBSCRIBER."

Answer: Chemical reactions prove that the specimen is a variety of pyroxene with a lime base, but it from pyroxene differs in form and optical characters. The sample is brittle. Many varieties of the rock are tough, and the composition of the mineral is lime silicate.

Carbonates Absent

RANDSBURG, Aug. 15.—Q.: I am mailing you under separate cover a sample taken from a ledge at a depth of twenty feet. This material leaches out of this ledge on vein twelve feet wide. I would like to known what it contains. Thanking you for past favors.

"PROSPECTOR."

A.: The granular mixture contains silicious pebbles and altered matter. By chemical tests we find niter present in low percentage with more or less sodium; probably as siliphate.

A Mixture

YUMA (Ariz.) Aug. 16.—Q.: I am sending you by parcel post two samples; one is the white you wanted for further tests and the other is from the same ledge. It contains a shiny substance and I was thinking it might be silver. I would like very much if you would tell me what it is. M.

A.: The white crystal mineral carries lime carbonate chiefly. There is some little strontium and anhydrite (gypsum) in the mass. The material you suspected to be silver is microscopic pyrite.

Palladium Present

BOZEMAN (Mont.) Aug. 17.—Q.: The sample I am sending to you is supposed to carry gold, silica, iridium and magnetite. Some of the material in the sample is supposed to be of use in cutting stones, and in metal working. To whom should we apply for advice as to where to market the material? The lead is said to be from nineteen feet to 400 feet wide, a mile and several hundred feet deep. C.

A.: The granular matter carries gold and palladium; in very low percentages. Magnetic iron, silica, aluminum silicate present with a fair percentage of microscopic and crystallized garnet. Corundum traces.

This sample looks like the sands occurring on the Cherry Creek placers, some twenty-six miles from Bozeman, and fourteen miles from Norris, Mont., and once placered by the writer.

On the sales-end of your inquiry it may be stated that this department of The Times takes no interest, but it would seem to be necessary to separate the traces of gold and palladium, and save the garnets by fluming the gravel and calling for a liberal supply of water.

Tantalum a Trace

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Q.: This sample is from the Arizona desert. Please test for Tantalum, and oblige. B.

A.: The sample reacts also for iron, manganese and copper.

CEDAR CITY (Utah) Aug. 17.—Q.: Please classify the sample. N.

A.: It is named in the subheading. It is a rock, and of doubtful commercial value. The rock contains no uranium.

Magnesite

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Q.: Can you tell me what this rock is? I found it fifteen miles east of Victorville. There's a mine of it. S.

A.: The sample is low grade, and impure.

Mountain Rats Present

BISHOP, Aug. 18.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of a substance I recently found in Nevada. It seems to be a flow from lime as it is in a solid lime formation. There is a vivid blood red discoloration of the lime in the center of these fissures and the fissures containing this matter extend for at least 1 feet on each side. On the top of the cliffs there are a few scrubby pine trees. Elevation about 7000 feet. Would you please advise me what it is and if it is of any commercial value. V.

A.: The sample resemble hydrocarbon matter in appearance. As a matter of fact it is somewhat on the order of guano, and, it is a variety of fertilizer found in the hills at many points of the Far West in limited quantities.

Six Samples

NIPTON, Aug. 18.—Q.: I came to life again with some samples south of Crescent. No. 1 is from an old claim and I have located others from around the hills. I would like to know what they contain.—B.

A.: There is no No. 1 specimen. No. 2 is the rock hornblende (gabbro.) No. 3 is lime carbonate (caliche) and it carries no water soluble (available) potash. No. 4 is in part altered jasper (quartz) which iron oxides and titaniferous iron; manganese present and no silver—of mineralogy—in the rock. No. 5 is a burnt up igneous rock; iron manganese—present. Another grayish No. 4 specimen is a mixture of brecciated and conglomerate matter; water soluble potash absent. The samples probably carry silver. All of them milled and panned show (traces only) free gold. Glad to know that you have "resurrected!"

Hydrocarbon Absent

INGLEWOOD, Aug. 18.—Q.: Please examine if this earth is oil bearing.—G.

A.: The nodular mixture of clay and lime carbonate is one of the minerals found in oil-bearing territories.

Free Gold Trace

BURBANK, Aug. 19. — Q.: Please analyze this rock for gold and silver and oblige.—D.

A.: For silver value please consult assayers.

Not Human Bones

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Q.: I am sending you two cardboard boxes with seven samples wrapped in paper and marked from 1 to 6 inclusive. One sample is seven petrified bones found with samples Nos. 1 and 2. They were sticking up through the green sandstone of No. 1. Other bones were found there also; a bone of the forearm and one of the leg just below the knee. These were classified by an M. D., but I do not think they are human bones? If they are of human antiquity the specimen (original) must have been very small. I have showed the green to several mining boys, friends of mine, but they "no sabe" say nickel, tin, and iron phosphate? M.

A.: The samples in one box "from Nevada" are greenish sandstone containing amygdaloid matter (pebbles) but chiefly iron and magnesium silicate. Iron sulphates sparingly present with traces of phosphates. No. 3 carries no tungsten: some baryte. No. 4 is not oil sand. No. 5 is a variety of hornblende. Red mountain sample carries more or less alunite; potash in low per cent present. The bones react for lime carbonate with silica, and two of these are from an old-time mammoth. They occur, probably, in one of the "Spaghetti Lime" localities of Nevada. One of the greenish samples is of magnesium-iron silicate with hornblende present, and it is probably of value as a base for roofing material.

Pioneer Wells of Hovey Hills Are Being Cleansed

The Kendon Petroleum Company, headed by eKnneth Wallace, is making progress in cleaning out the pioneer wells of the Hovey Hills district, south of Twenty-five Hills, which were drilled ten years ago on the government property which has long been known as the Midway Oil Company holdings, consisting of 346 acres.

It is the plan of the Kendon Company to drill several wells following the cleaning out of the old holes on the property. Hugh B. Evans and Mrs. Theodore Bell, owners of a portion of the same section, are preparing to start an active drilling campaign in the near future.

The Mascot Oil Company following its hard luck on its No. 1 well on its twenty acres on Section 36, 32-23 in the Hovey Hills district, is drilling at a depth of 940 feet in its No. 2 well.

More than 200 feet of oil sand has been passed through, reports say. This well is located about 300 feet west of the No. 1 well, which so far has failed to be a producer. The Mascot is now building roads for the No. 3 well, which is to be started immediately following the completion of No. 2.

RICH IN COPPER

Ozark Property Ore Assays Well; Equipment Ordered

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLENDALE (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—A Glendale corporation is operating the Ozark copper property, about four miles west of Hot Springs Junction and about a mile from the Hassayampa River. Three carloads of ore shipped are said to have given assays above 20 per cent copper, with maximum assays for silver of nineteen ounces and about an ounce in gold. Hoisting and compressor equipment is to be installed and there is hope of early erection of a concentrator. James A. Caskey of this city is president of the operating company.

VANADIUM OUTPUT IS CONTRACTED FOR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WICKENBURG (Ariz.) Aug. 26. Report has come that the entire output of the Consolidated Vanadium Company has been contracted for by the German Alloy Company, after tests of the product by Lee Doud & Co., in New York and by the metallurgists of the Alloy Company in Germany. It is asserted that the metal was of the finest quality ever received at the German works. Milling is to be resumed at an early date, with production of concentrates for shipment through Los Angeles Harbor. The mine is the old Dragon property, formerly owned by Frank Mantey.

PROGRESO SILVER MINE SOLD TO CALIFORNIANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—Announcement has been made of the transfer to a California company represented by Stanley Dunlevy and Mrs. J. W. Boaz of Los Angeles, of the famous Progreso mine in Sonora, near Batuc, on the Moctezuma River, about 100 miles east of Minas Prietas. The property lies about 2000 feet above Batuc, on a steep mountain side. For many years it has been a large silver producer, the ore handled in a mill that is to be doubled in capacity by the purchasers. The sale was made through J. W. Macfarlane, a local mining engineer.

WELL REACHES 5972 LEVEL

With the 6000-foot level as its goal, the General Petroleum Corporation has reached the 5972-foot level in Clock No. 1 at Long Beach and is drilling ahead. This will prove the deepest well in the local field, if it is placed on production.

RANDSBURG ACTIVITIES INCREASING

Second Shaft Being Sunk by Silver Basin Mining Company

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

RANDSBURG, Aug. 26.—Three weeks ago a desolate, deserted hillside, today a veritable beehive of activity with crews of carpenters and masons erecting office buildings, engine room, change rooms for the miners and other buildings necessary for the successful operation of a mine. This is the record being written by the Silver Basin Mining Company where a sensational strike of high grade gold ore was recently made.

At a point where the original discovery was made a shaft was sunk twenty feet on the ore body and the values were found to be stronger as depth was acquired. General Manager Leonard Loehr then began work on shaft No. 2, a distance of ninety feet from No. 1, where the vein was again encountered and where the ore body is being followed and is found to widen with depth. This latter shaft will be the main working shaft if present development plans are followed.

The ore shoot of high grade values has now been from a distance of 130 feet on the surface and to depths of from twenty to forty feet, thus assuring, according to mining men an extensive ore body of high grade values.

Two crews are now engaged in sinking shaft No. 2 and the third shift will be added as soon as power and machinery, which has been ordered has been installed. The plant is to be electrically equipped and will be of sufficient capacity to sink to deep levels.

Another plan of development is to be launched within a few days according to Manager Loehr when the Blandhawk vein, which parallels the Murray or high grade for a distance of 2250 feet will be carefully explored. Surface samples taken from distant points on this ledge show values in both gold and silver and Loehr is of the opinion that they will increase in value with depth.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Demand for new crop California dried peaches on the basis of opening prices named by the California Peach and Fig Growers' Association and independent packers was reported light at the close Saturday.

The spot prune situation is virtually demoralized. The trade has no idea as to the size of the consignment stocks which the association is said to have in this market and lacking any posting on the available quantity of prunes holders are panicky and are eager to sell. This has resulted in a marked downward trend of prices.

Jobbers are placing business on California raisins to cover them until the new crop is available for shipment. The spot market, however, continues quiet and nominally unchanged.

Evaporated apples remain quiet on both spots and futures.

New pack almonds were firm at opening, the independents quoting 1c under the California Almond Growers' Exchange. An indication of prices is a tentative offer of nonpareils at 18½c. Brazil nuts are attracting attention and the market continues to show a steady undertone.

FRESH FRUITS

There was an improved demand for imported lemons at the closing sale last week, and prices recovered after a sharp break early in the sale. The cargoes of the steamship Ida and the steamship Dante Alleghieri showed much better quality than other recent offerings. Four small cargoes of lemons are now in port and probably will sell this week.

CANNED FOODS

There was an encouraging improvement in the canned food situation reported during last week's trading. While prices showed no marked advance in any line the demand did improve, and brokers were more optimistic at the close of Saturday than they have been for some weeks back. The buyers have decided that they do not want to stock up heavily, and nothing appears sufficiently important to sway them. Tuna fish, particularly, held attention most of the week.

Pineapple is in limited supply and is strongly held. Apricots are quiet and dull.

SUGAR

After ruling unsettled for the greater part of last week a firmer undertone developed in raw sugars, the price going from 2.9375c to 4.0625c cost and freight on comparatively small sales. The cut in refined on the part of all refiners to 7.50c has brought about a good demand and it is now extremely unlikely that further cuts will be made. Favorable reports have been received from abroad during the week with large sales of Javas. Sales of 15,000 tons of Java to Russia has lifted the pressure off the British market.

The strength of raw futures was the outstanding feature of the close of the market last week.

COFFEE

Coffee futures had a nervous and unsettled tone all last week owing to disquieting news from Brazil asserting a modification of the restriction of recipts at Rio so that 20,000 bags daily could be brought down. Under the existing regulations shippers were unable to conduct business on a supply and demand basis and rumors of resignations of high Brazilian officials had been heard. So far as future trading was concerned, the position of September on the exchange was considered extremely strong and it was thought likely that some long interests would merge which would bring sharp upturns in the near future.

COPPER

Last week was the best in the copper market in point of orders of any week during the month and for several months past. The price firmed from 13 7-8 to 14 1-8 cents a pound for electrolytic delivered over the next few months.

A large amount of copper was sold abroad last week to Germany, England, France, Italy, Sweden and Austria.

London metal exchanges closed for spot standard at £64 2s 6d; futures, £64 17s 6d.

LEAD

The lead market was unchanged at 6½ cents for the leading interest and 6.70 cents for the independents in New York last week. While the St. Louis market ranged from 6.40 to 6.45 cents a pound, an increased activity showed up in the London market, and as a result prices advanced. Spot closed on London metal exchanges at £24 7s 6d; futures were the same. Trading on the London market amounted to 700 tons of spot and 2300 tons of futures.

ZINC

Zinc was 6.50 cents a pound at St. Louis all last week and the market continued strong through heavy buying abroad, restricted production and better inquiry here. The advance in London was checked late in the week and the net change was a gain of 2s 6d for spot and a net loss of 7s 6d for futures, spot closing at £33 6d and futures at £32 10s. Spot trades on the metal exchange in London for the week were 350 tons and 3500 tons of futures.

TIN

Rally and reaction was the story of tin last week both here and abroad. The net change for the week was a gain of ½ cent in straits here while the London market closed with net gains ranging from £5 to £6 6d. In the domestic market last week practically all deliveries and positions of straits and straits shipments closed at 39 3-4 to 40 cents a pound. London spot closed at pds 189, 15s; futures pds 190, £189, 15s; futures £190, 17s 6d; straits £193 10s.

Trade for the week on the London metal exchange amounted to 190 tons of spot and 2610 tons of futures.

PETROLEUM

Over production of crude oil in California has continued to operate against the market for both crude and refined products during the past week. There have been further price reductions in gasoline, principally in the mid-continent territory and on the Pacific Coast.

Petroleum imports into the United Kingdom in the week ended Aug. 20 totaled 40,000,000 imperial gallons, against 21,000,000 gallons in the preceding week.

BONDS

Bonds were quietly traded on Saturday though prices did not generally follow the easing tendency in the stock market.

Rails were inclined to be irregular although the Erles were again active and strong, finishing near the best figures of the short session.

Foreign loans have fluctuated largely according to the ebb and flow of the foreign exchange markets.

BUTTER

Receipts of butter last Saturday were 8533 packages. The market showed no material change last Saturday, nor were there any attempts made to molest a price of 44½ cents on creamery extras. Creamery high score, 45 @ 45½ cents; unsalted creamery high score, 46½ @ 47 cents; State dairy tubs, finest, 43 @ 44 cents.

EGGS

Receipts of eggs last Saturday were 16,534 cases. The market was very quiet last Saturday. Fresh gathered extras, 55@58 cents; New Jersey hennery white select extras, 55 @ 57 cents; do, brown, 43 @ 53 cents; Pacific Coast white extras 45 @ 47 cents.

BEANS, RICE

Buying orders last Saturday in the New York bean market were small and dullness was the general complaint during the last half of the week but with reduced prices on red kidneys, sellers stood pat on standard varieties.

Rice is steady although more activity is expected in the course of another few days with the appearance of the new crop.

NEW WELLS PLACED ON PRODUCTION

Total of Daily Output at Huntington Beach Given as 111,192 Barrels

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 26. Two new wells were placed on production in this field during the week, adding 1650 barrels to the total daily output which was 111,192 barrels daily. There is one new rig being erected by the C. J. R. Oil Company, 400 feet south of and 115 feet west of the northwest corner of the southwest corner of Section 6, Township 6, South Range 10. It will be known as the Lamb No. 1.

It is one mile east of production. The company was formed and is being financed by thirty persons, and M. B. Cohen of Los Angeles is treasurer and general manager. The well will be drilled by the California Drilling Company and will be taken to a depth of at least 5000 feet.

There are now 473 rigs in the field, 107 are drilling, 272 are on production, 103 are incomplete, 160 are flowing and seventy-one are on the beam. The daily average per well is 410 barrels, a loss of sixteen barrels per well from last week's average.

The largest of the new producers is the Amalgamated Oil Company's Miley-Keck No. 16, which is flowing 1000 barrels of twenty-six gravity oil at a depth of 3860. It contains a 6 1-4 oil string of screen casing of 827 feet. The gas pressure at the casing head registers 135 pounds. It is located on the south side of Seventeenth street near the viaduct and is an offset to the Sun Oil Company's No. 3 and the Petroleum Midway Company's Thornton No. 2-A.

Selby-Root & Company placed Clark No. 2 on production with a flow of 650 barrels of twenty-three gravity oil at a depth of 4995 feet. It contains an oil string of 430 feet of 4 3-4-inch slotted casing and the gas pressure registers 275 pounds at the casing head. The well is not yet clear of emulsion and this accounts for the low gravity of the oil. When it is cleaned out there is no doubt but that the gravity and production will increase materially. It is located on the Clark lease northwest of the Shell Company's Ashton lease in the north end of the field and is an offset to Shelby, Root & Company's Curtis No. 2 and Clark No. 1 and also the Reliance Oil Company's Globe No. 4.

ARTESIA MAY EXTEND FIELD

The Artesia Oil Company, drilling a well near the city limits of Artesia, reports optimistic shows at more than 3800 feet. The development of a producer at that place would extend the Santa Fe Springs producing area via the original Meyers lease several miles.

GYPSUM DEPOSITS NEAR PARKER ALMOST PURE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARKER (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—About 6,000,000 tons of marketable material are said to have been developed on the property of the Parkford Gypsum Company, sixteen miles west of Parker, in Riverside county. Three prospect tunnels have been driven into the deposit, which is reported one of remarkable approach to purity. Plans have been made for a seven-mile branch railroad from the Santa Fe station at Vidal.

SENATE MINE YIELDS 5 PER CENT IN COPPER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CONGRESS, Aug. 26.—The old Senate mine, is being operated by Herman Hershkowitz, who made a recent shipment of ore to the Hayden smelter. The net return from the first car of ore is given as $1300. The fact that the ore gave a return of 5 per cent copper has occasioned considerable interest as that shipped from the district before from the Old Congress mine had principal values in gold with little or no copper content.

OHIO CAPITALISTS TO OPERATE HALL MINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARADISE, Aug. 26.—The group of Ohio capitalists which took over the Hall mining claims, near Paradise, is represented by Gen. A. L. New of Los Angeles, who has been in charge of considerable development work during the last six months prospecting the property before a decision was made to purchase. A company will be organized soon known as the New-Vail Mining Company to take over and operate the mine.

Do You Realize You Must Pay These Taxes

Ask your neighbor what he knows about Estate and Inheritance Taxes, and the chances are that he will say, "Nothing!" His probable impression is that they do not affect him.

Lack of knowledge regarding these taxes is due to:

1. General mis-conception that they are for the wealthy only.
2. Recent enactment. They're new!
3. The fact that the effect has not been felt by all.

It is a sorrowful situation but none the less true, that usually it takes a calamity that "strikes home" to awaken people to the need of adequate protection.

Before it is too late—investigate the effect of these taxes on your estate and how a Pacific Mutual Inheritance Tax Contract will prevent its shrinkage. Call, write or telephone. There is no obligation.

News of the Oil Wells and Their Products

TORRANCE FIELD EXPECTS BOOST

Three Wells Drilling Will Prove Development

One May Beat Record Made for High Gravity

Deeper Sands Are Indicated by Core Tests

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TORRANCE, Aug. 26.—Three wells that are believed to have an important bearing on the future development of the north and northeast section of this field, reached critical stages yesterday. They are the Superior Oil Company's Bowles No. 1, down approximately 3100 feet; Superior's Shedd No. 1, being baled out to 3500 feet for a water test; and the Peterson-Barker Syndicate's wild cat well at Two Hundred and Thirteenth street and Western avenue, being drilled through the cement.

The Bowles well is the farthest north of the group being drilled along Carson street, in a region that has puzzled geologists considerably. Five blocks west and a block south of the Bowles well the Chanslor-Canfield Midway, thirty days ago brought in the highest gravity well in the field. The district before that well was brought in was generally believed to be in the low-gravity area, but now there is a belief that the Bowles well will be a better well than the Chanslor-Canfield Midway's Torrance No. 6.

The formations in the Bowles well are said to be running a little shallower than those farther to the south.

The Shedd well, which is two blocks east and two blocks south of the Bowles well, was drilled to 3630 feet and cemented at about 3500 feet. This is the deepest any well in the field has cemented for the first sand and apparently indicated a sharper dip to the east in the structure that had been anticipated. This well is now being baled out above the cement to see if there is a leak in the casing, and if found all right will be drilled through today.

The last core at 3630 feet before the well was cemented was in promising oil sand.

WEEK OF TROUBLE

Torrance wells on the west side had their share of trouble during the week. The Hub's Smith No. 2 just after being put on production Thursday developed a leak in the first 100 feet of casing, and it was necessary to let the well die down until the leak could be located. Yesterday preparations were made to turn the well into the tanks.

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway's Torrance No. 9, offsetting Smith No. 2, had to be recemented for the third time when the water test showed that it was still wet. Just west of Smith No. 2 the Smith No. 1 on the same lease, and Gilmore No. 1, on an adjoining lease, are said to be developing water troubles, both apparently in the casing. In the same locality the U. S. Royalties failed to get a shut-off on the first cement job and the well is now standing recemented.

The Standard's deep test well, Felker No. 1, developed a leak in the casing while the cement was being drilled out at 4358 feet to test the deep sand for production. The well is being recemented. There are two strata of water sand above the point where the Felker well is cemented off, and both are believed to contain salt water, but neither is expected to have any effect upon production if they can be cemented off.

DRILLING IS ACTIVE

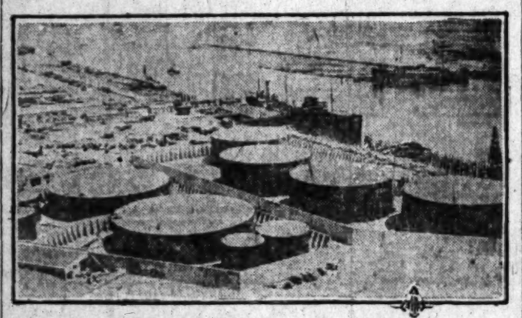
There was no let-down in the drilling activity south and east of the Midway Northern well during the week. Wilkes & Titus put lumber on the ground for two new rigs, one is three blocks east of the Midway Northern well on the old Redondo-Long Beach Boulevard and the other is three blocks north of the first rig, just off Arlington street, the main street connecting Torrance and Lomita. Between the two Wilkes & Titus wells the Chansler-Canfield Midway and U. S. Royalties have put up rigs for two wells. Five blocks south of the Midway Northern well the White Star Oil Company has put lumber on the ground for one well, and one block to the east of this the Universal Consolidated Oil Company has completed the derrick for its first well on a twenty-acre lease.

The Petroleum Midway Company put lumber on the ground for a rig two blocks east of Arlington street and just off the old Redondo-Long Beach Boulevard, but ceased work on that location and a number of other partially completed rigs in the field before the end of the week.

According to officials at the company's headquarters in Los Angeles, they found it necessary to call a halt on most of their operations in Torrance because of shortage of crews. In the past fourteen days the Petroleum Midway has started five new wells here.

BIG TANKER CLINCHES CONTRACT

Standard Oil Vessel Gets Initial Cargo



First Delivery in 36,000,000-Barrel Deal

STARTING to make deliveries more than a month ahead of the date named in the contract, the California Petroleum Corporation during the past week loaded out at Los Angeles Harbor the first two hankers to take oil in fulfillment of its 36,000,000-barrel contract with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The tankers were the M. F. Elliott and the Thomas H. Wheeler, both the property of the Standard, and each taking 17,000 barrels of Southern California petroleum.

The oil was loaded at the new loading station which was recently completed at the harbor by the Petroleum Midway Company, Ltd., in connection with its big pipe lines from Santa Fe Springs, Long Beach and Huntington Beach to the tank farm at Watson Junction.

The entire contract will be shipped from Los Angeles Harbor at the rate of 1,000 000 barrels, or thirteen shiploads, per month. It will all be produced in fields contiguous to Los Angeles and transported to tidewater through pipe lines of the Petroleum Midway Company, a subsidiary of the California Petroleum.

Vessels of the Standard Oil Company, operating the largest tanker fleet in the world, will carry the oil—468 shiploads of it—in three years.

At Watson Station, California's new petroleum capital, located a mile north of Wilmington, the Petroleum Midway has established a huge tank farm, where millions of barrels of oil will be stored. On the Los Angeles Harbor water front along the east shore of Mormon Island, the company recently erected one of the most modern loading terminals in the world. Twenty thousand barrels of oil can be pumped into the tanks of a steamer in one hour. The M. F. Elliott and Thomas H. Wheeler were each loaded in less than four hours.

Four giant storage tanks, with a combined capacity of 320,000 barrels, carry reserve loads sufficient for four of the largest tankers. To give the harbor protection against the fire menace, a two-foot fire wall, nineteen feet high and backed by steel, surrounds the tanks.

Directly opposite the Petroleum Midway site, and fronting on the west shore of Mormon Island, is the new loading terminal of the Shell Company. The two plants occupy the entire width of the island.

The Shell and Midway plants stand in the center of the immense development program that is establishing Los Angeles Harbor as the world's largest oil port. The scenes of activity around these new terminal typify clearly the marine industry that is dispatching about 15,000,000 barrels of petroleum per month from the local harbor to the ports of the world.

PETROLEUM SHIPMENTS INCREASING

Mark of Previous Week is Exceeded by Almost One Million Barrels

Stimulated to some extent by the arrival of two Standard Oil Company tankers to begin taking oil from the California Petroleum Corporation, Los Angeles Harbor last week exceeded its tanker shipments of the previous week by nearly 1,000,000 barrels. Last week thirty-three tankers took out 2,129,025 barrels of oil.

From the 18th to the 24th inst., inclusive, forty-seven tankers called here and took loads of export petroleum from Southern California to the oil markets of the world. The daily average of shipments was 436,665 barrels. Nearly eight tankers a day was the average number loading here during that period. Following is the tanker report for the week:

WEST SIDE OIL FIELDS TO GET AID

Bureau of Mines Plans Camp at Poco to Cost About $75,000

TAFT, Aug. 26.—That the West Side oil fields will receive every service from the United States Bureau of Mines became known today through the awarding of a contract to Elmo Carpenter for the construction of a Bureau of Mines camp at Poco, two miles from this city. The camp and furnishings will cost approximately $75,000, according to present estimates.

A total of eight buildings will be erected, including a main office building 44 by 80 feet; men's quarters, 46 by 46; women's quarters, 42 by 42 feet; deputies' cottages, 32 by 32 feet, and four general cottages. All these buildings will be fully equipped and furnished and will be desirable abodes for the numerous government employees with the idea of permanency.

Contractor Carpenter has sublet contracts on this work as follows: Gundlack Plumbing Company, gas and the erection of a septic tank; United Electric Company, wiring; J. M. Abbot, painting; J. M. Wilson, concrete; F. S. Cook, pipe lines for water, two pole lines and other work.

Work on the structures is to begin at once and will employ a large number of men for the various units of the plant. As this will be one of the finest and largest plants in the West, the government is making every effort to see that nothing is lacking in the way of equipment.

It was planned to start this work this year, but owing to a lack of available appropriations it was necessary to postpone active building operations. This money is now available and the new plant will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible by the local contractors.

GOOD COPPER YIELD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GLOBE, Aug. 26.—The New Dominion Copper Company, William Porri, superintendent, has reached a depth of 1200 feet in its shaft sinking. Increasing mineralization with occurrences of chalcopyrite and bornite, running 20 to 30 per cent copper, is reported. Crosscutting to the vein will start about the first of September.

FIVE WELLS GO ON PRODUCTION

New Santa Fe Springs Units Total 22,000 Barrels

Shell Company Brings in Producer During Week

Nine Others Being Drilled on Same Lease

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Aug. 26. An initial flow of 22,000 barrels of oil per day is the combined output of five new wells which went on production here during the past week.

The largest well drilled in during the week and one of the largest in the field was placed on production by the Shell Company on the C.H.N. lease. It made initially 13,000 barrels of oil, reports said, and even after cleaning itself out the flow averaged 11,000 barrels per day. The oil is 35-degree gravity and is said to be clear of foreign substance as well as water. Nine others are being drilled on this same lease by the Shell Company.

The Cecelia Petroleum Syndicate placed its No. 1 on production with a 6000-barrel flow. It was drilled 4790 feet deep. The oil is 34-degree gravity.

DISAPPOINTMENT

Co-operative Oil Syndicate well No. 1 was a disappointment to many of the oil operators, as it made but 1,000 barrels. This well was drilled 4730 feet deep and is not a match for any of the wells surrounding the lease. The reason for the small flow is not known. It is expected that the production will increase after the well has had a chance to clear itself.

The McKeon Drilling Company, developing the Lamb No. 1 well, drilled 4460 feet in placing its 1000-barrel producer on the list. Lamb No. 1 is in the southeast section of the field.

The Boeseke Oil Syndicate fostered the bringing in of the well which oil men believe was the most indicative of any placed on production during the past seven days. Drilled 4652 feet deep and producing 2000 barrels, the well which is located in the western section of the field, indicates, many operators believe, the near edge of the producing area.

The Boeseke well is one of the most westerly producers in the field and is but a short distance east of the Standard Oil Company's Watson No. 1, which is down below 5000 feet without showings of a commercial nature. Logs and comparison of the two wells are taken by oil operators to indicate the edge of the producing area.

UNCERTAIN STATUS

The finding of a big percentage of water with only a small amount of oil in the Union Oil Company's most northerly producer has placed the situation in that section on an uncertain plane.

The Standard Oil Company placed the Wolfskill and the Pacific Clay Products wells on production with a small flow several weeks ago and upon that showing the Central Oil Company started the completion of a well left standing several months ago. The poor showing of the Union's deepened well has consequently made uncertain the oil situation in the section near the Los Nietos townsite.

The same situation is true in the west section along Telegraph Road, where the Oak Ridge well, which is down nearly 4800 feet, failed to report showings of a commercial nature. It is believed that this well is to be a test of that section.

OCTOBER PEAK

It is asserted by oil scouts that 112 wells down below the 4000-foot zone and still drilling are located in this field and upon this fact they base their opinion that the peak of production will not be reached before October 1. That the maximum effort of the field will not be reached even then is their statement, if the curtailment order is made less stringent.

They state that wells after being pinched down materially fail to come back to their former strength and that for this reason the peak may be reached at that time, but that the life of the field will probably be lengthened in the same proportion.

Preparations are being made to plug the Brady Eight Syndicate's No. 1 back to the 5000-foot level and attempt a test of production. If efforts are futile a test at 4700 feet may be made. This well is now down 5300 feet.

SHALLOW-DEPTH OIL LOCATED NEAR TAFT

The district directly south of Twenty-five Hill, near Taft, continues the most active area in the Midway field. During the past year a number of big producers have been brought in. The most important discovery was made by the Fresno Sunmaid Oil Company a few days ago when oil was found at a depth of 780 feet in the company's No. 1 well. This discovery created much excitement in the West Side district among several who were fortunate enough to file on government properties close by, as well as the organizers and stockholders of the Tulare Sunset, Maricopa Western, Midway Highland, D. O. C. Development Company and others. These concerns hold land in fee in Section 16, 11-24, not far from the Sunmaid Company.

SEEKS MISSION FUNDS

A plea for funds to be used in building a Gospel Mission was made yesterday by Mrs. Gay Reeves in a sermon preached at the Graham Station tabernacle. A site for the proposed mission, at Fir street and California avenue, has been donated and the purpose of Mrs. Reeves is to erect a suitable, though inexpensive temple for community worship. Donors were asked to send contributions to Mrs. Reeves, 8744 1-2 Date street, Graham Station.

ORE SHIPMENTS TO START

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WEDEN, Aug. 26.—Shipments of ore from the Sleeper group of claims, located in Cunningham Pass district, will probably be started this month. Superintendent Weber, who is in charge of operations, states that results to date have been very satisfactory and that the company is financed for further development.

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 in New York and Chicago without deduction for the normal federal income tax not to exceed 2%. The Pennsylvania and Connecticut four mills taxes and the Massachusetts income tax of 6% will be refunded by the corporation if request for reimbursement is made within sixty days after payment. Redeemable at the option of the corporation, in whole or in part, on the first day of any month upon thirty days' notice, at 107½ and accrued interest during the first ten years, at 105 and accrued interest during the next ten years and at ½ of 1% less for each succeeding year.

IRVING BANK - COLUMBIA TRUST CO., NEW YORK, Trustee

Authorized by the Public Service Commission of the State of New York.

Mr. J. H. Pardee, President of the Staten Island Edison Corporation, summarizes his letter to the bankers as follows:

BUSINESS: The Staten Island Edison Corporation has acquired the properties which do the entire electric light and power business in the Borough of Richmond (Staten Island) New York City. Through its subsidiaries, the corporation also furnishes street railway service to the northern and most densely populated section of the borough and operates a ferry system linking its traction lines with those of the Public Service Railway in New Jersey. During the last five years sales of electricity have increased more than 77%.

TERRITORY SERVED: Staten Island is a rapidly growing territory about three times the size of the Borough of Manhattan. Its population, now estimated at 125,000, has increased 45% since 1910, as compared with an increase of less than 25% for the City of New York as a whole. With greatly improved transportation facilities to the Borough assured through the construction of tunnels between Staten Island and Brooklyn, a great development of the island may be expected.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of the $3,807,800 Refunding and Improvement Mortgage 6½% Gold Bonds, Series "A," will be used to retire the floating indebtedness incurred for extensions, additions, new constructions and other corporate purposes and to acquire $700,000 par value of underlying bonds, which will be deposited with the trustee of this issue as additional security for these bonds.

SECURITY: These bonds will be secured by a direct mortgage on all the physical property of the Staten Island Edison Corporation, and, in addition, through the pledge of collateral, will be, in effect, a lien on the physical property of the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, subject, in both instances, to $2,200,000 underlying bonds, of which $700,000 will be pledged as additional security for this issue.

PROPERTY VALUES: The sound value of the electric and railroad properties as determined by an appraisal as of December 31, 1922, by Mr. Edward J. Cheney, formerly chief and engineer of the division of light and power of the Public Service Commission for the Second District of the State of New York, plus net additions at cost to June 30, 1923, is $10,850,843, or $5,552,543 in excess of the $5,328,300 total funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public.

EARNINGS: For the year ended June 30, 1923, the net earnings of the corporation and its subsidiaries available for interest before deducting depreciation and Federal income tax, were equal to over 2½ times the annual interest requirements of the total funded debt, including this issue, and for the five years ended June 30, 1923, averaged over 1½ times such present interest requirements.

Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by, and subject to the approval of counsel. All legal matters will be passed upon by Messrs. Roberts and Montgomery. It is anticipated that delivery of bonds in temporary form or interim receipts therefor will be made on or about September 18, 1923.

COAL SITUATION ANNOYS MARKET

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The principal financial markets this week kept a sharp eye on the possibility of a suspension of work in the hard coal fields September 1, but the situation apparently exercised little influence on securities.

Some traders professed confidence that agreement between operators and miners still would be reached. Others asserted that in either case any interruption to trade would not be felt for some time.

Influences which might have aided bears had the stock market been in a less liquidated position, was the situation in the oil industry and the nature of the French reply to the British note on the Ruhr. As it was there came a brisk rally in French exchange.

Nervousness engendered by reductions in gasoline prices, continued. High production of oil and the fear of a cut in Mid-Continent crude prices have been heightened by announcement of reduction in the dividend rate by two of the leading oil companies.

Other high lights of the week included a decided quickening in wholesale and retail trade and firmer commodity prices.

While many adverse factors have retarded the appearance of the usual signs of autumn improvement in trade, they are now beginning to appear. The decline in pig iron apparently has been halted and coke and zinc prices have rallied. Heavy deliveries of steel during the summer were absorbed more readily than many had expected.

Meanwhile railroad buying has been a strong supporting influence. Railroad earning statements for July are beginning to appear and for the most part gross revenues exceed those of a year ago and the previous month. Larger expenditures for maintenance, however, has resulted in some decline in net operating income.

With the grain movement getting under way and autumn just around the corner the carrier fortified by record earnings for seven months of the year, are facing the future with confidence.

In the commodity markets, northeast cotton spinners apparently have become convinced that the long-continued drought in the Southwest is going to cut down appreciably this year's crop, and the speculative buying of print cloths in the Fall River market last week was the heaviest in nearly a year. Wheat, under the stimulus of a shorter crop in prospect in Canada, enjoyed a brisk rise.

ORE BODIES OPENED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JEROME, Aug. 26.—Two new ore bodies have been opened in the Glory Hole of the United Verde Copper Company, Robert E. Tally, manager. The faces of the two high-grade ore bodies are about 40 and 100 feet in width, with the entire areas between showing mineralization.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Alice Flower, 38 years of age, of Liberty, Ind., daughter of Mrs. Laura Pierson, committed suicide by inhaling gas. She went to Liberty recently from California to live with relatives.

Mine Work in Junction Shaft Nearly Normal

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—Mine operations have been resumed on about the usual scale in the Junction shaft of the Calumet and Arizona Company at Lowell. Within a few days the normal force will be at work underground. The main trouble from the fire on the Baton Rouge claim has been the formation of gases from the smoldering timbering.

Thirty tight cement bulkheads have been erected, confining the fire to a space fifty by seventy-five feet in area. This will be flooded. It is stated that the sulphide ores hardly could have ignited, for no trace of sulphur has been smelled in the workings.

A number of workmen were overcome by smoke while fighting the fire on the 1500 level. A fire started three years ago near the Briggs shaft and is reported still smoldering in the sulphide ore.

State Mine Inspector Jack Foster states that the fire served to show that the mines of the Bisbee section are as safe as they could be made. At no time was any man in danger, while operations in the concrete-line Junction shafe were continued without interruption, he asserts.

ACTIVITIES AT AJO

Thirteen Hundred Are Employed by New Cornelia Company

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AJO (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—Thirteen hundred men are now employed by the New Cornelia Copper Company in its mining, leaching and construction departments. It is expected that November 1 will see the operation of the first unit of the company's 5000-ton concentrating and flotation plant.

The main mill building is about complete and foundations are being installed for heavy machinery that is arriving. Three steam shovels are furnishing the oxide ore supply from surface workings for the great leaching pits that are to be abandoned within a few years when only sulphide ores remain for treatment. The sulphides are to be handled to a considerable depth by shoveling in the same manner as now known. Extraction costs at Ajo are understood to be the lowest known in the Southwest.

TO ERECT FURNACE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Aug. 26.—On plans prepared by E. W. Beckford, a California metallurgist, a 50-ton rotary furnace is to be erected on the property of the Porterie Mercury Mining Company, a few miles north of Phoenix. Mr. Beckford now in charge of the property, expects to start production by the use of a dozen small retorts.

KANSAS HAS COLD WAVE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—There have been no frosts in Kansas during the cold wave. The lowest temperature yesterday was 44 deg., reported at Hutchinson.

Late Reports From California's Great Petroleum Pools

SAN JOAQUIN OIL OUTPUT JUMPS

Month's Increase is Set at 99,243 Barrels

Actual New Work Drops Off During Week

Many Companies Engaged in Repair Work

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 26.—The San Joaquin Valley continues to contribute upward of 4,000,000 barrels of petroleum monthly to the production of California. During July the total amount taken from the seven principal fields of the valley amounted to 4,329,129 barrels, an increase of 99,243 barrels over the previous month, according to figures just compiled by the American Petroleum Institute. The production figures for July for the San Joaquin Valley fields follow:

Midway-Sunset, 2,268,492 barrels; Elk Hills, 735,165 barrels; Kern River, 604,455; Coalinga, 409,533; McKittrick, 185,643; Lost Hills-Belridge, 117,113; Wheeler Ridge, 8735.

The production from the San Joaquin Valley came from 5577 wells now producing. During the month nine new wells were completed with an initial total production of 2142 barrels. Eighteen new rigs were erected during the period and this made eighty-one wells on the list as those being under active drilling.

Actual new work started has not been so active during the past week. No new wells were started, but repair jobs were started on at least seven wells with five of them located in the Midway field. Two of these wells are under the management of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, one on section 26, 31-22 and the other on section 22, 31-23.

DABNEY REPAIRING

Joseph B. Dabney and Company has started to repair No. 9 well on the Sudan lease, section 26, 31-22. The Honolulu Consolidated is working on its No. 22 well on section 8, 31-24 in the same district and on section 24, 31-23. The No. 1 well of the Midland Oilfield Company, Ltd., is being repaired.

The Kern-Sunset Oil Company is deepening its No. 2 well on Section 15, 11-24 in the Sunset, and the General Petroleum Corporation is carrying on similar work on its No. 34 well of the Coalinga district on section 6, 20-15.

Tests for water shutoff in Kern county during the week numbered four. These are located in the Midway field.

In the district north of the Poso Creek field, beyond the old Kern River district, T. A. Piper is drilling his first well on section 11, 27-28 and on section No. 10, Charles Bloomer has leased a parcel to Boston capitalists who intend to drill.

NEW LEASE

Mr. Bloemer has also leased a piece of land in the northern part of Section 16, to another group of Boston magnates who have had geologists thoroughly test the property.

This land was originally leased to a well-known oil company, which failed to carry out its term of lease.

Mr. Piper has leased from R. L. Stockton and others considerable acreage in sections 24, 25 and 26, 26-28 for a period of twenty years with a one-eighth royalty specified. In addition to this Limb H. Glide has leased to Mr. Piper several parcels of land in the district on sections 15, 7 and 11. The General Petroleum Corporation is seeking land and has leased from W. F. Kirby and A. B. Combbs land described as section 34, 12-20.

SENATOR WILL SPEAK

Magnus Johnson Plans to Address New York Meeting

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Magnus Johnson, elected United States Senator from Minnesota on the Farmer-Labor ticket last month, will address a meeting at Carnegie Hall on Saturday, September 29, under the auspices of the Progressive Labor League.

Mc Giles, treasurer of the league, which is composed of radical labor organizations, received a letter from Senator Johnson's secretary saying that while the Senator had enough speaking engagements in his own State to keep him busy, "owing to the meaning his election has nationally," he felt under obligation to meet similar demands from other States also.

OLD BONANZA WORKED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALOME, Aug. 26.—The mill of the old Harqua Hala mines is being operated on ores taken from the 200 level by William Fatman, lessee, Salome. This is one of the old bonanza properties which on several occasions has seemed to be worked out but good ore was uncovered beyond well defined walls.

South End Derricks Removed

Evidence of the derricks erected in the south end of the Santa Fe Springs field and the wells drilled, all of which proved to be failures, are being removed and the timber sold. It is said that more than twelve wells in all were drilled there, some a depth of 5400 feet without findings of any importance.

LUNETA CORING CONTINUES

Coring is being continued at the Luneta Oil Company well in the southeastern section where cable tools have been substituted. This well is down 4800 feet and formations fail to follow the structure found in the Santa Fe Springs pool, although showings of oil are good, they state.

COUNCILMAN ACCUSED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DENVER, Aug. 26.—A coroner's jury held that Mrs. Katherine Stange, 32 years of age, died of septicemia, caused by an illegal operation which, according to jurors' verdict, was performed by Dr. Daniel R. Lucy, of 3505 Navajo street, a member of the City Council and widely known politician.

CLOSED SHOP CONTRACT HIT

Jameson Oil Company Pact Declared to Imperial in Principle Whole Great Industry

Perusal of the closed shop agreement between the Jameson Oil Company and the Oil Workers' Union, a copy of which has been obtained by the Chamber of Mines and Oil, shows that it contains every one of the most objectionable features of such contracts.

It generally adopted no man could earn a living in the California oil fields or refineries without getting permission from the labor union bosses. It would give the leaders of the Oil Workers' Union, now the same ones that lead the disastrous strike of 1921, a stranglehold on the oil industry.

Here are summarized the provisions of the agreement, which it will be seen apply to both the field and refining departments. The first paragraph reads as follows:

"The base supplies from which the refined article is produced—as practical and possible—must be unionized, in accordance with the requirements of the various international crafts involved in such producing, transportation and refining. Under no circumstances must union workers of whatever craft be compelled to work in any of the ramifications of producing, transporting or refining with non-union workers where or when union workers can be procured."

SCALE GUARANTEES

Craftsmen in various lines are to be guaranteed the local union scale as the minimum wage. Eight hours constitute a day's work, with time and a half for over time. While men are required to perform any duty assigned them their pay may not be reduced if they are given work of a lower classification than they were hired under. Promotions shall be governed by seniority, other things being equal.

In each department the workmen will elect a committee to receive written grievances from their ranks, and if any be deemed of sufficient importance take them up with the management. The management may also take up with the men through the committee any grievances it may have.

Here follow the remaining provisions, including the wage scale, which in generall is no higher than that being paid under open shop or non-union conditions, and not as high as is paid in some cases:

"In the event of not being able to settle satisfactorily any mooted question arising out of which there is likely to be a cessation of operations a member or members of the district council shall be called, the Secretary of the district council using his office for such purpose with or without notice to this board, depending entirely upon the gravity of the situation.

DUTIES OF STEWARDS

"The workers shall appoint or elect their own stewards in the various departments, the number of stewards to be determined by the needs of the various groups and determined by the groups. The duty of a shop steward shall be to ascertain that all workers of whatever nature are union men, and he shall report to the chairman of his workmen's committee any worker not complying with these requirements. In the event of a new man coming into any of the branches of the industry it shall be required of him that after two days work he shall sign application card for admission into whatever union organization he is eligible. Should there be any refusal upon the part of any new workman management shall be so notified by the shop steward and the employee be discharged.

CHECK-OFF SYSTEM

"The company hereby agrees to deduct the dues, assessments, fines, etc., of all employees herein covered monthly, and to forward to the secretary of the District Council a complete list of all men employed, together with the amounts deducted from their wages for dues, assessments, fines, etc., on or before the fifteenth of each calendar month.

"The foregoing, together with the attached schedule wages and working conditions for each department, shall be effective July 16, 1923, to January 16, 1924, and thereafter until a revision is desired by either party. If, upon expiration of this agreement, or thereafter, any change is desired, the party desiring such change shall give thirty days' notice to the other party hereto of such desire, and a conference shall be duly called at a time and place mutually agreed upon by both parties. No changes shall become effective pending such a conference.

GETS UNION LABEL

"This document constitutes the general principles upon which the union label can be granted by the Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America and by the district custodian of the same, viz: District Council No. 1 of the above International Association.

"During the faithful observance of the provisions herein contained the Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America agree to furnish the Jameson Oil Company with a union or trade label to be placed upon refined petroleum products.

The agreement is signed by J. W. Jameson for the company and by R. H. Sickel, international president, and J. C. Coulter, secretary District Council No. 1, for the oil workers' union.

BETTER FEELING IN GRAIN TRADE

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—A better feeling exists in the grain markets. Wheat is up 8 3-8c to 9c from the recent low point; September corn has advanced almost 17c; December, 7 3-8c; May, almost 7c; oats, 4 5-8 to 5 3-8c. May wheat sold at the highest of the season so far last week., September and May corn and December and May oats also made new high marks for the season with the close 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 better for the week on wheat, while corn gained 3 3-8 to 4 1-8, oats 1 to 1 3-8c and rye 1 1-4 to 2 1-8c, as compared with a week ago.

The wheat traders in most markets are beginning to see a new light. They see the effect of the greatest bearish propaganda that has ever been brought into a market to depress values, losing its effect. They also are beginning to realize that foreigners have put it over on the trade, not only in the United States and Canada, but in Argentina, Australia and India. The belief exists that values have been unduly depressed by the use of reports of big crops and exports sales from Russia. Whether the foreigners were sharp enough to take advantage of the depressed condition recently existing to buy futures in great volume in leading exporting markets is uncertain.

MUCH WHEAT SOLD

There are traders who claim that they absorbed the bulk of the wheat sold on the recent decline. It is certain that American exporters have apparently sold more wheat than the trade was aware of. Cash premiums on contract grades of wheat have advanced 1 to 2 cents of late and No. 3 grades of winters are September price to 1½c over.

Cash wheat is a premium in all markets and at the same time distant futures are at the widest premium of the season, so far as compared with the September, making a peculiar situation which puzzles the majority of traders. For the present the disposition is to buy on breaks and be satisfied with profits of 1 to 2c.

Lowering of estimates on the shipping wheat crop in the big western provinces of Canada continue with the lowest so far 310,000,000 bushels and the average around 325,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels compared with 375,000,000 bushels harvested last year. A week or two of good weather will mature the crop there that has not been harvested.

CORN NOT MATURED

The corn crop needs 30 to 40 days to mature it in leading sections. In case of a severe frost in the next few weeks, considerable damage might be done to late corn. It will be a surprise if the quality of this season's crop will equal that of last year's, which was unusually high. This is shown in the absence of low grades in the receipts.

Chicago stocks of corn, as well as the visible supply, are unusually low. There has been a readjustment of the spread between September and the cash grain, premiums on the latter declining 6 to 7c, while September advanced 6 3-8c. At the close it was 7c over. Farmers are selling their old corn to a fair extent and when they get over their rush of the small grain harvest more old corn is expected to come to market Shorts in September were scared by the showing of only 525,000 bushels in Chicago a week ago and rushed prices up. Their buying brought traders to a realization that December corn at 18 to 20 cents under September was at too great a discount, and started a buying movement. There is a better feeling and corn is regarded as having more intrinsic value.

OATS SELL CHEAP

Oats are gaining more friends but the improvement is slow. Delay in threshing and mowing the new crop has started the trade to giving more attention to the actual conditions. Cash interests have taken September and sold December, resulting in a material decrease in the September shortage and a decline in the premiums of the distant futures as compared with September. Oats are so low in the country that farmers in some sections are grinding and feeding them to dairy cattle, regarding them as the cheapest feed.

VIEW HOPEFUL FOR INDUSTRY

Elements of Cheer Seen in Domestic Outlook

Business Men Take Eyes Off European Field

Supplies Run Low; Buying Expected Soon

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Sentiment at the close of the last week was in the main hopeful as to the immediate future of American industry. The domestic situation, so it was reasoned, contained many elements of cheer, while in the foreign situation there was noted considerable smoke, but little fire. And in the absence of definite developments either of a hopeful or discouraging nature in the European field, business men generally began turning anew their attentions to the home outlook. In this horizon there was noted a moderate improvement in several important trades and public buying, which, in the final analysis, is more important so far as security and commodity prices are concerned, than the political upheavals of Europe, was again apparently on the foreground.

The commercial agencies issued their weekly reports tending to show a fairly unanimous belief that the "turn" has come. One such report indicated the reappearance of buying had definitely established itself three weeks ago and that barometers since then have noticed a gradual increase in the amount of buying.

DEALERS' SHELVES LOW

One indication that was decidedly reassuring was the evidence that dealers' shelves were now more scantily covered than at any time in possibly two months and that they were being compelled to place new orders in order to care for immediate requirements.

In many instances it has been evidenced that the downward trend of prices has been checked, at least for the time being. Steel quotations, for instance, are expected to rule at or near present levels for some time to come. In the case of tin and closely related products, it has been announced by the largest factor in this field of production that no change would be made the rest of this year.

Negotiations toward a settlement of the prospective coal strike again continued their checkered course during the week just ended, but there is some reason to believe that better news may be heard the forthcoming week.

With the gradual firming of grain prices, a process that was halted momentarily on Saturday, there has come to light an interesting bit of information, indicating that the nation's farms are now shipping approximately 3000 less cars of grain a week than they were one year ago. It is thus made apparent that the farmers are holding back their crops for "better prices," a proposition that has so far benefited farmers, no doubt, through an advance in grain quotations, but which in the long run is an undertaking that will depend for its success upon whether consumption of grains can be accelerated to a degree to take care of the large surplus now on hand. At all events, it is plainly evident that the great agricultural country is much more optimistic than a short time ago and possibly they, more than those "experts" who have no actual money involved in the proposition, are better able to judge as to the merits or demerits of the plan.

RAIL INCOME FALLS

Earning reports such as came to light during the week just ended failed to give much promise as to what might come during the coming weeks, but in this connection it is extremely interesting to scan again the railroad field, which presented last week two earning reports of unusual character. These reports came from the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific systems. The Union Pacific reported a decline in July net income of approximately $1,000,000, as compared with the previous July, while the Southern Pacific showed a gain of approximately $800,000. Why this great difference, made all the more striking in view of the fact that the two systems operate under virtually the same conditions and also serve much the same territory geographically, was a question that offered a clue to an answer in view of increases in gross reported by both companies. It was thus assumed that Union Pacific was suffering a retarded shock from the shopmen's strike of last year, while Southern Pacific had held down more successfully its current expenses in the matter of bringing normal conditions.

While of no great importance in themselves, the two reports were significant in that they showed the forthcoming July reports of railroad companies the nation over are likely to be highly irregular or "spotty," and that this one month's calculations will have to be ignored to a large extent as a barometric fact in establishing the broad current of economic developments and trends.

AIR EXPRESS SPEEDY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—Four hours after the electric motor at the air-mail station at Gothenburg burned out a new motor was delivered from Omaha. Jack Ackerman, in charge of the station telephoned to North Platte at 10 a.m., reporting his trouble. A radio message from North Platte to the Omaha station was received in time to send the motor on an airplane just leaving and it was received at Gothenburg at 2 p.m., four hours later.

COMFORTS FOR TOURISTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, Aug. 26.—Work is to begin here immediately on the construction of a tourist park that is expected to surpass anything of its kind in the State. The buildings, authorized by the City Council, will include a shelter thirty by seventy feet, shower bath facilities, a laundry and other equipment for the comfort of tourists. The new camp will be located in Union Park.

OUTPUT GAINS AT SIGNAL HILL

Four New Wells Brought in During Last Week

Total Production for This Group 6100 Barrels

Several Thousand More to be Added Shortly

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 26.—Although the close of the present week in the Signal Hill field gives promise of several thousand additional barrels of production, only four new wells were added to the list last week, with a total production of 6100 barrels.

Heading the list is the Henderson Petroleum Company's Ella No. 1, with 2000 barrels daily production, and the Marine No. 15, with a similar amount. The other two are the Davis & McMillan No. 4, with 1600 barrels, and the Wiley No. 1, with 500 barrels.

The Ella No. 1, in the northwest mesa, at the junction of Crescent and Hermosa streets, came in Wednesday with an initial flow of 2000 barrels from the 4200-foot level. The well is not far from the Union Community No. 11, which gained fame as the most spectacular and menacing gasser in the local field. The Ella is equipped with 3079 feet of two and one-half inch tubing and reports from the lease to lay say the well has cleaned itself out and is producing satisfactorily.

COMES IN SATURDAY

The Marine No. 15, completed at 3790 feet, came in Saturday morning. It promises to be one of the most satisfactory producers in the field. Gravity and emulsion test results are not available but it was said by Marine Oil Company officials that the well is clearing up.

The Wiley No. 1, owned by the Joseph K. Tobin interests, is classed as the northern outpost of the field, being located near California street and Wardlow Road. The well was placed on production tests Thursday night and flowed at the rate of 500 barrels daily. The Wiley was drilled to the 4417-foot level and is the farthest north producer in the entire field.

ANOTHER BIG PRODUCER

Another well regarded as being among the good producers of the local field is the Davis & MacMillan No. 4, in the Lovelady pool. This well was brought in a week ago with an initial flow reported as 1600 barrels. It was completed at the 4480-foot level.

This is the first completion with even medium production in the Lovelady district for several months and oil men are pointing to it as proof of their contention that close drilling has caused rapid falling off rather than water trouble in this particular area of the field.

The well is located on Brayton avenue, just north of Burnett street. Drillers experienced considerable difficulty and spent several months on fishing jobs. Gravity is reported to be 27 degrees Beaume.

FRENCH NOTE IS TOPIC IN LONDON

STOCK TRADERS DECIDE SITUATION COULD BE WORSE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The French note was the chief topic of discussion by the stock exchange during the past week and, while the complete text did not entirely bear out the pessimistic forecasts, the city finally decided that the situation was not so bad as it might have been. The financiers believe that a loop hole is still left open for an eventual agreement with France.

As the bears sold generally during the early days of the week, the market was found to be oversold and there was a rush to cover, which induced an effective price rise before the close. Home rails were very quiet. Foreign rails were rather more active than they were last week and generally were steady. Among the Americans, Eries were in some demand.

Tobaccos in the industrials again were prominent, closing with substantial gains. Textiles were in demand, shipments were idle and steels were slightly more active, displaying a firm tone.

INVITE LLOYD GEORGE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, Aug. 26.—David Lloyd George, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, has been invited to address the Medical Society of the Middle West, which will be in convention in Des Moines during the former Premier's visit in this country in October. He has replied that he will consider it when he makes out his itinerary.

PREHISTORIC WORKSHOP

Construction of the dam across the Susquehanna River near Conowingo, Md., is speeding up an archaeological investigation of a prehistoric Indian workshop on an island eight miles above that place. John L. Baer, of the United States National Museum, who for years has been seeking the solution to the mystery of curiously wrought stones found in such abundance there and elsewhere, has redoubled his efforts because the completion of the engineering project will drown the island. "Banner stones," as the specimens are called, are believed to have been ceremonial objects carried by the Indians. So far they are unknown west of the Mississippi, but in New Jersey they have been found under other Indian material which indicates that they are very old. From the shape of many of these stones, it has been suggested that thy probably were intended to represent birds, butterflies, and other forms of flying life which play a prominent part in many Indian mythologies.

The Artistic Sense

"Plute Pete lost his place as a cowpuncher."

"Yes," answered Cactus Joe. "He got a job with a movie company and that spoiled him. Every time himself and hoss happens to strike a picturesque pose it irritates him 'cause there ain't no camera around."—[Washington Star.

CENTENNIAL OF RAILROADS

On July 4, 1828, Charles Carroll, better known as Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the only signer of the declaration of Independence then living, drove the spike that marked the beginning of American railroads. Now a committee of Chicago railroad men is making tentative plans for a railroad centennial—a world's fair in a small way—and Chicago, for geographical and other reasons, is believed the logical place for it.

Three railway organizations recently adopted resolutions urging the American Railway Association to foster such a celebration. This resulted in the appointment of a committee which is gathering data as a guide in setting a definite date for the centennial.—[Rock Island Magazine.

A MYSTERY WELL

An eighty-foot well on the E. Howard place in the north part of Morrill at irregular intervals issues a sound as of "rushing water." The sound does not occur especially at wet times, or dry times, or as pre.monitory to rains, but may occur frequently, or be absent for many weeks. It has an eerie sound, and when it gets going good may be heard plainly several yards away. It is not known what causes the phenomenon. — [Sabetha (Kan.) Herald.

A Queer Belief

In Scotland it is believed by some of the country people that St. Valentine is propitious to consumptive patients and that in order to effect a cure the nails of the patient must be shorn early on February 14 and placed in a bag made from a piece of his clothing. The bag must be waved around his head three times, he meanwhile crying: "Deas Soil," then the parings are buried in a secret place. As these decay so will the disease vanish from the sufferer.

To Mark Historic Spots

To indicate historic spots on highways and roads in Quebec province, the historical monument commission will set up ornamental posts carrying a large maple leaf, on which, in English and French, the historical points will be mentioned. Should the government accede, the placing of these posts will be started this summer.

The Little Warrior

BY P. G. WODEHOUSE

Having attained her main objective, Mrs. Peagrim was prepared to yield minor points.

"Very well, if you don't like him," she said. "But I thought he was quite an intimate of yours. It was you who asked me to invite him to Newport last summer."

"Much," said Mr. Pilkington coldly, "has happened since last summer."

"Oh, very well," said Mrs. Peagrim again. "Then we will not include Mr. Mason. Now, directly the curtain has fallen, Otie dear, pop right around and find Mr. Goble and tell him what you want."

It is not only twin-souls in this world who yearn to meet each other. Between Otis Pilkington and Mr. Goble there was little in common, yet, at the moment when Otis set out to find Mr. Goble, the thing which Mr. Goble desired most in the world was an interview with Otis. Since the end of the first act the manager had been in a state of mental upheaval. Reverting to the gold-mine simile again, Mr. Goble was in the position of a man who has had a chance of purchasing such a mine and now, learning too late of the discovery of the reef, is feeling the truth of the poet's dictum that of all sad words of tongue or pen the saddest are these—"It might have been." The electric success of "The Rose of America" had stunned Mr. Goble; and, realizing, as he did, that he might have bought Otis Pilkington's share dirt cheap, at almost any point of the preliminary tour, he was having a bad half hour with himself. The only ray in the darkness which brooded on his indomitable soul was the thought that it might still be possible, by getting hold of Mr. Pilkington before the notices appeared and shaking his head sadly and talking about the misleading hopes which young authors so often draw from an enthusiastic first-night reception, and impressing upon him that first-night receptions do not deceive your expert who has been fifteen years in the show business and mentioning gloomily that he had heard a coupla the critics roastin' the show to beat the band . . . by doing all these things, it might still be possible to depress Mr. Pilkington's young enthusiasm and induce him to sell his share at a sacrifice price to a great-hearted friend who didn't think the thing would run a week but was willing to buy as a sporting speculation, because he thought Mr. Pilkington a good kid and after all these shows that flop in New York sometimes have a chance on the road.

Such were the meditations of Mr Goble, and, on the final fall of the curtain amid unrestrained enthusiasm on the part of the audience, he had dispatched messengers in all directions with instructions to find Mr. Pilkington and conduct him to the presence. Meanwhile, he waited impatiently on the empty stage.

The sudden advent of Wally Mason, who appeared at this moment, upset Mr. Goble terribly. Successful piece personal antipathies Wally was a factor in the situation which he had not considered. An infernal, tactless fellow, always trying to make mischief and upset honest folks, Wally, if present at the interview with Otis Pilkington, would probably try to act in restraint of trade and would blurt out some untimely truth about the prospects of the piece. Not for the first time, Mr. Goble wished Wally a sudden stroke of apoplexy.

"Went well, eh?" said Wally amiably. He did not like Mr. Goble, but on the first night of a successful piece personal antipathy may be sunk. Such was his effervescent good humor at the moment that he was prepared to treat Mr. Goble as a man and a brother.

"H'm!" replied Mr. Goble doubtfully, paving the way.

"What are you h'ming about?" demanded Wally, astonished. "The thing's a riot."

"You never know," responded Mr. Goble in the minor key.

"Well," Wally stared. "I don't know what more you want. The audience sat up on its hind legs and squealed, didn't they?"

"I've an idea," said Mr. Goble, raising his voice as the long form of Mr. Pilkington crossed the stage now and then, that the critics will roast it. If you ask me," he went on loudly, "it's just the sort of show the critics will pan the life out of. I've been fifteen years in the . . ."

"Critics!" cried Wally. "Well, I've just been talking to Alexander of the Times, and he said it was the best musical piece he had ever seen and that all the other men he had talked to thought the same."

Mr. Goble turned a distorted face to Mr. Pilkington. He wished that Wally would go. But Wally, he reflected bitterly, was one of those men who never go. He faced Mr. Pilkington and did the best he could.

"Of course it's got a chance," he said gloomily. "Any show has got a chance! But I don't know . . . I don't know . . ."

Mr. Pilkington was not interested in the future prospects of "The Rose of America." He had a favor to ask, and he wanted to ask it, have it refused if possible, and get away. It occurred to him, that, by substituting for the asking of a favor a peremptory demand, he might save himself $1000.

"I want the stage after the performance tomorrow night, for a supper to the company," he said brusquely.

He was shocked to find Mr. Goble immediately complaisant.

"Why, sure," said Mr. Goble readily. "Go as far as you like!" He took Mr. Pilkington by the elbow and drew him up-stage, lowering his voice to a confidential undertone. "And now, listen," he said, "I've something I want to talk to you about. Between you and I and the lamp-post, I don't think this show will last a month in New York. It don't add up right! There's something all wrong about it."

Mr. Pilkington assented with an emphasis which amazed the manager. "I quite agree with you. If you had kept it the way it was originally . . ."

"Too late for that!" sighed Mr. Goble, realising that his star was in the ascendant. He had forgotten for the moment that Mr. Pilkington was an author. "We must make the best of a bad job! Now, you're a good kid and I wouldn't like you to go around town saying that I had let you in. It isn't business, maybe, but, just because I don't want you to have any kick coming, I'm ready to buy your share of the thing and call it a deal. After all, it may get money on the road. It ain't likely, but there's a chance, and I'm willing to take it. Well, listen, I'm probably robbing myself, but I'll give you $15,000, if you want to sell."

A hated voice spoke at his elbow.

"I'll make you a better offer than that," said Wally. "Give me your share of the show for $3 in cash and I'll throw in a pair of sock-suspenders and an Ingersoll. Is it a go?"

Mr. Goble regarded him balefully.

"Who told you to butt in?" he inquired sourly.

"Conscience," said Wally.

"Old Henry W. Conscience! I refuse to stand by and see the slaughter of the innocents. Why don't you wait till he's dead before you skin him!" He turned to Mr. Pilkington. "Don't you be a fool!" he said earnestly. "Can't you see the thing is the biggest hit in years? Do you think Jesse James here would be offering you a cent for your share if he didn't know there was a fortune in it? Do you imagine . . ."

"It is immaterial to me," interrupted Otis Pilkington loftily, "what Mr. Goble offers. I have already sold my interest!"

"What!" cried Mr. Goble.

"When?" cried Wally.

"I sold it half way through the road tour," said Mr. Pilkington, "to a lawyer, acting on behalf of a client whose name I did not learn."

In the silence which followed this revelation another voice spoke.

"I should like to speak to you for a moment, Mr. Goble, if I may." It was Jill, who had joined the group unperceived.

Mr. Goble glowered at Jill who met his gaze composedly.

"I'm busy!" snapped Mr. Gobel. "See me tomorrow!"

"I would prefer to see you now."

"You would prefer!" Mr. Goble waved his hands despairingly, as if calling on heaven to witness the persecution of a good man.

Jill exhibited a piece of paper stamped with the letter-heading of the management.

"It's about this," she said. "I found this in the box as I was going out."

"What's that?"

"It seems to be a fortnight's notice."

"And that," said Mr. Goble, "is what it is!"

Wally uttered an exclamation.

"Do you mean to say . . .?"

"Yes, I do!" said the manager, turning on him. He felt that he had outmaneuvered Wally. "I agreed to let her open in New York and she's done it, hasn't she? Now she can get out. I don't want her. I wouldn't have her if you paid me. She's a nuisance in the company, always making trouble, and she can go."

"But I would prefer not to go," said Jill.

"You would prefer!" the phrase infuriated Mr. Goble. "And what has what you would prefer got to do with it?"

"Well, you see," said Jill, "I forgot to tell you before, but I own the piece!"

Physical Health means— Beauty!

HEALTH and beauty go hand in hand. Where the system is run down—the face drawn and haggard—the body limp and lifeless—beauty is missing. Looks of pity supplant those that might have been gazes of admiration.

Restore your health and beauty will take care of herself. S. S. S.—the rich blood builder—rekindles the spark of health and lights the blaze of beauty by building red blood cells. The nerve power of your system finds life in these very blood cells. Build more red blood cells and your nerve power will increase. S. S. S. builds them. Rich blood will tingle through your system. That lost charm will return. Your entire system will be repaired. You will be ready to cope with the impurities and blemishes that handicap beauty.

As physical health means beauty so, too, does S. S. S. mean beauty. For S. S. S. means systems that are free from impurities—pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema, rheumatism. S. S. S. and good health go hand in hand.

Police Pose as Chambermaids in Booze Hunt

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 26.—Exploits of Izzy Einstein, New York's versatile prohibition agent, are rapidly being equaled by members of the Long Beach rum-hound force. A few days ago Detective Sergeant Imbros disguised himself as a Polish gardener in order to knock over a liquor supply; and today he was joined by Detective Sergeant O. M. Murphy in the disguise business. The pair posed successfully as "chambermaids" and captured one prisoner and twenty-four half pints of asserted moonshine.

The Riviera Hotel has its maid service performed by casuals, too poor to pay for rooms with money and the detective sergeants dressed like Salvation Army doxen and outers, had no trouble getting jobs which gave them the run of the hotel. They declared they found the liquor in the room of H. C. Haynes, 18 years of age, and placed him under arrest.

"MANNERS" OF OLD

Could we restore for an hour the dinner table of France and obtain half a dozen instantaneous photographs of a royal banquet at any one time in the reign of Francis I and Louis XIV, such laughter would be heard as might disturb the gravity of Louis in Paradise. The Duchess, her napkin tied around her neck, would be nibbling a bone; the satirical Marquis surreptitiously would be drawing her spoon from her hand to help a neighbor to cream; another fair creature would wipe her plate with her bread; a gallant courtier using his knife as the tablecloth as a towel for his fingers, and two footmen would be at a yard of damask under the chin while she emptied her glass at a draught.

All of these at one time or other were the usages of polite society. During a fashionable length it was found necessary to substitute a napkin cloth for the one which the lightness or bad manners of guests had reduced to a dirty condition.

HIS MATCH

Mabel: Did you tell him you didn't believe him when he told you were the first girl he ever loved?

Marie: No. I came home with another when I found he was the first man who ever proposed to me.—[Boston Transcript.

NO FUN IN THAT

Bobby: I don't think I'll be a sailor when I grow up, after mother.

Mother—Why not, dear?

Bobby: I was just talking to old Joe on the wharf and he says he's been a sailor for forty years an' never been shipwrecked once.—[Boston Transcript.

MEXICAN TOUR ENDS THIS CITY

Chamber of Commerce Plans Ready for Excursion

Celebration of Republic to Benefit California

Los Angeles Manufacturers See Opportunity

There are always last-minute troubles to get aboard Chamber of Commerce excursions and a full complement of those leaving on the scheduled Carl H. Matson in charge of the excursion to Mexico September 4, says the making up and itinerary for the trip is definite reservations days before the date of departure. With the assurance of safety being given Mexico by the United States and several nations, it is considered that the recognition celebration will be participated in by many excursionists on the special train.

Many local business men, Mr. Matson, "who have the intention of going on the excursion at the most time in Mexican commemoration, but we must have our plans all definitely settled by the next few days.

"Attendance only a few days it seems doubtful that many of the manufacturers and business men of Los Angeles will be able to what recognition Mexico means to this city.

"Many of the United States cities by recognition Los Angeles if her business to take advantage of the fact that recognition will bring to Los Angeles to us city in America. The business and civic merchants of Los Angeles the ties of which Mexico feels for the coming years after recognition of the beginning of big trade in Southern Republic. To be reopened after a period of years. Agricultural projects will spring up in Mexico. Already a number of such projects are being by the West Coast. There is a great demand for fruit and great prosperity will follow.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been invited to be in Mexico when the business effective on September. No more than should be away on a trip and therefore should be a representative of the big business activities on this excursion. We can afford the best opportunity for them to see the leaders of Mexico and get an idea of the opportunities down there.

PEDDLER OF TIN MAY GET BIG FORTUNE

James Cowan
P. & A. Photo

"Mexico's best-known American," James Cowan, a tin-dish peddler, may succeed to an inheritance of more than $3,000,000 because his picture, published in The Times the 17th inst., was seen by L. O. Thieme, a banker of 79 West Monroe street, Chicago.

In a letter received yesterday, Mr. Thieme stated that James Cowan "for the past four years we have been searching for living next-of-kin of one William Cowan, who died leaving an estate of somewhat over $3,000,000. The picture of James Cowan resembles the deceased very much, and we are wondering if this man may be the missing nearest relative and heir of the said deceased."

The picture of Mr. Cowan was sent to The Times by its Tampico correspondent. In the dispatch which accompanied the photograph it was stated that Cowan had been "making" the various cities in Mexico for the past twenty-five years, and had come to be known to thousands of Mexican business men.

Cowan is now supposed to be somewhere in Mexico, and agents of Mr. Thieme probably will interview him in regard to his family connections to see if he can put in a valid claim to the fortune. If the $3,000,000 goes to Cowan it is expected that his firm will lose the services of a fine peddler.

Take Man From Bride of Month on Theft Charge

From the side of his bride of a month, whom he is asserted to have married without divorcing his first wife, the police yesterday took Lester E. George, 31 years of age, of 3769½ Van Ness avenue, who is said to be known also as Francis E. Jordan. Detective Lieutenants Allen and Graf declare George is wanted in Fresno, where Chief of Police Truax holds a warrant for him on a charge of stealing whisky from a freight car.

If the larceny charge falls through, the detectives said, George will be returned to this city to face a bigamy charge. He is asserted to have married Esther B. Roct, 25, at Santa Ana July 21, though already wedded to Jessie Thomas of Visalia.

CHILD KILLED IN TRAFFIC MISHAP

Train Crushes Boy to Death When He Falls

Victim of Highway Crashes Believed Dying

Four Have Narrow Escape as Auto Plunges

One child was killed, one man and one woman were probably mortally hurt, and numerous others were injured less seriously in traffic accidents yesterday in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Raymond Goard, 3 years of age, son of Mrs. P. J. Goard, 1234½ West Sixty-second street, was killed by a Pacific Electric freight train at Exposition Boulevard and University avenue.

According to reports to the University Police Station the boy walked into the train and fell on the rails, several cars passing over his body. The train crew was unaware of the accident until the brakeman, standing on the rear platform of the last car, saw the mangled body of the lad lying on the tracks.

The body was removed to the mortuary of Pierce Brothers, 810 South Flower street.

A middle-aged man whose identity could not be learned by the police, was believed to be dying in the Receiving Hospital from a fractured skull as a result of his being struck by a machine while he was crossing the street in front of 403 North Main street, during the early hours of the morning. The driver of the machine, Jefferson Wilkinson, until recently a police officer at Vernon, was detained for a time by the police and later released from custody as a result of an investigation of the affair by officers.

Four young merry-makers returning to their homes in Wilmington after a late drive in the foothill district, narrowly escaped instant death when their machine left the road and overturned about a half-mile from Los Angeles on the Valley Boulevard, Mrs. Rose Neuteboon, 32 years of age, of 1210 Friess avenue, Wilmington, received a basal skull fracture and other hurts which may cause her death, according to Police Surgeon Saverein, who administered first aid at the Receiving Hospital to the injured members of the party.

J. Neuteboon, husband of the injured woman, escaped with minor hurts. D. Patton, the driver, of 521 West G street, Wilmington, was painfully hurt in the accident, suffering severe cuts about the head and face and a crushed chest. He was ordered held for investigation by Detective Culp and Deputy Sheriff Cooper. Officers who visited the scene of the accident. Miss Frances McQuwen, 21, received minor cuts and bruises and suffered mainly from shock.

DRY FORCE SETS MARK FOR STATE

Greatest Efficiency at Lowest Cost is Proved by Fiscal Report

Although the prohibition forces in the State of California are operated at an unusually small cost their activities for the past year have exceeded those of any other State, according to figures just issued by Rex Goodcell, collector of internal revenue.

During the fiscal year officers in this State have seized 3926 stills. This is more than a third of all the stills taken in the country, which number 10,202. The second State in number of seizures is Georgia with 536.

The energy of the California force is revealed also by the number of arrests for violation of the dry laws. In this State 3204 arrests were made in a population of 3,426,000. In New York, with a population of 10,384,000, the arrests numbered 3775.

Cost of enforcement in New York was $731,292, while in California the expenditure by the Federal government amounted only to $168,778.

California revenue agents seized and destroyed 146,074 gallons of wine and 10,097 gallons of whisky during the year. They seized 165 automobiles whose drivers were charged with transporting liquor, more than were taken in any other State except Tennessee.

There are 694 bonded wineries in California, of which 125 are in Southern California. Under government supervision about 26,000,000 gallons of wine are stored in these wineries.

POLICEMAN IS ACCUSED BY WOMAN

Plaintiff Declares She Was Taken Handcuffed to Hotel and Attacked

On a charge that he had arrested a woman passenger in a car after an automobile accident, handcuffed her, took her to a hotel and there attacked her, Scotten Pefley, a police officer, was placed yesterday in the City Jail. Pefley denies the charge, and asserts he took the woman to the hotel at her own request and left her there.

The woman was accompanying Jess Wilkinson of 1720 East Twenty-first street, whose car, it was asserted, struck an unidentified man in front of 403 North Main street early yesterday. Wilkinson told her to take a street car home, she says, and she started away. She declares Officer Pefley followed her and told her she was under arrest, then put her in his own car.

When she tried to get out, according to her story, he placed handcuffs on her wrists, and instead of taking her to a stationhouse took her to a hotel, where he registered with her.

Pefley, who lives at 1350 Wright street, was appointed to the police force in June, 1922, and is said to have a good record.

SUSPECT IN ROBBERY IS PUT IN JAIL

Jack Howard Has Empty Bottle of Chloroform on Him When Arrested

With an empty bottle that had contained chloroform and a handkerchief soaked with the drug in his possession, Jack Howard was arrested yesterday at the Pacific Electric station by Officer Bailey, according to the latter's report.

Detective Lieutenant Katzenberger who questioned Howard, declared his belief that he was a pal of Mervin Smith who was shot Saturday by a member of the "crime crusher" division, and intended using the drug to do away with himself in grief for Mervin's impending death. Howard was booked on suspicion of robbery.

Smith who was on parole from San Quentin, was arrested on suspicion at Fifth and Olive streets when officers saw him climb into an automobile. He tried to escape from custody. He was still living yesterday though probably mortally hurt.

B. H. VANCE IS CALLED SUDDENLY

Prominent Pioneer Dies as He is Dressing to Attend Sunday Church Services

Balfour H. Vance, retired business man of Los Angeles and brother of Champ S. Gibson and Fannie P. Vance, died suddenly yesterday morning at his residence, 833 West Fifty-sixth street. He was in the act of dressing for church, and was resting on the lounge in the sitting-room when the end came.

There was no indication whatever that death was near as Mr. Vance arose yesterday morning. He explained that he was not feeling well, but said he would attend the morning services at the Immanuel Presbyterian Church of which he was a member. His life was devoted to church activities and to charitable works, he having retired from the mercantile business several years ago.

The suddenness of his passing was a complete surprise as Mr. Vance had enjoyed the best of health.

Balfour Houston Vance was born in the Vance family home at Abingdon, Va. He came to Los Angeles in 1887 and joined the United States engineering corps under Major George R. Pickett, cousin of the famous Gen. Pickett of Gettysburg fame. He was associated with his brother Champ S. Vance, vice-president of the Los Angeles Gas Company, in retracing the old Spanish grant lines from Los Angeles to Mt. Whitney.

After four years spent in this work he engaged in the mercantile business and amassed considerable property. He was engaged in Sunday School work and was a member of the Christian Endeavor Society. He was also interested in the work of the Presbyterian Church and was a personal friend of Dr. Hugh K. Walker. He was unmarried.

Funeral services are to be conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the undertaking parlors of the E. E. Overholtzer. Burial is to be at Inglewood cemetery.

CREW IN PERIL AS SHIPS CRASH

Two Vessels Damaged Off Point Concepcion

El Abeto and Devolente Hit in Dense Fog

Master Averts Tragedy by Turning Craft

Rare presence of mind on the part of Capt. V. C. Iverson, master of the steamer El Abeto, probably saved the entire crew of the vessel from death yesterday morning when the El Abeto collided head-on with the giant U. S. Shipping Board tanker Devolente, ten miles northwest of Point Conception. The entire forward portion of the El Abeto's hull was crushed, while the Devolente was also seriously damaged, according to radiograms from Capt. Gilway of the Devolente.

The Devolente, bound from San Francisco for this port at the time of the crash, reached Los Angeles Harbor last night, while the El Abeto, proceeding under her own power, got in a few hours later, this morning.

Exceptionally heavy fog, completely obscuring the view, was responsible for the accident, according to Capt. Gilway. The El Abeto, carrying 12,000 barrels of fuel oil for Esquimault, B. C., had left this port at 630 p.m. on the 26th inst. and was following the coast line north, steaming close inshore.

SHIPS MEET HEAD-ON

She had changed her course to clear Point Arguello when the huge bulk of the Devolente, riding high in ballast, loomed up out of the fog only a few yards distant. Capt. Iverson, to prevent his craft being cut in two by the speeding tanker, ordered the wheel thrown hard over. The ships met head-on a few seconds later, reversing of the engines having failed materially to cut down the headway of either.

The El Abeto proceeded to lumber carrying trade between this port and Graham Island, B. C., is operated by the Los Angeles Lumber Products Company. She was built at Ecorse, Mich., in 1919 for the United States Shipping Board. She has a length of 253 feet and is of 1527 net tons.

The El Abeto proceeded in the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry dock corporation for dry docking and survey. Several weeks will be required to repair her.

TO REMAIN AT ANCHOR

The Devolente will remain at anchor here pending her assignment to a local shipyard for repairs. She is one of the finest tank steamers afloat and at present is under charter to the Beacon Oil Company of Boston. She was built at the Alemeda plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation in 1919 for the Shipping Board, has a length of 435 feet and displaces 4125 tons net.

The Devolente carries a crew of thirty-two officers and men, while the El Abeto is manned by twenty men.

A full investigation will be conducted into the causes of the collision by the United States Steamboat Inspection Service, it was announced.

TUNNEL FIFTY YEARS HENCE

Oldest Inhabitant, Writing in 1973, Still Sees No Hope of Second-Street Tube Completion

BY THE OLDEST INHABITANT
(Written in the Year 1973)

I have been asked to write my recollection of early life in Los Angeles, and so I take my pen in hand to tell of the day when I saw ground broken for the Second-street tunnel. Many of my readers will doubt that there is now a man alive who remembers that famous day, but I am here to say that I was there. I am an old, old man.

It was a hot day, that twelfth day of April, 1921. Hardly a man is now alive who remembers that event. There was a steam shovel belching forth smoke ready to dig for dear life. Mayor Snyder spoke of the significance of the great event and told that after years of agitation, campaigns, law suits, injunctions, indictments, demurrers and every other kind of legal obstructive what-nots the tunnel now actually was to be built. Dirt was to fly. Hooray! I said. I believed what Mayor Snyder said, and I think Mayor Snyder believed it, too. I was then a young, young man.

My hair is silvered now. My walk is halting and feeble. When I stop, my young friends, and point to the piles of dirt at Second and Hill streets, the torn up pavements, the dark, empty hole that leads heavens knows where, and say that I was present when the Second-street tunnel was started I am jeered at and laughed at as one who could not possibly be telling the truth.

On that day in April, 1921, Contractor Hayes said that the utmost speed would be made and that the tunnel should be completed and in use about January, 1922. I believed him. I was very, very young—and trusting. Will I live to see the tunnel completed?

I do not know, I am an old man and have not long to live. The completion date was moved up to the summer of 1922, then to January 1, 1923, then to July 1, 1923, then to January 1, 1924, and so on. One reason was as good as another for extensions, the contractor got 'em. He was not so young as I was.

STARTS LITTLE INQUIRY

I remember when Hill street between First and Third streets was first torn up, and how it was promised that every day and in every way speed was to be made in lowering the grade and repaving the street. Months and months went by and still the street was impassable and merchants along the streets, marooned from their customers, went out of business. So one day I went to the tunnel and asked for Contractor John Hayes, who according to the records at the City Hall, was building the tunnel.

"Oh, Hayes," said one of the two workmen I found standing there in the shade waiting for the 5 o'clock whistle to blow four hours hence. "Hayes is not digging the tunnel. He is only the contractor of record. Jim Hill is the actual contractor." I asked for Mr. Hill, but the workmen sadly shook their heads. They did not know. They had not seen him for a long, long time.

I went to the City Hall to ascertain the reasons for the long delay. Everyone I talked to blamed it on somebody else, but all said that the dirt was flying now and that the tunnel would soon be completed. Did I believe them? Well, I was not as young then as I was on the April day back in '21 when I saw the first—and the last?—spadeful of earth turned for the breaking of ground for the Second-street tunnel.

CITY COMMISSIONERS FAIL TO FIND OFFICIALS

Utilities Meeting Assumes Guise of Modest Theatrical Entertainment at City Hall

In the fire board, the police board, the public service board, the water and City Clerk Dominguez alone knows how many times he has been attached to the honorable city government of Los Angeles, but the award of hand-painted bananas was awarded to the Board of Commissioners as being the "toniest," classiest, most esthetic of them all.

Commissions and commissions when the utilities board recently made itself a tiny stage on which the commission's table was placed and then broke all artistic records at the City Hall. Curtains arrived and swung between in front of the stage and the mottled linen damask thus protecting the commissioners from the stares of mere citizens and taxpayers.

Footlights on supports extended from each side of the utilities room to the center. Then rings were hung and to the rings was fastened his assistant with the artistic curtain.

Then they decided to decorate the footlights of the valance, but Commissioners Leeds and Bogan objected to the lilies and said the curtain is undecorative.

So they retain the draper and discard the lilies.

The commission is sitting in session. The public sits in front of the stage, several feet lower than the level of the rostrum upon which the commission sits. The public looks up at the commissioners. Then the commissioners desire to confer alone, all alone.

Sergeant-at-arms Capt. James Gunn stands at attention, "Curtain!" is the commission's order, and Capt. Gunn pulls the trick cord and presto, the curtains move across the pole with lightning-like rapidity and the show is over. The public looks at the curtain. The commission is in executive session. The session is over.

"Curtain, captain!" is the order. Capt. Gunn pulls the trick cord and the commissioners are revealed sitting gravely at their desks ready to hand down their decision.

After the curtain was placed it caused such a furore at the City Hall that an investigation—most unofficial, of course—was started. One rumor was to the effect that

CROWD CHASES HOLDUP MAN

Exciting Fight After Y.M.C.A. Robbery Leads Through Business Streets; Gunman Escapes

Followed by a crowd of Young Men's Christian Association's members that was speedily joined by several hundred pedestrians, a hold-up man dashed through the West Side business district yesterday from Hope street to Broadway, and at last made his escape. The chase led through crowded hotel lobbies, over fences, up and down fire escapes, over roof tops and in and out of buildings.

The hold-up took place in the room of J. V. Humphrey, 820 Y.M.C.A. Building, and Humphrey, W. H. Shook and A. Lester were the persons robbed. A total of $6 was taken.

INVITED TO ROOM

According to the story, Humphrey met a man who gave his name as Wilson on the way home from church, struck up a conversation with him, and at last invited him to his room. Shook and Lester dropped in. After a few minutes' conversation, Wilson excused himself and left the room for a moment. He returned, leaving the door open. A moment or so later the hold-up man entered and compelled Humphrey, Shook and Lester to submit to search. Then he and Wilson left together.

By the time they reached the street, Humphrey and his friends had roused the building and the fleeing pair had many in their train. At the corner of Seventh and Grand avenue stood D. J. Kossis of the Hotel Gotham. He saw the man coming toward him—Wilson had faded from view by this time—and heard cries of "Stop thief!" from the crowd behind.

Kossis spread his arms to envelop the robber, but decided to keep them open when a pistol was thrust into his stomach and he was told roughly to get out of the road.

RUNS INTO HOTEL

The hold-up man continued on to Sixth street, when he ran into a hotel, through it and out the back door, with the crowd still in pursuit.

He crossed to the fire escape of a building and ran up it to an upper floor window, which was open. Then, still pursued, he ran down the back stairs of this building to the third floor, where he changed to the front stairs as far as the second floor, then changed back.

Then he jumped a fence and gradually gained on his followers until he reached Broadway and dodged into a crowd, where he was lost to view.

Reading vs. Walking

Searching through miles of city streets in order to find a satisfactory room, house or apartment, has given way to a newer method of house-hunting. By means of the Times big rental list, minutes of reading take place of hours of walking.

DOPE FACTS ARE REVEALED

Fighter of Narcotics Tells of Evils and Pleads for Retreat Where Addicts May Be Cured

"If the men and women of Los Angeles only knew one-thousandth part of the drug evil they would never rest until they had done their share in stamping it out," declared Charles Royal at the First Baptist Church last night. Mr. Royal came from Vancouver. He took a leading part in Canada's war on the narcotic peddlers and the campaign to save the addicts.

"In 1921 the United States imported 736,000 ounces of opium legally," said Mr. Royal. "In 1923 there were 2,160,000 ounces imported legally. No one knows how much more was smuggled into the country. There are 7,000,000 addicts in the United States who use thirty-six grains per capita. This is more than is used in old China—in all the English speaking countries of the world.

"Ninety per cent of all the crime committed in Los Angeles is done by drug addicts. And to think that there is not one place in the United States set aside where the unfortunate victims of dope can be sent."

Mr. Royal made an earnest plea that everyone get behind the campaign to build a place where addicts could be cured. He declared that it took only three weeks to cure many and that if the victim could only be kept away from his or her old surroundings the cure could be made permanent.

He declared that it was not only "underworld characters" who used dope. He told of how in Canada nine out of eleven women addicts had dependents. He related incidents of girls of tender years who became addicts through taking cocaine for a cold. He told of how the victim must have more and more money for the drug and how the descent is swift and appalling.

KEISER HITS LAND FRAUD

Too Much Good in State to Misrepresent Poor

Commissioner to Prosecute Violators Vigorously

Colonization Project Near Fresno is Approved

Following his return Saturday from an extensive trip of investigation of real estate and land values in California, State Real Estate Commissioner Keiser stated:

"There is so much good land in California that there is no occasion to sell poor land. After a careful survey of the land situation I found that there is a wealth of splendid land in this State—more than enough to meet the requirements of the people for many years.

NO EXCUSE

"Under these conditions there is absolutely no excuse for this malpractice of buying up worthless land at a few dollars an acre and then exploiting it as having agricultural or other values. After my survey of the situation I am more determined than ever to prosecute under the amendment to the real estate law any misrepresentation of real estate."

That Mr. Keiser is absolutely sincere in his attitude is proved in his bitter attacks upon those he has found or deemed guilty of misrepresentation and in information which has just leaked out. It has developed that a number of the commissioner's personal friends were exploiting a certain tract which he considered worthless. The commissioner launched one of his most bitter attacks against this project, and peremptorily ordered that the activities cease.

PROJECT OPPOSED

One of the most important projects investigated by Commissioner Keiser during his ten-day trip was the colonization project west of Fresno. He said that after the numerous cases of misrepresentation he has been called upon to investigate, it gives him a certain measure of relief to be able to place the stamp of approval upon this project.

It is proposed to develop the colonization project as a dairy and fruit colony. Commissioner Keiser stated that it is one of the best prospects of the kind in the State. The land is especially adapted to prunes, apples and pears, having a sandy loam, he said, and added that there is a good supply of gravity water, with water only ten or fifteen feet below the surface. The gravity water will be supplemented with wells.

GYMNASIUM IS POPULAR

Topping last year's figures by a large margin, 13,883 was the attendance record in the central branch Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last month, according to a report by Physical Director W. R. Reynolds. This increase is attributed to a growing interest in regular physical exercise among the business men of Los Angeles. Three hundred and five free physical examinations were given by members of the profession, who voluntarily donate several hours of their time each week to this work.

CIGARETTES MUST MATCH GOWNS

Film Actress Bows to Paris Decree

Arline Pretty

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

YOU girls may think you're all to the Ritz, but you've got another think coming. You've had stockings to match your hats, gloves to match your complexion, shoes to match your aura. But that's not all.

Unless your cigarettes match your gown in color, you're just not in it. Oh, positively!

Arline Pretty, well-known film actress, has the glad news straight from a friend in Paris. And a friend in Paris always knows, I should hope.

Oh, it's really quite wicked. You see, even if you've never smoked before, it's such a temptation to "wear" a tinted cigarette along with your clothes.

Miss Pretty herself, for instance, just choked and choked, while she told me about it, as she smoked her very first cigarette. But it was a lovely pink tint, just like the frock she had on.

Then she took out her cigarette box—full of pink, green, beige, gray and pale blue cigarettes.

"My favorite colors," she explained.

"Did the friend in Paris send them?" we asked.

That's when Miss Pretty really blushed.

No, it wasn't, she admitted. Larry Semon was the giver, she finally explained

"You see, I happened to be telling Mr. Semon about the new fad, the last time we were at the Ambassador, and the next time he called, he brought me these beautiful, gold-tipped, tinted cigarettes."

Oh, yes—and the cigarettes have to be perfumed with your favorite perfume, too. Don't forget that. Very important.

Wearing lenses mounted in a frame for the correction of faulty vision was first recorded about 1305 A. D.

CURTAINS FOR CITY OFFICIALS

the Board of Public Utilities had planned a regular opening for its meetings, such as when the curtain rises at the theater when a comic opera is being given.

According to this rumor, the program of exercises at the board's meeting was to open with Capt. Gunn in full uniform, stationed at the trick cord, and then was to proceed as follows:

Capt. Gunn: Oh, a happy day it is to be, for the commission you are soon to see.

Chorus (by the public:) Oh, yes, the commission we are soon to see.

Capt. Gunn pulls the trick cord and the commission is revealed standing at the table, which is cluttered up with toy automobiles, locomotives, motor busses and street cars.

The commissioners sing: "Oh, yes, we are the commissioners of U-t-i-l-i-t-i-e-s. You are the public which we try to please—sometimes."

President Leeds: Be seated, gentlemen. What, ho! Bring on the secretary.

Secretary Payne arrives and the meeting is on. The commissioners suddenly exclaim: "We would be alone!

Capt. Gunn rushes to the trick cord and pulls it; the curtains ensilence. The public files out.

Such was the rumor that sprang forth following the installation of the curtains. But it was a baseless rumor, according to Capt. Gunn and the commissioners.

The curtain was there, it was true. And it did work on a pole and was chauffeured from a trick cord. But not during meeting days, according to Capt. Gunn. It was to be used, and truth to tell, it has only been used thus far, when Commissioner Bogardus desired to sit at his personal desk while Capt. Gunn was examining applicants for chauffeur's licenses. But maybe, says City Hall gossip, the Utilities Commissioners are awaiting the day when they will have nerve enough to use the curtain for executive sessions, and if it works, then the entire program for board sessions can be put on. Later music can be added.

NORDLINGER AND BROCK FIRM UNITE

Oldest Jewelry Store in City Ends Existence as Individual Concern

S. Nordlinger & Sons, one of the historic business firms of Los Angeles, closed its store at 631 South Broadway Saturday afternoon to complete the consolidation recently announced between this firm and Brock & Co.

S. Nordlinger & Sons was the oldest jewelry store in Los Angeles. It was founded by the late S. Nordlinger in 1869 and under his guidance and that of his sons, L. S. and Melville Nordlinger, developed into one of the largest establishments of its kind in the West.

The two companies, now merged into one, will operate under the name of Brock & Co. in the Brock & Co. building at 617 West Seventh street. Louis S. Nordlinger has been named vice-president of Brock & Co. and will engage actively in the conduct of the business. A considerable number of the Nordlinger & Sons personnel go with him to assume positions with Brock & Co. similar to those they held in the Nordlinger firm.

The Nordlinger stock is being combined with that of Brock & Co. In order to accommodate the increase in merchandise the company is fitting out its second floor as an additional salesroom to the one on the main floor. It is identical in size and will be suitably appointed and decorated. The announcement of the opening of the second floor is reserved for several weeks.

Lad Disappears on Way to Get Job in Movies

Police were asked yesterday to aid in the search for John Ross, 13 years of age, who disappeared from his home last Wednesday. The boy left the family residence in the morning to seek work in moving - picture studios, but has failed to return, his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Ross of 2375 Scarff street, told police.

John Ross

According to Mrs. Ross, her son had worked in a number of pictures during vacation and was well known on most of the motion-picture lots.

"I know of no reason why he should run away," Mrs. Ross said. "He has never before disappeared from home and has never said anything that would lead me to believe that he would run away."

Mrs. Ross told police, however, that since a recent trip to Tijuana with her son, John had been talking about wanting to go back to the border and see more of Mexico. Thinking there is a possibility that the boy may have left for the border, San Diego police were notified to be on the look-out for him.

John is described as being about five feet seven inches tall, weighing 134 pounds, and has blue eyes and brown hair. When he left his home he wore a khaki shirt, light colored breeches and a light wool cap.

SHIP BOARD PLAN IS OPPOSED

Chamber of Commerce Urges Selling of Vessels or Chartering for Private Use

Operation of United States Shipping Board vessels by the government will be opposed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce as the result of a decision following a consideration of the subject by members of the trade committee and board of directors of the local organization. Already a letter has been sent to the board informing it of the chamber's attitude.

It is understood in Los Angeles that the Shipping Board has been considering the operation of vessels to find a means of using those now tied to docks. In its letter the local body suggests that instead of this the Shipping Board sell the boats outright to private concerns or permit them to be chartered for long periods by private interests. Only in the case where private capital cannot be obtained to develop trade routes should the government engage in the shipping business, the letter states.

The following is a copy of the letter from the chamber to the Shipping Board:

The attention of the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been directed to the fact that your honorable board is considering the adoption of a policy of direct operation of Shipping Board vessels and this matter has received the earnest attention recently of both the harbor and foreign trade committees of this Chamber of Commerce and also of our board of directors.

After due consideration we wish to place ourselves emphatically on record as favoring private operation of the American merchant marine, unless it be in exceptional cases where private capital cannot or will not undertake such private operation, in which case direct government operation perhaps would be advisable and necessary.

We are opposed to operation by the government except in such cases as indicated above and where the upbuilding of trade routes might not be otherwise developed.

We would therefore favor further efforts by the Shipping Board to work out a plan for the disposal of Shipping Board vessels to private operators or, if such plan cannot be worked out, to charter such ships to private operators.

BUILDERS HONOR BACKUS

National Lumber Manufacturers' Association Request Building Inspector's Presence at Confab

The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association yesterday in a formal communication received at the City Hall requested Mayor Cryer to urge the City Council to delegate Chief Building Inspector Backus to represent Los Angeles at the Pacific Coast Building Officials' Conference to be held at Coronado, September 10-14.

M. C. Woodruf of San Jose is president of the conference. Chief Building Inspector Backus officially represented Los Angeles at the national conference of building officials held at Toledo, O., where valuable information was exchanged by the officials concerning needed changes in the building requirements and laws.

President Woodruf in a letter to Mr. Backus stated that extra efforts are being made to secure the presence at the Coronado meeting of the building officials of all of the Coast States and cities.

"We have in the Pacific Coast States of Washington, Oregon and California," wrote Mr. Woodruf, "about thirty-five men charged with the administration of the building ordinances in our cities. A number of cities, however, have no regularly appointed building inspector. We are hoping that they will send their superintendents of public safety or other appropriate officers to the conference.

"I consider the coming meeting to be especially important in view of the present great activity of the western cities in developing new building codes. We expect that many important questions will come before the meeting for discussion. Problems which are troubling individual inspectors probably will be presented to the meeting in order to obtain information bearing on them in the light of the experience of other men who have successfully solved similar problems."

The present officers and directors of the Pacific Coast Building Officials Conference are M. C. Woodruf of San Jose, president; V. D. Hedden of Long Beach, vice-president; A. C. Horner of Stockton, secretary and treasurer; Robert Greig of Berkeley, T. W. Ryan of Oakland, J. Anton of Fresno and O. G. Knecht of San Diego.

Mr. Kraemer wrote on behalf of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association which is vitally interested in good construction, to exert every effort in helping to arouse active interest of the various municipal governments in the matter of joining the conference. Many cities, according to Mr. Kraemer, have been very progressive in sending their fire chiefs to the annual national and State meetings of their organizations, but unfortunately not so many have awakened to the importance of their building officials meeting in conference.

There is no department of municipal government, according to Mr. Kraemer, that is of more importance to the public welfare and safety than the building department under whatever name it may be called. That it is impracticable and unwise, and in many cases would jeopardize lives to leave the matter of the decision as to what is safe in design and materials of structures wholly to the discretion of individuals is shown by the failures which have occurred in many edifices with consequent loss of life, accounts of which have appeared frequently in the press.

The city must necessarily exercise certain police powers to protect the public in such matters and must, through some municipal organization, maintain standards of safety in construction for the public by means of building codes and regulations. Probably there is no other way in which a progressive city official can so readily and inexpensively keep abreast of modern developments in good construction as by attending the meetings where the officials gather for the discussion and solving of their mutual problems.

LETTERS WIN MAN DIVORCE

Husband Finds Fervent Notes Addressed to "Dear One" and Immediately Seeks Freedom

As Mrs. Marie Evans lay sick in the hospital her thoughts were with another man whom she had known before marriage, and to him she wrote letters that fell into her husband's hands and were produced in Judge Wood's court.

Theodore Evans told the story of his wrecked romance to the judge and testified that while he was many years the senior of his bride, he did not suspect that her heart was with another until he read the letters. Evans was granted a divorce after he told the court that his wife did not deny that the epistles were her handiwork.

Addressed to a man whom she called "dear one" and "sweetie" these letters told of the miseries she had been a prey to during her brief married life and characterized the year as seeming to be a hundred years long. The first of the letters read as follows:

"Dear One: Honey I am miserable today. I am lying here alone in my room thinking how happy I could be with you. I am so lonely and blue that I can hardly live. I just want to go away and die. There is nothing left in life for me. Dearest one, I wonder if you would be glad to see me again and love me as you used to love me. Those were the happy days. I hope we may live them again.

"You were the sweetest and dearest boy to me them. Honey. I lay in bed last night and thought of you all night. Some day I may take a notion to take a train and drop in on you. Honey, you don't know how badly your lonely little sweetie wants to see you and be with you again. You can bet it will be soon. Oodles of love and just oodles of kisses."

In the second place, Mrs. Evans tells how she regretted her marriage that took place in 1921, and stated that she could not help it, but she loved the man to whom the letters were addressed.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Forty men, representing practically every town along the line of the defunct Kansas City and Northwestern Railway, met in Holton today and pledged their support to the proposed plan of extending aid to help rehabilitate the road.

EXPOSE NO. 5

Beware of the Spellbinder

When a professional spellbinder, who is being paid to sell you oil units, takes the platform in a tent and tells you that the officers of the company are experienced oil operators or successful men of excellent reputation, you are entitled to proof that what he says is true.

When this selfsame spellbinder introduces a "so-called" geologist with the statement "You are now going to listen to a man who has been locating oil wells for twenty years," you are entitled to some definite evidence that what he says is a fact.

Almost anybody can call himself a geologist. No license is required by the state to become a geologist. Ability is what counts, and the man who tells you that he is a trained geologist and that you may give reasonable weight to his opinions when you invest your money, should be required by you to submit in black and white the proof of what he says.

Your own protection demands that you avail yourself of every possible safeguard when dealing with oil promotors.

The Corporation Commissioner, in issuing a permit, may go to the extreme limit of his authority to protect the public by requiring oil promoters to comply with various regulations, but many promoters find ways to get around these regulations, and it is important therefore that you demand that all representations made to you be in black and white.

Beware of the spellbinder. Check up on his representations. Take nothing for granted. Don't assume that because a permit has been issued to sell units that the investment is necessarily safe.

ERICAN HELP ROAD LAUDED

to Syria Says Due Credit is Not Given of Organized Channels for Aid Blamed

Rule is Praised by Official Visiting Here

good Samaritan to the at large, Uncle Sam, has not what his due need of praise, in opinion of P. Knabenshue, States Consul-General at Syria, who is in Los Angeles visiting his parents at 2409 Rodney street. The reason he says, is that much of charity flowing to stricken na- from the United States does flow through organized chan- but from individuals.

that little nation of bibli- history which fell under French mandate after the war, is an ex- example of a beneficiary directly, but constantly, re- aid from individuals in the States. Syria, Mr. Knaben- declared, imports three times much as it exports. The trade balance must be made up. It is done, he declared, by remit- from relatives in this coun- and in other nations.

EMIGRATION HEAVY

Emigration from Syria has been heavy that virtually every family has a relative, very often a relative, in this country. The relatives are constantly send- money to their kin and thus funds imported are paid for and millions are enabled to live.

The general disturbances which followed the World War have had a severe effect on Syria. Condi- there are disturbed, but not to the extent generally imagined. Many parts are quiet. What com- plaints are made by Syrians are directed only against the French per- sonnel, but against conditions as a whole. Americans are well liked and well treated and are gradually extending their activities in the country.

Considerable improvement in con- ditions is apparent, Mr. Knaben- shue stated. The political situa- tion, of course, affected the entire situation, but with the gradual restoration of order and normal conditions as a whole improving and the improve- ments now becoming appar- ent.

The Syrians, contrary to general be- lief, are proving an exceptionally apt master, if she can be said that, he said. The Syrians possessed a maximum degree of temperament. Whatever aid the people is extended by the United States. They are experimenting with it in an effort to find the best and most satisfactory method of restoring that country to its political and economic stability.

The natural resources of the country are virtually undeveloped. Mr. Knabenshue, however, pre- dicted that when normal conditions return this phase will be vig- orously taken up and concessions granted. He sees a great opportu- nity for American business inter- ests at that time.

AMERICAN CARS POPULAR

There are numerous Americans there, he said. The majority of them are there as representatives of American automobile manufac- turers, gasoline and kerosene ex- perts. In this connection, Mr. Knabenshue said that approximate- ly 75 per cent of motor cars in use are of American make. The United States also exports great quantities of flour rice and sugar to Syria.

The American University at Beirut has a faculty of approxi- mately 100 instructors from this country. There are 1000 students in attendance from all sections of the Near East. The Near East Relief is caring for 10,000 orphans in the country.

American citizens in Syria, un- der the capitulations, have extra territorial jurisdiction, giving them a great advantage. They cannot be sued in the local courts of Syria, but their cases are heard in the consular court of which Mr. Kna- benshue is presiding justice be- cause of his position. They are also exempt from all direct and per- sonal taxes.

Mr. Knabenshue has been in the consular service nineteen years. For seven years he was Consul-General at Beirut and for the last four years has held the same posi- tion in Syria. He arrived at New York the 1st inst., and will come here to Texas to visit his son who is a colonel in the army.

From Texas he will go to Wash- ington and from there return to Syria.

Several hundred members of the Pacific Electric Club had an outing at San Diego Saturday, and many were guests of the San Diego Electric Club. Members made the trip on the Ruth Alexan- der, Admiral line, leaving Los Angeles at 8 a.m. They returned late that night.

While in San Diego there was a pic- turesque program at Balboa Park and golf at San Diego Coun- try club. An automobile excursion to Coronado, California, Coronado and return was made in motor cars of the San Diego Electric Railway.

Golf matches started early, leav- ing the tee for a match tourney between the San Diego Electric Club, and other members of the party. The steamer at 9 a.m., was preceded through the city by the Municipal Pier. This was a reunion of the Los An- geles Club. It is expected to make an annual affair.

LITTLE HELPS

Business at the beauty parlors would indicate that no woman is completely satisfied with the work of the Creator.

SUN PICTURES

They are going to take moving pictures of the eclipse of the sun at Catalina and San Diego on September 10. Trying to catch California without sunshine and make a record of it.

WHOM IS WHICH

It appears that Calvin Coolidge did not break into "Who's Who" until three years ago and now he is at the head of the biggest government in the world. He is not only who's who, but what's what.

AN ALL-'ROUND GOVERNOR

For another thing California has the champion gubernatorial horseshoe pitcher of the country. If the executive of any of our fair States thinks he is a star performer at flinging the shoe he can easily get a game by bringing his irons to Bacramento. Gov. Richardson's prowess has even amazed the citizens of Long Beach, where horseshoe pitching may be said to have attained its zenith.

WOMAN IN POLITICS

Husbands must keep their distance. Mrs. Lillian Sire, president of the Women's National League of Democratic Clubs, has asked the Supreme Court in New York to issue an injunction restraining her husband from annoying her. At different times he has embarrassed her by his presence and remarks and he has even told a court that his wife's passionate pursuit of political fame has cost him $100,000. The wife insists that a husband has no right to interfere when the wife wishes to sacrifice herself on the altar of her country. A woman's duty is to the Democratic party first and, even if the wife spends $100,000 or so in building up a political machine of her own, the husband should feel himself favored in being able to finance the operation. Some husbands acquire an exaggerated idea of their rights and importance. It may as well be understood here and now that they have no rights and are decidedly unimportant.

A RUSH ORDER

What is the matter with the children? It is claimed by many that the rising generation is deficient in obedience, reverence and courtesy. They feel themselves wiser than their parents and consequently have no respect for their admonitions or requests. Rush Medical College is trying to get at the seat of the trouble and members of the faculty have been to much pains and expense in creating a clinic for spoiled children. The country is full of the unruly young and efforts will be made to find out why this is so and suggest measures for relief. Therefore the new clinic will specialize in neurotic juveniles between the ages of 3 and 14 years. The nurses and physicians will investigate home conditions first. They assert that in a majority of cases the trouble is not so much with the child as the home. If the parents are unable to preserve discipline they themselves are to blame. It is the aim of the clinic to interest the child—to discover the bent of the mind and to train the appetite in the way it should go. We will say for the college clinic that, if it can develop a life interest in the young and make them thoroughly tractable to home discipline, it will be a Rush order.

AIR MAIL SERVICE

The flights of the mail aviators between New York and San Francisco have blazed a new trail. What important advances this achievement forecasts for binding closer together the social and business life of the nation we shall probably discover in the not far future. But when letters written in New York can be read in San Francisco twenty-four hours after they are intrusted to Uncle Sam's keeping and when a similar elimination of time takes place in mail delivery all over the continent the big wheel of national progress will have made another epochal revolution.

According to Assistant Postmaster-General Col. Henderson, as a result of these flights, all important industrial centers of the United States within a short time will be connected by lighted airways for day and night runs.

It cannot be denied that since the war the United States government has not given as much attention to developing the use of the airplane as have the chief powers of Europe. Inauguration of an air-mail service by the Postoffice Department may change these relative positions and give this country the pre-eminence in the air its wealth and position should command.

That this new fleet of 'planes and flyers will come to the nation through the processes of peaceful development will be an additional satisfaction to all Americans. We are not building and maintaining a mighty air fleet of destruction as a threat to other nations. At the same time, should a foreign nation attempt an attack on our rights and liberty the efficient air fleet of the United States Postoffice Department would be available as a very effective first line of defense.

These initial flights across the continent are epochal in America—perhaps in world history.

FOR THE LAW-ABIDING ONLY

California will never tolerate the practice of criminal syndicalism in any shape or form, under any guise or pretext, within the boundaries of this liberal commonwealth. The injunction was granted by Judge Busick in the Superior Court at Sacramento is in keeping with the will and determination of the people of California.

By the terms of this injunction the Industrial Workers of the World, its officers and members are restrained "from depredations against property by means of criminal syndicalism and sabotage as defined in the Criminal Syndicalism Act of the State."

The fact that the I.W.W. is officially fighting this injunction stamps it at once as an advocate of the sabotage and violence against which the injunction is directed. Why should an organization otherwise contend for the legal right to defy and set aside the laws of the State?

Were the I.W.W. really endeavoring to inculcate peaceful industrial reforms—as its pink-parlor apologists aver—it would be welcoming instead of opposing an injunction framed to protect peaceful reformers. Nor can there be any grounds for complaint that freedom of action is abridged or curtailed in a State where an organization can appear in court to plead for outlaw privileges—and receive a patient hearing.

In the eyes of all honest working citizens the Wobblies are a public nuisance. Their avowed objects are so well known that any attempt of their members to pose as public martyrs is contemptible and ridiculous. Membership in this lawless organization is prima facie evidence of lawlessness in the individual who subscribes to its doctrines. That doctrine is the doctrine of terrorism. And everybody knows it.

The unearthing of a plot to break the peace in Sacramento, in accordance with the well-known methods employed in former I.W.W. drives on industry, furnishes sufficient grounds for enforcing Judge Busick's injunction with a big club.

California is ready to treat with becoming forbearance the harmless cranks and fanatics who may make demands on her hospitality. But under no circumstances will she consent to become an asylum for law-defying agitators and the assortment of criminals that flock to their Red banners.

THE COURT OF HONOR

It appears that the International Court at The Hague is not attempting to extend its jurisdiction to the unwilling or force its judgments upon the stranger. There was the recent dispute between Finland and Russia over the rights of the inhabitants of that part of Karelia which was ceded to Russia in 1920. The government of Finland made protest to the League of Nations that the Russian soviet had violated the agreement made at the time of cession. The League referred the question to The Hague court for an opinion as to the justice in the case and the proper procedure under international practice. The court listened to the statements made on behalf of the government of Finland, but, as the soviet refused to give testimony or accept the decision of the court, the judges declined to render judgment. They said that, unless the parties to the dispute were both members of the League or the nonmember was willing to assent to the hearing, the court would not and should not give a decision. In this the court voluntarily restricts its own jurisdiction. Commenting upon this action the New York Times says that incidentally nothing better shows the absurdity of Hiram Johnson's claim that the law of the League is the law of The Hague court and that the court's opinions are based upon the prerogatives of the League. The court emphatically indicates its purpose to exercise its judgments untrammeled by the League and, in fact, declines to furnish an advisory opinion to the League, even when specifically requested, unless the parties involved are both admittedly before the court. There is no question about the independence of The Hague tribunal nor is there any question about the importance of having all civilized nations as willing partners in the same.

FINANCIAL ANARCHY

The last news dispatches from Germany forecast a most dangerous crisis in the fortunes of that much-suffering people. The farmers are refusing to accept any longer the worthless government paper marks and millions of city workers are threatened with near starvation unless the administration finds some escape from the present financial anarchy.

German leaders are holding a conference to meet this last internal complication, so serious are the possible consequences of this movement by the food producers of the nation. How to supply the workers with the two staples of present German life—bread and potatoes—is the latest of the many serious problems that since the war no German statesman has displayed any real ability in solving.

So far the only two lame suggestions from this conference are the establishment of "a potato credit" bank and a further subsidizing of the grain farmers, apparently with the same valueless paper the farmer will have nothing to do with. And every day the problem of keeping food supplies moving from the farm to the consumer becomes more perilously pressing.

It was the action of the Russian peasant that eradicated Communism from the soviet government in Moscow. In the same way the German farmer may change the policy of the Teutonic leaders both toward the payment of reparations and the debasement of the currency. For killing off fanatical or fantastic experiments in government there is no agent so invincible as hunger.

Germany's sovereign remedy—during all the wiggle and wobble to escape the consequences of an unsuccessful war—has been to start up more printing presses and try to make something pass for money that isn't money. Evidently this process has now reached the precipice of financial anarchy. Not only is the mark useless for foreign exchange; it is fast being repudiated for home circulation. What will follow?

It seems that Germany has reached the parting of the ways. She must agree with her late enemies on some form of procedure acceptable to France or face the menace of a hungry people goaded to more terrible desperation than ever they were during the four years of the war.

Many nations in times of crisis have attempted the nostrum of fiat money. In every instance it has ended disastrously. With what some call tenacity and others sheer bull-headedness Germany has clung to her strange obsession that somehow she could defeat the terms of the peace treaty by beating her mints into printing presses. It begins to look as though that course would only end in a worse form of anarchy.

In 1914 the German Empire complained that enemies had gone to war with her over a scrap of paper. Is it by a stroke of poetic justice that nine years later the German republic finds itself drowning in a deluge of scraps of paper of its own scattering?

THE RAILWAY PROBLEM

Since their return to private management the railroads of America have made gains all along the line. Were an argument needed to prove how much more smoothly a transportation system works under expert efficiency and shippers' co-operation than under political interference and government control, the figures published on railway improvements since 1920 amply supply it.

The real problem before the public and the railroads is how to meet the annual peak load and that problem the railway officials working with the shipper and the passenger can solve without further Congressional legislation. In fact, they are already doing so. Guaranteed freedom from political tinkering, the railroad companies can be counted on to work out their own salvation.

The Transportation Act went into effect in the year 1920. Since that time the railway business has been continuously on the upgrade.

The average number of miles traveled per car per day in April, 1920, was 19.5; in April, 1923, it was 27.9. The number of new freight cars installed in the first five months of 1920 was 15,020; in the first five months of 1923 it was 55,784. New locomotives built during these same periods rose from 425 in 1920 to 1536 in 1923.

It will be remembered that under government control the railroads were only able to spend the minimum necessary for immediate needs on repairing and renovating and maintenance of tracks. Moreover, the American taxpayers were called on to contribute millions to meet the swelling deficits in the operating of the roads. Figures for 1923 form a joyous contrast in all respects to that unfortunate showing.

Net railway income for Class 1 roads in the first four months of 1923 was on the annual basis of 5.09 per cent on the Interstate Commerce Commission valuation. This compares with a deficit of 1.23 per cent in 1921. The amount by which the income has fallen short of the sum pronounced essential by the commission for adequate enlargement of facilities is still $949,787,863. But the income tendency is favorable and the improvement in credit substantial.

Some business men believe that remedial and timely legislation would still be useful in further ameliorating the railroad situation, but it must be both timely and essential or it will only undo the good already accomplished under the Transportation Act. The Railway Business Association and the National Association of Manufacturers in 1922 declared for its further trial and the Association of Railway Executives refrains from urging any amendment.

The labor situation apparently involves no imminent danger of interruption to service. Yet pressure is continually being exerted by malcontents to impoverish the roads and break down transportation by strikes or hampering regulations so as to force government ownership or the Plumb plan on a dissatisfied nation. No revision of railroad affairs should be undertaken in such an atmosphere as this.

Only one major measure at present lies before the Interstate Commerce Commission. That is the question of consolidation or merging the weaker with the stronger roads. The crux of the fight is whether this merging should be permissible or compulsory.

Permissive consolidations in accordance with the present law have not yet been given a conclusive trial. We believe that time will prove no compulsion is needed and that voluntary mergers of companies that desire to merge will best serve the interests of everybody concerned.

Equalizing systems would be a boon to the public, obstructed rather than promoted, we believe, by the prospect of a compulsory measure in the next Congress. Business initiative decides better the effects of merging strong and weak systems. Compulsory consolidation is being used by the radicals as a stepping stone to final government ownership. Why not get rid of the notion that all desirable reforms must come through the compulsory action of government decrees? The railroads require neither compulsory unions nor compulsory divorces. Railroading is a science, not a pie counter for politicians.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

The Hardest Possible Way to Make a Living

Not long ago three bandits held up and robbed a pay automobile of New Jersey's Public Service Commission. Two of the bandits were subsequently caught and one will die from the effects of a shot. Practically all the money has been recovered.

Two officers of a Philadelphia bank were recently convicted on seven indictments and face a jail term which, at their age, amounts to life imprisonment.

In New York a few weeks ago a thieving hotel clerk who was caught and confessed to having stolen jewelry worth a quarter of a million dollars was sentenced to fifteen years in Sing Sing. The valuables were recovered.

The same day three enterprising robbers, who used taxicabs, were committed for from five to ten years at hard labor.

The foregoing are simply stray instances clipped from the day's news. They are but scant gleaning from the calendars of our criminal court mills that grind out their daily grist of retribution and restitution.

Facts and figures prove that there is no such thing as a successful criminal. The story of each offender against the law is frequently the same. Perhaps a little initial luck, the spurring idea of a few big "hauls" and quitting to live in rectitude and a shower bath of gold—then the unexpected but inevitable bullet or prison term that is a pretty full amortization of the criminal's chances in life.

Henry Ward Beecher once told the story of a man in his town who would steal all the firewood he needed. It seemed he would get up on cold nights and take it from his neighbors' woodpiles. After he was caught redhanded a computation was made and it was ascertained that he spent more time and worked harder to get his fuel than he would have been obliged to if he had earned it in an honest way and at ordinary wages.

This thief is a type of thousands who work a great deal harder to please the devil than they would have to work to please God and their fellowmen and to earn the necessities of life and many of its good things.

It is an ill wind that blows no good, says the proverb. And the criminal and his life are a perpetual reminder that crime is unrequited labor; that it is a poor profession, a bad business, the most dangerous and the worst-paid work and the hardest possible way to make a living.

RIPPLING RHYMES

AUGUST

No poet is incited to sing in August's praise, for all the bards are blighted by sizzling solar rays; they find their graft disgusting since summer heat prevailed; their lyres are silent, rusting, their wreaths are draggle-tailed. Ah, well I can remember great poets in my day, who boosted bleak December and threw a fit for May; and is there any singer whose harp is not in tune to celebrate the bringer of roses, gentle June? And even sad October, with dead leaves falling down and heavens gray and sober has gained her rhymed renown. But August has no merit except her priceless heat; the poets grin and bear it, but don't sing sonnets sweet. If August has her boosters we do not hear them yell; they do not crow like roosters or men with stocks to sell. They're sensitive and shrinking, they shun the light of day, like specters they go slinking on their unlighted way. In August we remember that in three weeks or four we'll wallow in September, a month all bards adore. So August has her uses, although with heat unkind she dries up all the juices of body and of mind; she brings to recollection the month that will succeed, to heal our souls' dejection and that's a boon indeed.

WALT MASON.

PEN POINTS

The wife of De Valera is looking for him. Did she push the broom under the bed?

American shipbuilding ought to boom. The prohibition enforcement officers are making a sad inroad on the rum fleet.

It is proposed to give Col. Bryan a "come-back" dinner in New York in December. Gee whiz, didn't know that Bill had been away.

It is our opinion, based on actual observation, that the only difference between a jacket and a jacquette is the price.

It would be just like a wicked Democratic paragrapher to intimate that the recent cold wave in the East was due to the advent of the Coolidge administration.

Did you know that eight Presidents of the United States—Washington, John Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Jackson and William Henry Harrison—were born British subjects?

President Coolidge will call a conference of governors to discuss the enforcement of the liquor laws, following in the track of the dead President, who had arranged for the conference the week before he left on his trip to Alaska.

In spite of the agitation for the dropping of the $2 bill, the United States Treasury will not drop it. In the old days after the Civil War $2 bills took the place of fives and tens. It was a convenient denomination and was then big money. Two-dollar bills then meant a Saturday night in a town, and the leading pastimes of a hot night in town were on a $2 basis, but times have changed.

Five Chief Executives of the nation now rest in Ohio soil—William Henry Harrison, at North Bend; Rutherford Burchard Hayes, at Fremont; James Abram Garfield, at Cleveland; William McKinley, at Canton, and Warren G. Harding, at Marion. Four of the five died in office, Garfield and McKinley were the victims of an assassin, and Harrison died from bilious pleurisy after serving but a month of his term of office.

It is possible that the next Presidential election may turn on the negro vote. Thousands of the race are coming North, where they can vote and their votes be counted. It is estimated that since January almost 80,000 have crossed Mason and Dixon's line and that in the preceding year the exodus amounted to 115,000 negroes of the laboring classes. High wages are bringing them North, together with better living conditions, more desirable educational advantages and less racial prejudice. Unless southern employers make good the number is likely to still further increase. It may mean much in November, 1924.

THIS IS THE DAY

The battle of Long Island, fought in the year 1776, resulted in a British victory. Gen. Howe, with an army of well-trained British and Hessian troops 20,000 strong, defeated 8000 hastily mustered levies under George Washington. The battle was fought on the ground that is now included in the borough of Brooklyn, N. Y. Under cover of a fog Washington effected a masterly retreat from Long Island to Washington Heights, thus saving his American army. The British occupied New York and kept it till the end of the war.

OUR FAVORITE BOOKS

BY MYRTLE GEBHART

Los Angeles is reading today more avidly than at any period in its history—not alone are there more readers, which may be due to the increasing population, but individually folks are going in for the deeper, more meaty, intellectual diet.

In addition to the main library in the Metropolitan Building, there are twelve branch libraries, twenty-two subbranches and 139 deposit stations, all under the supervision of Librarian Everett R. Perry. The number of volumes in the main library now total 485,212. In July 332,570 books and 3606 pictures were circulated to the 182,470 cardholders, being 1.8 or almost two books read by each card-holder during that month. These figures, of course, do not include the hundreds who read at the library every day from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

English fiction heads the list of classifications most in demand, with 50,285 books issued during July. Next in number were 31,123 English tomes on nonfiction subjects.

"In its choice of reading matter Los Angeles is unquestionably showing a demand for culture, in keeping with its metropolitan expansion," one of the assistants to Miss Grace Smith, in charge of the fiction department, told me. "The war, with its chaotic aftermath of unrest, opened up new possibilities, new visjas, reflected in this reaching out for the finer things of life. It is psychological, in a way, for many of our most constant readers of the 'intellectuals' are people of the so-called middle class, people in whose lives there is little but hard work and simple pleasures, many of whom have but public-school educations.

"There is a steady following of the popular type of fiction, western stories and adventure tales. The most favored right now are Harold Bell Wright's 'The Mine with the Iron Door,' James Oliver Curwood's 'The Alaskan,' Arthur Stringer's 'The Prairie Wife,' Owen Wister's 'The Virginian,' Gene Stratton-Porter's 'The White Flag' is asked for many times daily, as she retains her popularity about the same as in former years.

"We cannot supply the demands for 'Scaramouche' and 'Black Oxen' —though we have forty-five copies of the latter—because of the film productions being made of those novels. When a book is screened an eager cry goes up for it.

"But we have noticed a greater demand in the past few years for the works of the intellectuals—men like Hugh Walpole, whose 'The Cathedral' is meeting with such success, and H. G. Wells, whose 'Men Like Gods' has created a furore, men who were designated a while back as being too deep for average mental consumption.

"The public understands these highbrow writers better today, we think, because the motion picture, in filming their books, has brought them to the common level, or else elevated the common level to their standards, whichever way you look at it. The movie has brought them to the attention of the masses, has explained things in their writings that heretofore have been considered vaguely complex and too deep for the average reader.

"It used to be that only women and girls read such fiction, roseate, glamourous romance. But now all classes and ages and both sexes are registered for books. Many local business men are reading psychology and books on psychoanalysis, things that will give them a broader viewpoint, an understanding of human nature. As one lawyer said the other day, the guests at his wife's dinner parties always discuss such things and he wants to be right up on them. Another, a banker, told me that his recent reading has given him a new conception of human beings and their reactions to certain conditions, helping him amazingly in his study of human nature and character, which is so necessary in a banker's work.

"The young people are showing a more avid desire to read, too. Even the kiddies, with blue cards from the juvenile department, storm us with requests for books on psychoanalysis, which are kept on a top shelf where the hands of these immature little persons cannot reach them.

"Indeed, everybody is reading," she smiled. "Kiddies and old men on crutches. Whole families come together; frequently one member will take out books for all the family, reflecting their varied tastes."

The scientific and industrial department has for its most consistent patrons business and professional men.

"Our most popular subjects," said Mrs. Vaughan, in charge of this department, "are real estate, radio, petroleum and diet. We have recently placed several hundred dollars' worth of new material on real estate and diet on our shelves. Even so, we cannot meet the demand, particularly for books on the realty question. We have now on file thirty-nine requests for a certain book dealing with the real estate possibilities of Los Angeles. Indeed, we cannot get enough books —there haven't been enough written—on this subject.

"We have 32,449 books and pamphlets—the latter from the Bureau of Standards, the Geological Survey and various government documents—and our average monthly circulation is 6000. Our reading-rooms are always full—seventy being the seating capacity—and usually they are men. The other day," Mrs. Vaughan smiled, "a little woman, most in earnest and eager to absorb whole tomes anent the realty possibilities of Los Angeles, looked over our reading-room crowded with men and asked me timorously, 'Please, isn't there a reading-room for the ladies, too?'

"There is quite a demand now, owing to the eclipse due on September 10, for books on astronomy. Any such occurrence arouses new interest in the particular science that it concerns, reflected also in other lines—the oil boom created a demand for books on petroleum, vacation season brings demand for information on camping, flora of California and kindred subjects. Just now there is a student of political realities.

"We do a lot of research in the scientific department. People do not read books for fun but to learn. Often persons come on regular days each week—organizations and clubs—to study some particular subject which they are interested in.

The foreign language department I found most interesting, as it reflects the melting pot of Los Angeles, the increasing foreign population as nowhere else, and the discontentment, a successor of homesickness, when the foreign citizens are too busy to read their needs. During the war records show that 3761 books in foreign languages were circulated and 1334 on scientific subjects.

"Our greatest patrons are those who read here," said the head of this department, "for the first thing they do when they reach Los Angeles, before they are able to feel one with their new environment and conditions, before they are strangers, they come in and read.

"The Spaniards present month we had requests for books in that language. American business men are learning Spanish now, too, for the benefit to them in their relations with other countries. English is almost universal as the language of commerce. Of the seven languages represented on our shelves French comes next, books in French having been circulated in July. German and the Scandinavian tongues are low in popularity. From the classification of the Bards are inordinately fond of poetry—with history, criticism, fiction and books on social questions also in demand.

"Really, a day or two spent in studying our readers would convince anyone that the population of Los Angeles is becoming of a different type altogether from that which existed a few years ago. Then it was mostly illiterate laborers. The war, with its subsequent conditions abroad, has brought a great influx of intellectual readers. Particularly in the Hollywood Heights branch is this noticeable, for highbrow books have shown the change in the Boulevard.

"Then, too, only the translations of books are translated into English; reading them leaves a blank in the minds of Americans for more of those languages, thereby causing them to study and more fully appreciate the meaning of originals.

"The Spanish readers are young—and more and more so. The opposite prevails with the Japanese and Chinese, however, the feminine sex predominating. We will soon place upon the shelves a number of Japanese books and several tomes in Arabic.

"The most popular authors are those of Alexander Dumas, Conan Doyle, Wallace's 'Ben Hur,' 'Quo Vadis' and Victor Hugo's 'Les Miserables'—I have that author in every language, from the Swedish to Modern Greek.

Mrs. Mackey, who speaks many languages—and boasts of her ability being conversant with the tongues knows the literature of the different nationalities—has a personal interest in her work, which does much to make the library a home in Los Angeles.

"Not long ago a young man, one of the most forlorn creatures I ever saw. He did not know there was a Greek colony here. When I talked with him to get in touch with the Greek men, how to find the Greek church, his face lighted up as if a light had been turned on inside of it.

"Another boy in whom I am interested is a Frenchman of aristocratic lineage, a youngster of the tradition, brought up in an atmosphere of culture and refinement. He is working now in a garage. He comes every evening to read French literature with me. He is on his personal affairs he is closed."

China Prize

The success of Japan in the matter of cultivating Chinese students by imitating the Yankees in expending Boxer indemnity funds for the benefit of Chinese education is threatened by the disgrace of Chinese students in Japan themselves by insulting Japanese assistance. The government of Japan has been trying to raise $1,000,000 for the support of Chinese students studying in Japan, many of whom have become destitute since the penniless Chinese government ceased to send them remittances. The majority of the students, however, prefer starvation rather than dependency upon Japan. The money remains unsubscribed. Japan is experiencing the ingratitude of a Good Samaritan who finds that his efforts are not appreciated—[illegible] script.

RIBBONS

Romance is woven in ribbons
Flame-tints and the soul of spring;
Light of the dawn and the sunset
That round as old lovers cling.

Soft velvets warm-hued as autumn
Embroidered in pansies and pain;
Lilies and roses and passion flowers
Of fairyland wind through the weaves.

Old letters faded and yellow
Still knotted with ribbons of blue—
Many a story is finished
In a bit of a ribbon or two.

Large Reception

Just returned from a short trip to Del Monte, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wright Bean are again at their home on South Arden Boulevard, where prior to leaving they entertained with a large reception. During the receiving hours a Hawaiian orchestra on the balcony overlooking the huge drawing-room, played fascinating music. Mmes. Wilbur Beckett, Edward Berry Griffen and George W. Galding assisted in receiving. A buffet supper was served in the dining-room. The reception was in the nature of a housewarming, as Mr. and Mrs. Bean have only recently moved into their handsome new home.

Luncheon Party

The Chinese room at the Mary Louise was the setting for a charming luncheon party which Mrs. C. E. Stone gave on Thursday. The table was adorned with variegated asters and ribbons and unique Chinese place cards marked places for ten guests.

Going to Europe

One of the pleasant events of the past week was the breakfast which Mr. and Mrs. Myers gave for their guests on Tuesday morning. They are spending most of their time motoring and visiting famous California resorts.

Informal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Shugers gave an informal dinner party at the Mary Louise a few evenings ago, entertaining twelve guests. The table was beautiful with the decorations of rosebuds, tulle ribbons and softly shaded candlesticks. The date was also Mr. Shugers's birthday anniversary.

Returned From Lake Tahoe

Mrs. Whiting G. Press and Miss Press of Crenshaw Boulevard have returned from a motor trip to Lake Tahoe. They were away several weeks.

For House Guests

Mrs. W. W. Merickel, member of the Bay Island Club of Balboa, entertained as house guests from Los Angeles this week Mrs. Stephen Lemuel Wiley and Mrs. Josephine Marshall Fernald, artist, and Miss Hazel Fitzgerald of Seattle.

A luncheon was enjoyed on Friday at the Newport Yacht Club, followed by bridge in the afternoon.

The Woman and Her Job

by Valerie Waltrous

[Questions of general interest bearing on vocational training of women and their employment problems will be answered by Mrs. Waltrous in this column if addressed to her in care of The Times.]

"What You Expect"

She just had to have a job.

No matter what a girl's background may have been, there comes a time when life's issues can no longer be evaded.

One may have been a semi-invalid from childhood, sheltered—usually in costly furs—from every harsh wind, be small and pale and frail, and appear 14, when really 18—one may be all these, but when mother's cupboard is bare and her purse empty, something has to be done.

She did that something. She answered one of those advertisements reading: "Experience not necessary."

The very thing! She had no experience, and was quite eager to trade her lack for crisp oblong pieces of paper money, such as would satisfy the landlord, the baker and the grocer.

She hurried downtown the next morning to the office. The man in charge was very polite to her, and explained what was required. Of course, they wanted her to sell books, but what difference did that make? She would have sold elephants, had anyone been willing to pay her money for it.

Eighty-five girls answered that advertisement. Twenty remained to take the training. Seven reported for work three days later when the "crew" was to start. At the end of two weeks, but one remained.

On that eventful morning when she made her first attempt she was taken to the manufacturing district by an experienced salesman. He gave her certain instructions, and a card with the names of three men written on it. He told her to go into the building and sell each one a set of books.

She did just that.

In telling of her experiences she often goes back to that first day. She was not timid at all. All her life she had met men who treated her with courtesy—that was the sort of world in which she had lived and moved. The three men on whom she called that morning behaved just as she expected them to, and each one bought a set of books.

It may have been her expectation. She knew books, and loved them, and these were very desirable books. When she entered the building she expected these men to buy them, and they did.

Her commission on each set was $9. Three times nine is—Good gracious! Selling books was the easiest work in the world.

She was not allowed to try again that day—her instructor was too wise. But the next day she sold two sets. After that second day no one could have convinced her that she was not on the high road to fortune.

In the weeks that followed she had many adverse experiences, but the memory of those first days persisted. Her average was fair, and after a while it was more than that.

The next year she was sent out to the large cities with a selected list of persons interested in a de luxe edition of Turgenief. Her success was unusual, and her company gave her a generous contract.

She was an invalid no longer, but a bright-eyed girl with round cheeks, and her manner was as gracious and unsophisticated as the daughter of any captain of industry on whom she called.

Then one fatal day she entered the office of a district agent for a large insurance company. She had to put forth her best efforts to sell him a set of books, but there was $18 commission on every set, so he was worth the struggle.

"You will never sell another set of books," he told her as she folded his check and put it in her purse.

"Selling books is my business; I've been doing it for four years and I like it," she smiled.

"Never again; that's your last set," he insisted.

"Why?" she wanted to know, seeing that he appeared quite sane.

"Because from this day on you are going to sell insurance. You are going to sell it more successfully than you have sold these books; and you're going to make more money with half the effort."

He invited her to sit down; he talked figures. She listened, and at the close of an earnest hour she agreed to take a three months' vacation and devote it to mastering the technique of insurance.

"When you get your stride, you'll close 80 per cent of your business on the first interview," were his parting words.

She didn't believe him. She was wise now, and back of her innocent eyes was quite a store of scepticism. But if she could make more money—it was worth trying at least.

Last winter I dined in the charming home in which her mother presides, and which the girl's commissions provide. Her former district agent, who now lives in New York, was the only other guest.

"I wish you were with our company now. You'd be proud of me," she announced.

"I always was proud of you. You were the most valuable find I ever made," he assured her.

"Will you believe me when I tell you that 80 per cent of my business is closed on the first interview? That I had the highest quota last year—not only for this district, but for the whole United States?"

"Why, of course; I told you you'd do that the day you sold me that set of Turgenief."

Spinach Salad: Boil two quarts of spinach till very tender, then drain and chop it finely. Mix with it three slices of bacon which have been crisply fried, then chopped, one tablespoon of butter and one hard-boiled egg, also cut small. Press this mixture into four tumblers (or any cup or glass with a round base) and stand in a cold place to cool and set. Just before meal-time turn these four spinach molds out of their glasses onto crisp lettuce leaves and put a dab of mayonnaise dressing on each.

Liver Boulettes: Put cooked left-over liver through a food chopper, and to one cup of the chopped liver add one beaten egg, one tablespoon each of bread crumbs and minced, partly cooked onion, and a pinch of salt. Form this mixture into small, flat cakes with the hands, roll each cake in flour, and fry in bacon fat until brown, turning once so as to brown the other side. Serve hot with tomato catsup.

Vegetable-Stuffed Peppers: Mix together one-half cup of cooked left-over beets finely diced, one cup of uncooked diced celery, two cups of raw diced apples, and one banana cut very small. This amount of filling will stuff six half peppers. Cut three whole peppers in half, to prepare them for stuffing, remove seeds and stems, and put them over the fire in cold water to cover; when they come to a boil let them simmer for five minutes (this takes their too-strong taste away,) then drain and stuff. Bake the vegetable-stuffed peppers in a shallow pan containing a little water and butter. They will require one-half hour in a moderate oven. A few buttered bread crumbs may be sprinkled on top of each pepper to brown.

Wholewheat Muffins: Put into a bowl one-eighth cup of granulated sugar, one unbeaten egg-yoke and one cup of sweet milk; beat well, then add one-half cup of white bread flour mixed and sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder. Also add one cup of wholewheat flour, two tablespoons of melted butter and one egg-white stiffly whipped. Mix well and turn into muffin pans. Bake twenty-five minutes in a hot oven. This recipe makes eight large muffins.

GRANDEUR OF COMMON THINGS IS EMPHASIZED

KHJ Audience Hears Impressive Discourse by Pastor of Mesa Church

The apotheosis of so-called common things featured the brilliant address to the KHJ audience from The Times broadcasting station yesterday morning, the speaker being Rev. Thomas Lutman, pastor of the Mesa Congregational Church. Preaching on the theme "What God Hath Cleansed, Call Not Common," Mr. Lutman spoke in part as follows:

"There are no common things. Stevenson told the story of an old chair and moved his audience to tears. Dickens awakened the emotions of the world when he wrote about tables and clocks. Turner's greatest picture is made up of two children and a dog. What is more common than the dust of the street? Unlovely, unfruitful, dead we call it. Yet the dust is shot through and through with beauty. It is the dust that tints the floating clouds and through its crimson screen the setting sun floods earth with ruby light. What is more common than mud, composed of sand and clay, soot and water? But heat that clay in fire and it becomes priceless porcelain; purify it and it becomes sapphire.

SPIDER'S HANDIWORK

"In the insect world, what is so common as the spider—yet it is with the spider's web that we measure the diameter of celestial bodies. In the floral world, what so common as the lily? Yet the Master said that even Solomon in all his glory was not so richly arrayed.

"There are no common places. We talk patronizingly of the dull and dingy hovels of the poor. In the meanest hovel in the world there is love and hate, laughter and tears, malice and pride and all the heavens and hells of which Dante sang. The world's saviors have always come from the hill-girded Nazareths, the obscure Bethlehems. It was in a backwoods village that Lincoln found a stage big enough for a world drama, in a village smithy that Longfellow found a statesman.

"Joel Chandler Harris found rubies and sapphires in the cottages of the poor; out of a Gypsy wagon came the soul-stirring evangelist, Rodney Smith; out of dirty little Nazareth came the Son of God.

NO COMMON DAYS

"There are no common days. We veil yesterday in the kindly mists of memory and to us tomorrow is radiant with the splendor of hope. Why do we depreciate today? The greatest life is that which lives the common day in an uncommon way. We speak of holy days, and that is right—but what day is not sacred, what hour is not holy, what moment may not be a moment of revelation?

"There are no common tasks. God likes people who do chores cheerfully. A counter may be as sacred as a pulpit. A laborer's overalls may be as sacred as a bishop's robes. We are blind if we cannot behold the glory that hangs eternally over every honest job. It was in a carpenter shop that the soul of Jesus met the Soul of God.

"There are no common people. To speak of common people is a contemptible distinction. If the so-called common people were to pause in their duties the world would stop. It is the toiling millions that do the work of the world. The most amazing phenomenon of the war was this: the prodigies of valor performed by ordinary men.

"The greatest man who ever trod the earth turned to a few publicans and sinners and said 'Ye are my friends.' He touched their heart-strings and they broke into wondrous melody. He found saints and heroes in the slums, in the gutters. His Advent angels passed over the idlers in the palace and stood by humble shepherds, watching their flocks by night.

"His cross was set up and the Incarnate Son of God suffered and died thereon to save the souls of men—not alone the souls of the sin-stained, the poor, the forgotten. And in the last moments of His agony, the Master opened with His bleeding fingers the door of Hope—not to the rabbi who stood at His feet, nor to the centurion who stood apart, but to the thief at His side. A common thief was worth the Cross of Christ!"

"MYSTERIES OF LIFE" IS SERMON THEME

Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, yesterday preached the second of a series of sermons on "The Yellowstone Park." He called special attention to the geysers, growlers and gushers as representing the three types of hot springs in the park and gave a humorous description of the "geesers" who go to see the geysers. Dr. Brougher spoke in part as follows:

"The mystery which has never been fully explained is, where does the heat all come from and from what source does this perpetual flow of water come? Various scientific theories have been advanced, but none of them have agreed on the source of the heat nor the supply of the water.

"Of course, the eruption is due to the production of steam and the pressure of some interference which finally results in an explosion. When this hapepns the water is shot high into the air.

"The greatest mystery of all is to be found in 'Old Faithful' which for thousands of years probably has exploded with the regularity of clockwork. Nature here some way has produced a combination which expresses itself with unvarying regularity.

"It is the mystery of life that ever keeps us interested. All life is full of mystery. The Apostle Paul found mystery in the revelations that God gave to him. Frequently he spoke of the 'mystery of Godliness,' and the processes by which a man is saved from sin and transformed in character.

"A French writer recently said 'We have no mystery today,' but I think he was mistaken. It is true that the progress of scientific inventions and the discovery of new laws of action have given to us more accurate knowledge of many things that in the past seemed mysterious. But all the mysteries have not yet passed away. There is mystery in life, in sin, in love and in death. And, last of all, there is mystery in God. He is Spirit. He is Omniscient and Omnipresent. He understands the human soul and is altogether perfect. But He cannot be seen with the human eye. We know not how He sustains us. It is through Jesus Christ, Our Saviour and Lord, that we are taught, in the face of all these mysteries, to look up into God's face and say 'Our Father' and trust Him. The mystery of life increases our faith in God and leads us to seek His guidance day by day."

WARNS MEN AGAINST EXTRAVAGANT WOMEN

Warning young men of moderate incomes to beware of women with extravagant tastes Dr. Bruce Brown, pastor of the South Park Christian Church, informed his youthful audience yesterday that "it is mighty hard to take care of a sealskin wife on a coonskin salary." Following are a few pointed sentences from the sermon:

"If some men had thirty or forty wives all working as stenographers they could just about break even and have all the things they want.

"When trouble comes the first thought of some women is, 'I want to see my husband,' and of others, 'I hope we won't find out.'

"It takes more than an M.A. to make a good ma.

"If love is blind it will probably get its eyes opened when the millinery bills come in.

"When we talk about big business we ought to remember that the biggest business in the world is raising a family.

"When people move out of a house it looks mighty lonesome, but it is not as pathetic as when love leaves a home.

"Marriage is never a failure, but sometimes tho people who try it are. No home is a failure until some one in it has proved to be a slacker.

"Some of the most pensive girls may prove to be the most expensive.

"The only way that I know of that a man can actually earn $1,000,000 is to marry for it.

"It seems as if some women must have been made out of the jawbone.

"Many a coward who is afraid to swear in the presence of other men's wives is lowdown enough to blaspheme and blackguard before his own wife and children."

ANNOUNCES CURE FOR DISEASES OF WORLD

Rev. Edgar Fay Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian Church, preached yesterday on "The Maker of the New Heart." He spoke in part as follows:

"It was out of a broken, disappointed, troubled heart that John the Baptist voiced his inquiry to Christ, 'Art thou he that cometh, or look we for another?' It was out of prison, out of the depths of despair that messengers conveyed his inquiry. The substance of the reply afforded was merely, 'Look about you and see; unprecedented things are coming to pass; the ancient promises are familiar to you; make your own conclusions on the evidences.'

"The broken heart of the world in our own times has been asking whether God is in its midst. Its prideful, self-sufficient civilization, ruined in the war, has known nothing since the war's end but perturbation. Whether the individual or group or nation looks for better things, there is nothing or no one unto whom to look save God.

"Better relations, understandings, prospects issue not from matters external, but from the heart, which is life's fountain. The heart of the individual given to God, the heart of the nation set on righteousness is the only guarantee of improved conditions in human relations.

"Everything has been discredited in the face of human need save Christ. Education, science, law are all being improved, made complex in the hope of meeting human needs, but they all falter and fail unless issuing from the new heart wherein Christ has been given throne room."

Cats Unpopular Is Inference in Society's Report

Dogs, whether they be yellow curs or popular bull terriers, are much more sought as pets than cats, according to the experiences of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. During the past week the society received eighty-seven homeless dogs and 272 stray cats. Six of the dogs were returned to anxious owners and fifty-two others were put into new homes.

But no owner was discovered looking for a cat, and only twenty-five persons could be induced to adopt a stray. During the week the society also found homes for burros, horses, mules, rabbits and guinea pigs.

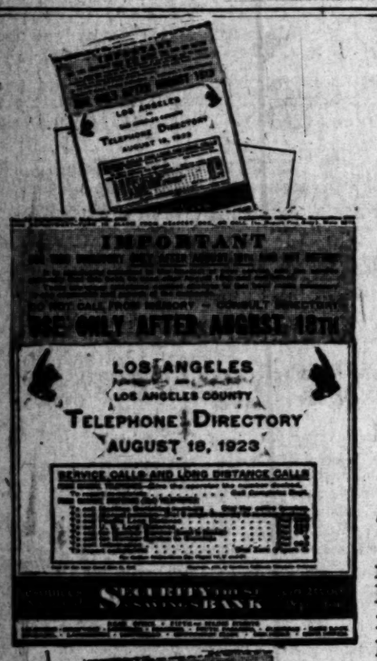
Call at Wayfarer headquarters, 410 West 9th Street, immediately, or call Merle Armitage at 877-211.

Two dress rehearsals—complete in every detail will be held on the evenings of Sept. 6th and 7th at the Coliseum—for participants only.



Sim Crabill says:

"Printing a year's supply of the Los Angeles Telephone Directory is a man-sized job. Placed, each directory end on end, they would form a monument twenty-one times as high as Mt. Everest, the loftiest mountain in the world. Placed end to end the printed pages would form a continuous path nine inches wide for 106,867 miles; nearly four and one-third times around the earth's surface at the equator, or a boulevard 25 feet wide from Los Angeles to New York.

TIMES-MIRROR Printing and Binding House has for many years printed the Los Angeles Telephone Directory, which runs at the present rate, nearly 300,000 copies every five months.

A stupendous undertaking requiring many thousands of dollars special equipment and a large corps of highly trained workmen, and one that few printing plants in the country are capable of fulfilling.

While this job is one of the biggest in the West, there are hundreds of others which we are equally well fitted to handle. In fact, Times-Mirror Service is as satisfactory as human care can make it, whether the job runs into hundreds of thousands of copies of a big directory or only a few thousand "envelope stuffers."

COUNTRY LIFE CHARMS LOST

Woman Charges Her Husband Refused to Work

Milking and Chores Caused Final Marital Smash

She Wants to Live in City to Have Some Rest

There was a time when Mrs. Velma Myers was an exponent of life in the great outdoors as depicted in motion pictures where wide stretches of open country with its virtuous and simple inhabitants are shown. But that time has gone for Mrs. Myers discovered to her sorrow that reality is quite different from the tales told by scenario writers, especially when one is married, as she says, to a man with a dislike for work.

After her marriage in 1914 to Michael Myers, against whom she has filed suit for divorce in the Superior Court, the couple went to live on the husband's homestead in San Diego county. For two weeks they were happy, the wife asserted in her complaint, and then Myers went to the city, leaving her alone on the ranch that was seven miles away from the nearest community.

BRINGS COMPANION

On his return a few days later he brought back with him a woman companion, the wife says. After the simple evening meal was over, the guest produced a square bottle and invited them to drink, the wife declares. When she refused to partake of the liquor, her husband became angry and as a result of the ensuing quarrel, the first separation took place, Mrs. Myers asserted.

A few months later Myers sought her out and upon his promises to be considerate in the future, she returned to him. This time they went to live with her father, Mrs. Myers stated, and her work consisted of milking fourteen cows, delivering the milk to the neighbors and then tending to the other chores around the ranch. Aside from cursing his wife and inflicting corporal punishment upon her at different times, Myers was not very busy, she said.

Another separation followed, she avers, and then another reconciliation. This time the couple went to work for a neighboring rancher. Or rather, Mrs. Myers went to work, she declared, for aside from cooking for eighteen men and feeding the cattle, she was not very busy, except when husband found other things for her to do.

Feeling that she had given country life a fair trial, and her husband ample opportunity to show some sign of ambition, Mrs. Myers asserted, she left for the last time and filed suit for divorce. From now on she intends to remain in the city where even although the freshness may be missing, the work is lighter.

THOUSANDS HEAR JUDGE RUTHERFORD

PRESENT DISORDERS MARK ARMAGEDDON'S APPROACH SAYS PREACHER

J. F. Rutherford, known as "Judge" Rutherford, the successor of the late "Pastor" Russell, spoke yesterday afternoon to from twenty to twenty-five thousand persons at the Coliseum. He gave his lecture based on his promise that "Millions Now Living Will Never Die" which he has been giving in various cities of the country.

Mr. Rutherford's appearance here was in connection with the convention of the International Bible Students' Association, of which he is the head. The convention meetings have been held at Trinity Auditorium. Mr. Rutherford's address at the Coliseum was heralded last week by page advertisements in the newspapers and yesterday by banners on the backs of the automobiles of his adherents.

The promise of a lecture without contributions was kept, but a book written by the speaker was on sale by the ushers. This book contains the theory of the Russell-Rutherford belief which theologically has the peculiarity of taking literally the Christian promise of everlasting life. It is Mr. Rutherford's contention that the present world disorders mark the approach of Armageddon, and the abolition of death to virtuous persons.

Politically, Mr. Rutherford decried the clergy, calling on his hearers to leave the churches. He makes a trinity of the devil's representatives on earth, "big business, big politicians and big preachers." He also preaches against the League of Nations, against military organization and said "big business, big politicians and big preachers" had combined to put over prohibition.

Several times in his address he said that "secret service men" were following him around the country to take notes on his speeches, and that the "big preachers" had put the government up to this, declaring that he and his followers were in league with the Bolshevists. This he denied.

Mr. Rutherford predicts that Armageddon) and everlasting life on earth for the righteous will begin "in two or three years."

CHAMBER AIDS CAUSE OF LEARNING ABROAD

The international character of civic and educational co-operation by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is reflected in some recent publicity in Paris, the outcome of which is a letter from Charles Cestre, Professor of American Civilization at the University of Paris, to William T. Bishop, president of the local chamber.

It is generally known that the Los Angeles Chamber collaborates with schools and colleges and other educational institutions throughout Europe, but, in consideration of the important comment of Professor Cestre, the local chamber has specifically announced that fact.

The chamber's service in this case was the delivery to the Librairie Larousse, Auge, Gillon, Hollier-Larousse, Moreau and Cie., of a batch of photographs, documents and data for the University of Paris's projected volume, L'Amerique. The testimonial of appreciation was signed by Professor Cestre and Andre Bagal.

SHEIKS, TAKE THIS WARNING

Bulldog Trained to Get Mashers

Gladys Geelan and Adonis

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Aug. 26.—Beach mashers haven't a chance when it comes to carrying on a summer flirtation with pretty Gladys Geelan, one of the city's fair mermaids.

Why?

Because Miss Geelan, who daily enjoys a dip in the inviting waters at the beach, takes Adonis, her pet bulldog, in tow and woe betide any "sheik" who would molest the fair owner.

"You see when I go for my daily dip in the ocean I really like to swim, and my dog enjoys a plunge in the ocean, too. Most every sort of a pet has been noticed on the beach this season, from pet monkeys to small pigs, but for real protection there is nothing like my faithful dog," said Miss Geelan.

NAVAL RESERVES LAUDED

Admiral Robertson and Capt. Leigh Commend Officers of Southland for Active Interest

Eulogizing the United States Naval Reserve force in general, Capt. R. H. Leigh, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation in Washington, Saturday night addressed a large gathering of Naval Reserve officers of the Eleventh Naval District at the University Club. He commended the officers of this district in particular, stating that in no other part of the country had he found as great interest as is manifested by the reservists in Southern California.

Capt. Leigh and Rear-Admiral Ashley Robertson, recently appointed commandant of the district, were guests of honor at the special dinner given by the officers. Capt. Leigh brought encouragement to the reservists in his speech when he discussed the consideration given the reserve force in the new naval bill.

SUPPORT FOR RESERVE

He also assured his listeners that Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt was one of the staunchest supporters of the reserve men; that he had pledged his influence to give the reserve every possible aid.

Under the new naval bill, Capt. Leigh said, the reserve is made a component part of the regular Navy, and he went into detail to show how the future advantages to one will also be for the other. Promotion in the Naval reserve will in the future be in order in peace as well as war. And next year, Capt. Leigh said, the Navy Department intends to ask for a reserve force of 3000 officers and 10,000 men. At the same time, he said, he felt convinced that the quota of the Eleventh District should be increased; that the district was in a position to meet the increase, and that the intended returning to Washington to inform officials there of the deserving qualities of the reservists in Southern California.

RECALLS OLD DAYS

In a short address, Rear-Admiral Robertson spoke informally of olden days in the "outfit," and recalled incidents of the World War which made the reserve force stand out in a "blaze of glory." He recalled that virtually every submarine chaser was manned entirely by the reservists. In closing, he promised those present he would do his utmost to make the personnel of the Eleventh District the best equipped and trained in the country.

POLICE ARE WOUNDED IN GUN BATTLE

Nab Suspected Motorcycle Thief as Companion Flees; Injuries Slight

Two officers, members of the newly formed "crime crusher" squad, were slightly wounded, a bandit suspect was captured and his companion escaped in a warm gun battle which ensued early yesterday when the patrolmen came upon the youths as they were endeavoring to steal a motorcycle, according to the officers.

The captured man gave his name as Harry Chapdeline, 21 years of age. He was booked at Central Police Station on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

The shooting occurred when Officers W. Detherage and R. Borgan came upon the pair on San Julian street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. As the officers accosted the youths, one of them suddenly produced a revolver and commenced firing, one of the bullets grazing Detherage's left cheek and a second injuring the right hand of Officer Borgan.

The gunman escaped down an alley, and although squads of police combed the district for more than an hour, no trace of him could be found.

His companion was taken to jail and questioned by detectives and it is indicated that developments may shew him to be implicated in recent thefts.

Both of the injured officers had their wounds dressed at the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Saverien, who pronounced the wounds as superficial.

Threat to Parents Charged

After he is asserted to have threatened his aged father and mother with a hatchet, Peter Petersen, 39 years of age, a sailor, was overpowered yesterday at his home, 1468 West Thirty-seventh street, by a squad of patrolmen from University Station, led by Lieutenant Hagenbaugh, and taken to the Receiving Hospital for examination as to his sanity.

Segregation of Races Is Urged by Realty Men

A resolution declaring that property in Caucasian neighborhoods should not be rented, leased or sold to persons of non-Caucasian race has been passed by the governing committee of the Los Angeles Realty Board, it was announced yesterday. The resolution was adopted at the request of the Los Angeles County Anti-Asiatic Association, which also had named a committee to investigate reports that certain teachers have been active in Japanese propaganda in the public schools. The Realty Board's resolution reads:

"Whereas, the encroachment of other than white or Caucasian race in any residential district creates antagonism and bitter feelings,

"Therefore, be it resolved by the governing committee of the Los Angeles Realty Board that members of the board should not sell or lease property in districts now occupied by the white or Caucasian race to members of any other race."

Acting as ushers for "The Wayfarer" at the Coliseum September 8 to 15 will be 500 Boy Scouts organized and trained for the work by their commander, Scout Executive E. B. DeGroot, according to an announcement made yesterday at Wayfarer headquarters.

Scout Executive DeGroot decided to lend his boys in this capacity as a result of a telegram of approval from Regional Scout Executive Charles Miller, who gave it after an investigation of the plans and purposes of "The Wayfarer."

All Boy Scouts who wish to leave the Coliseum at 9 o'clock may do so as the crowds will be seated before that hour, it was stated.

Dr. J. E. Crowther, author of "The Wayfarer," will speak at the Masonic Club luncheon Wednesday noon, it was announced. He will also talk before the five divisions of the Los Angeles Railway Company.

SAYS LAWS ARE MENACE TO RELIGION

Adventist Fears Church Schools May be Abolished in California

That religious freedom is seriously menaced in this country at present was asserted by Rev. W. F. Martin, who yesterday addressed an audience at the Adventist campground, Florence and Vermont avenues. Strong religious organizations, led by the ... Day Alliance, Rev. Mr. Martin said, are determined to obtain legislation to force their ideas of Sabbath observance upon the rest of the people; and laws are being sought in California and other States which would take from persons the right to say in what schools their children shall be educated. Already such a law has been enacted in Oregon, he stated.

Quoting from a copy of the Oregon statute, Rev. Mr. Martin said that as soon as it came into force which would be in 1924, every parent or guardian of children between the ages of 8 and 16 years who have not completed the eighth grades of school work would be liable to a fine of $100 and imprisonment for thirty days if he failed to send such children to the public school; and each day's absence on the part of the child is to constitute a separate offense. The minister said the law also at the abolition of church schools.

A member of the Ku Klux Klan, he said, told him that the Klan with the help of another secret order, enacted the Oregon law, and that they would do the same thing in California in 1924. They will follow similar legislation in other States throughout the Union, he stated.

"DULCY" CHARMS

CONNIE TALMADGE CREATES REAL CHARACTER

By Grace Kingsley

Just because a theme makes a good poem is no sign it will make a good painting! Because it makes a good painting is no sign it will reproduce as a novel. Because it makes a good stage play does not mean that it will make a good motion picture.

"Dulcy" was a perfectly delightful comedy on the stage. On the screen it is delightful, but not perfectly. But it is in such good hands, down at Loew's, what with Constance Talmadge playing Dulcy, Sidney Franklin directing her, Anita Loos writing the subtitles, that it cannot but be entertaining. Quite frankly, however, farce comedies and farces, transferred from stage to screen, always seem to miss. Probably it is because farce comedy must be fast, must depend on lines and intonations, and its situations must have a cumulative effect and not be fragmentary, to be effective, that the transferred comedy seems always a little laborious. Comedies written specially for the screen, you realize, are usually not complicated; they are merely a string of amusing incidents.

Constance Talmadge has an ...ish and brilliant line of comedy, like nobody else's on the screen; she seems always to be laughing at the world, and most of her comedies have been built for this purpose.

So in "Dulcy" it is all the more to her credit that she manages a real characterization of the young Mrs. Malaprop, otherwise Dulcy Smith, who tries to aid her husband, but always does the wrong thing. She is so charming, so lovable, so adorably muddled always, that whether she is weeping over her last failure or exulting over her next all-wrong scheme to make somebody happy, you love her.

The denouement is excellently handled by Franklin, when old Forbes, the cranky millionaire, decides that nobody could possibly be as stupid as Dulcy, therefore that probably she is lying to him about her husband's business, and so, when everything seems to Dulcy's husband to be lost through meddling of his wife, everything suddenly comes right. As the bromidic Dulcy herself would probably say, "After all, the heart is not a bad guide."

Claude Gillingwater tops everybody except Miss Talmadge by the cleverness of his acting as Forbes, the choleric millionaire. Jack Mulhall proves himself in every role he plays more and more the model picture actor, with his power of putting over thought, comedy and drama; Ann Cornwall is a perfectly adorable Angela, and here's hoping we may see lots more of her; Johnny Harron is coming out of his background and becoming a great little screen mummer, and the other parts are nicely done, with Gilbert Douglas very effective indeed as the goofy Van Dyke.

The musical fantasie, Harlequin Days, with some excellent classic dancing and some grand opera singing, is nicely done, excepting that the jazz dancers seem out of place, even though the girls are good in their line.

Leo Moran amuses in Jack White-Mermaid comedy, "The Busher," and the remainder of the program is good.

ROARING MELLER IS LURE AT SYMPHONY

Once in a while, amid the pother and high-brow strain of trying to put psychology on the screen, of striving to stretch the screen to cover the stage, it is a bit of rest to go and see a howling melodrama on the screen—one of the sort that has lots of action if little acting; sole kicks instead of soul kicks.

That's the sort of picture "Blazing Barriers" is, from James Oliver Curwood's story. You probably know the Curwood formula: French Canadian characters; noble young French Canuck of the woods, wicked city slicker from Quebec, pretty girl with her hair always hanging down her back but always nicely combed, a forest fire, a kidnaping, a lot of animal actors. Well, they are all there in this one.

Nevertheless, the forest fire is a little more realistic than the former ones; it looks more dangerous for the actors. I wonder, indeed, where this sort of thing is going to stop. Maybe, though, the vividness of this part is due to the red-tinted blaze.

Lew Cody is the picturesque home-spun hero, who must have worn asbestos to go thorugh the fire the way he did to rescue the girl. At any rate he is picturesque, and leaves a lively impression. Sheldon Lewis seems to me too attractive to be wasted on a mere villain, but he is effective. Marguerite Courtot is entirely engaging as the mountain heroine, but we should love to see this intelligent young actress in a picture in which she had really to act. The other roles are nicely done.

Baby Peggy is a great asset, no doubt of that. But I'm glad she is to have better material than is afforded her in "Taking Orders," though there are some funny gags at that, especially the scenes where she has a dog tied up in her daddy's dentist chair and is operating on his teeth, and some of the cafe scenes.

HOLLYWOOD DOG SHOW

Exhibition to Take Place on October 5-6

Hollywood's second dog show will be held October 5 and 6 in a big circus tent at Hollywood Boulevard and Vista Del Mar street. The site of last year's dog show was chosen again this season because it offers ample room to care for the large entry list.

Al Christie, chairman of the cup committee, reports that the Hollywood show will have one of the largest and finest collections of trophies ever presented in the West. These trophies will be donated by dog fanciers, Hollywood merchants and motion-picture officials and stars.

The president of the Hollywood Kennel Club, G. G. Greenwood, announces that from present indications there will be over 600 blooded canines exhibited. Registrations may be made on September 18 at the Christie Hotel, Hollywood Boulevard at McCadden Place.

Friends Say Actress Will Not Film 'Kim'

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A new reputation is being established for Maude Adams among the Broadway sophisticates. While rumors and contradictions concerning her activities continually surge around her name the actress maintains a secretive silence which is causing her to be called among the phrase makers—"the mystery woman of the stage." Those who are most nearly intimate with Miss Adams since her retirement from the stage hold small respect for the story that Miss Adams will produce Kipling's "Kim."

"I was with Miss Adams all Friday afternoon," one of her old friends said today. "She said nothing about going to India to make a motion-picture of anything. I do not believe she has any such plan."

A flat contradiction of the "Kim" story was made today by Harold Paget, of the Paget Literary Agency, who has long been Mr. Kipling's representative in this country.

"I have no knowledge of any such arrangement," Mr. Paget said. "If this plan were definitely in prospect I should almost certainly know of it."

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Aug. 26. Maude Adams was here a few hours this morning but left about noon for New York City. When her attention was called to articles in the New York papers relative to the motion-picture rights for filming "Kim" by Rudyard Kipling, she simply smiled but made no comment.

Dr. P. C. Nutting of the Church street laboratory, who has been more or less connected with Maude Adams in her motion-picture work in the general electric department said Miss Adams had spoken of "Kim" about a year ago but further than that little was said since then.

ANOTHER WEEK OF "MERRY GO ROUND"

"Merry Go Round," the Viennese drama, enters its fifth week at the Mission Theater today.

"Merry Go Round" serves to introduce to the public a real screen "find." It is Mary Philbin, the organ-grinder heroine of the Prater, Vienna's amusement center. Opposite her is Norman Kerry, in the role of the dashing Count, while chief in support are George Hackathorne, Dale Fuller, Cesare Gravina, George Siegmann, Maude George, Spottiswoode Aitken, Dorothy Wallace, Anton Vaverka, Albert Conti and many others.

Among the featured numbers of the program are Ben Turpin in his latest Sennett comedy, "Where Is My Wandering Boy This Evening?" and the Mission orchestra, under the direction of Gino Severi.

"SPOILERS" AT TWO THEATERS AT ONCE

Rex Beach's story of the Klondike gold rush, "The Spoilers," has lost none of its vividness and none of its glamor in the years that have passed since it was written—and that have passed since Col. Selig first put it on the screen ten years ago. The new version produced by Goldwyn has started its second week at the California Theater and its first week at Miller's. The production is on a bigger scale than was the original and the great fight staged between the villain and the hero surpasses that of a decade ago.

The cast is one of the most notable that has ever been seen in one photoplay and includes such players as Anna Q. Nilsson, Milton Sills, Noah Beery, Barbara Bedford, Louise Fazenda, Mitchell Lewis, Wallace MacDonald and Ford Sterling.

DANISH TENOR HEARD

Bjornskjold Signs Two Numbers On Grauman Program

The Danish tenor, Povl Bjornskjold, was greeted with enthusiasm at Grauman's "discovery concert" yesterday, where he appeared as a featured attraction to the program.

His voice is powerful and dramatic and his rendition of Siegmund's "Love Song" from Wagner's opera, "Die Walkure," was a musical treat. For a second number, Mr. Bjornskjold sang the Caruso composition, "Dreams of Long Ago," in which the sympathetic and lyrical quality of his voice were emphasized.

Other features included such artists as Cincent Spolidoro, harpist, whose playing brought out the beauty and charm of this instrument; Joseph Green, violin virtuoso, offering two difficult works, and Peter Lewine, a wizard of the xylophone.

Lucille Gibbs, a popular coloratura soprano, sang two lovely numbers, with Jeannette Rogers playing a flute obbligato. These were Proch's "Themes and Variations" and "The Valley of Laughter," and in both Miss Gibbs's voice vied with the flute in beauty and perfection of tone.

Charles Schmaltz, tenor, and Arthur Clayton, baritone, singing the duet from Verdi's "La Forza Del Destino," and Charles Musgrave, 'cellist, playing two compositions of Saint-Saens, "The Swan," and the Adagio Appassionato, delighted.

Henry Murtagh played selections from Victor Herbert's "The Fortune Teller," Massenet's "Elegie," "Tales From Vienna Woods," by Strauss, and "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

HOLLYWOOD HONORS PIONEERS TONIGHT

Tonight will be "Pioneer Night" at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theater, and headed by William A. Spalding, president of the Pioneer Society, pioneers who have braved the terrors of the desert and the hostile Indians in making their way to the promised land of the Golden State will be guests of honor at "The Covered Wagon."

It will be a gala night with an all-pioneer orchestra playing in the lobby, reviving the melodies of the early days, and the spirit will be that of the days of '49.

FRANCES WHITE IS HERE

Frances White, who used to soubrette about this town in all the tabloids and musical revues put on, is coming home to the Orpheum today, the same theater she left several years ago for the other Broadway and success. She found both, in generous measure, and she wants Los Angeles to have the ocular proof thereof, so back she comes. She will do a lot of the numbers she made famous in the East.

BLUEBEARD WEDS FOR LOVE AGAIN

BY KENNETH TAYLOR

By the time a man has married—and divorced—seven wives he certainly ought to know enough about women, marriage and himself to pick a permanent one the eighth time.

That, in brief, is the message of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," now showing at the Metropolitan Theater. The picture tells its story in such a pleasant, entertaining and amusing way that you will probably enjoy it, whether you ordinarily care for Gloria Swanson and her acting or do not. If I have a nightmare tonight, it will be of Gloria grinning throughout half of this picture. But I won't, for I think the picture as a whole overshadows the work of any of the individuals which went to make it up.

Anyway, the glorious Gloria finds ample opportunities to wear new clothes of every variety from bathing suits (shades of Mack Sennett!) to the latest in evening gowns. And that is what seems to matter in this day and age.

There isn't a great deal to be said about the production. It is the kind you enjoy, but don't talk about particularly. For the most part, the direction and editing of the film is good, but there are one or two places where a lot is left to the imagination. Why does the modern Bluebeard, for instance, after having been married to his current wife for some months, very suddenly fly into a rage because in all that time she has never treated him like a husband—or even a lover? However, the fundamental situation is interesting enough to excuse such little oversights as this.

Huntley Gordon does quite a bit of scoring in his own part as the modern Bluebeard, who divorces his wives instead of hanging them. Incidentally, there is a neat bit of costume stuff introduced when the girl learning of her husband's eventful past for the first time, visualizes the Chamber of Horrors, with seven wives hanging by ropes in seven ways—some by the hair, some by the neck. If the director had just continued the good work, and shown the delayed honeymoon in India, with all the pageantry and procession to which the situation lends itself, we might have thought a different man was back of the megaphone. But on second thought, we'd know it wasn't De Mille. There are no bathtubs.

The next most interesting member of the cast is Robert Agnew, as the faithful but hopeless lover of the heroine. Bobby stages a couse scene in the lady's bedroom that is little short of being a classic of its kind.

Others in the cast include Irene Dalton as Bluebeard's former secretary, who had ambitions of being the eighth wife; Frank H. Butler, Paul Weigel and Lianne Salver.

The story was written by Sada Cowan from an adaptation by Charlton Andrews of Alfred Savoire's French farce. Yes, we go to a lot of trouble for our screen material. Sam Wood directed.

Herman Heller's Orchestra plays "Merry Widow" selections and "On the Road to Mandalay," Henry Mertagh, playing Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" and Henri Scott, bass-baritone, in a few selections, complete the musical bill. Felix, the cat, comes to Hollywood and gets in the movies among the short reels.

"COMMON LAW" PLAYS RETURN ENGAGEMENT

One of the season's interesting attractions is the Selznick picturization of Robert W. Chambers's novel, "The Common Law," which is now showing at the Alhambra Theater.

The production was directed by George Archainbaud. Corrine Griffith portrays the part of Valeri West, thrown into the world to earn her own living, until at last she is driven to secure work as a model in the studios of a painter. There is much drama and pathos in her first meeting with Louis Neville, played by Conway Tearle.

The cast includes some of the most noted names in filmdom. Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle play the leading roles and are supported by Elliott Dexter, Doris May, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Miss Du Pont, Harry Myers, Phyllis Haver, Wally Van and Dagmar Godowsky.

A WIFE'S INFLUENCE

A drama which shows the effect of a wife's influence on her husband's business is "Daytime Wives" which comes to Grauman's Third-street Theater today. The course of the story shows some striking costumes and beautiful settings for this is essentially a society play. Interwoven are thrilling moments with a spectacular hand-to-hand fight on top of a skyscraper under construction and the collapse of the building. The cast includes Wyndham Standing, Grace Darmond, Derelys Perdue, Kenneth Gibson, Edward Hearn and William Conklin.

LICENSE LAW HITS VISALIA

Tariff Set on Amount of Business Done

City Treasury Out to Get Added Funds

Legion Tax Proposal Fails to Win Action

VISALIA, Aug. 26.—Virtually everyone except day laborers, are hit by the new license ordinance adopted by the Visalia City Council which soon goes into effect. Not only do mercantile houses pay licenses based on the amount of business transacted, but lawyers, doctors, drugless healers, banks and insurance agents must contribute quarterly to the city treasury. A marked increase in municipal revenue is anticipated.

One "speckled" mule is among the items advertised for sale by road district number two, of Tulare county. The animal is described as "old" but its real age is not given. No one appeared at the auction sale at which the mule was to be disposed of, recently.

TAX PROPOSALS

The proposal, put forward by several posts of the American Legion in Tulare county, that a tax levy of two mills on the dollar be added to the 1924 rate, to provide funds which could be advanced to posts desiring to build permanent homes, was neither accepted nor shelved, as was expected, by the Board of Supervisors at its late meeting. The posts proposed to borrow the money and repay it over a term of years. Considerable opposition to the scheme has been expressed and the legion council announced that it would be withdrawn for the present, at the conclusion of the hearing. The board, however, went ahead with plans for submitting the proposal to the voters at the next general election.

Plans and specifications for a $40,000 children's ward for the Kings-Tulare County Tubercular Hospital at Springville, have been ordered prepared by the Boards of Supervisors of the two counties, and it is planned to ask for bids on the new addition in November. The growing use of the tubercular hospital has made the erection of a new ward a necessity. It will be separate from the other buildings at the hospital grounds and planned so that additions can be made to it as they are needed.

SCHOOL ROW

TULARE, Aug. 26.—A tactical victory for the board in the six months' squabble between A. W. Ray, city elementary school superintendent, and the Board of School Directors, has been admitted by Mr. Ray, who announced that his desk had been removed from the superintendent's office and all the official school documents placed in storage. He also stated that his salary warrant for July had not been honored.

There has been trouble between the board and the superintendent since a petition, signed by about 200 people, was presented, asking for Ray's removal. The superintendent has a four-year contract, just half completed, with the board and refused to vacate his position. He alleges that religious prejudice is responsible for the attempt to have him removed. The board takes the position that the superintendency has already been vacated and the contract rendered void. Ray has just returned from a vacation trip and he declares that his desk was removed from the office during his absence.

OPPOSE HIGHWAY

EXETER, Aug. 26.—Exeter Chamber of Commerce board of directors went on record as opposed to the Lone Pine-Porterville Sierra highway, on the ground of the expense involved, at its regular meeting this week. The directors also declared that other roads across the mountains should be surveyed before the Lone Pine-Porterville project is decided upon.

INSTALL HATCHERY

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 26.—Rock crushing machinery, which will utilize chips and waste rock, is being installed by the Porterville Granite Company at its quarry east of this city. The crushed rock will be used largely as a facing on magnesite stucco, though it is also used for road surfacing and for mixing with cement.

DANCE HALL RAZED

Fire destroyed the Idylhour dancing pavilion, on the southern outskirts of the city, at an early hours Friday morning. Several small booths and part of a merry-go-round were also burned. The loss is put at $2000, with very little insurance. The origin of the blaze is a mystery.

Fails in Wife Chase; Then Shoots Self

Byrdell Coop, 35 years of age, a carpenter, ended an unsuccessful chase of his wife with threats to kill her yesterday by sending a bullet through his own temple, according to a police report. The chase took place at 1125 East Washington street, Where Mrs. Coop was living. Coop, police say they were told, came to the house intoxicated and armed. His wife managed, however, to keep out of his way. Coop was taken to the Receiving Hospital and then transferred to General Hospital. His death is expected.

IS LARGEST ARTIFICIAL LAKE

Sardinia is not exactly the place where one would expect to find the largest artificial lake in Europe, and, according to the Italian papers, in the world. Nevertheless, that island claims this distinction.

A hydro-electric development has recently been completed on the River Tirso, near Oristano, in the course of which 420,000,000 cubic meters of water have been impounded; and this is only the first of a series of seven artificial reservoirs included in the present project. The water is to be used both for power and irrigation, and the new works are expected to give constant employment to more than 200,000 people.—[Living Age.

The War on Crime
By Geo. C. Henderson

Chapter VII

The Genus Thief

(All Rights Reserved)

There are more thieves than any other class of criminal. Theft is the predominant crime.

We are prone to look upon anyone who steals as a thief. Criminologists, however, do not list them as such. The man who breaks into a house and steals a purse is a burglar, because he has forced a lock. If he stole the same purse while a guest in the house, it would be a theft. If he held the matron up on the street with a deadly weapon and forcibly took the purse from her, that would be robbery. Yet the result to him would be the same. Whether he robbed, or "burgled" or "thieved" the purse, he would still have the same amount of loot. It's the method of operation that distinguishes the thief from the burglar and the burglar from the robber.

Incidentally the robber usually gets a longer term in prison than either of the others.

Larceny is just another word for theft. There are petty larcenists and grand larcenists. In some States the theft of amounts under $50 constitutes petty larceny and is punishable by jail sentence. Grand larceny is a felony and a prison offense, in the majority of commonwealths.

It is impossible to classify or describe the thief as a type. Thieves are too numerous for that. There are chicken thieves, gold thieves, diamond thieves, horse thieves, automobile thieves, clothing thieves and innumerable others.

In New York alone messenger thieves stole over $1,000,000 in bonds and other securities during one period of six months in 1919. Thieves stole a safe from the fifth floor of army headquarters in Chicago from which $1,100,000 had just been removed.

Audacious larcenists with an ironical sense of humor robbed the safe at Sing Sing prison of $400 in war savings stamps and the prison authorities announced that it was an "outside" job.

In 1921 a group of New York crooks stole $1,500,000 in bonds which were en route from the Federal Reserve Bank in New York to the Treasury Department in Washington, and sometime later the wife of a famous pugilist was arrested in connection with the theft.

Four thieves, said to have operated as an extensive syndicate with offices in Los Angeles, were arrested there some time ago and admitted that a big furrier establishment was being used as a "fence" for the disposition of stolen goods. The authorities in Los Angeles declared that this "fur theft syndicate" had stolen more than $100,000 worth of goods in one year.

Sometimes a thief will steal one particular article. Nearly every community at one time or another has been troubled by a "perfume thief" who has stolen nothing but rare perfumes. Then there are chicken thieves who specialize in fine fowl and clothing thieves who haunt locker rooms and halls.

On one hand we have the petty stealer of junk, brass, copper, etc. On the other hand we have thieves like those who recently looted a great liner of $125,000 in English gold coin. The main difference between the two was in the opportunity. If the junk thief had had a chance to steal the $125,000, he would have done it. This does not mean of course that there are not grades of thieves.

Some society thieves appear to be quite intelligent. The diamond thief may be exceedingly clever and hard to detect, while the petty thief may be nothing but a "hophead" who steals solely for the purpose of getting money with which to buy narcotics.

On one occasion grand larcenists drove up to an army supply depot in a big regulation truck and began to load it up with army supplies, preparatory to hauling it away. The thieves were in uniform and they told the guard that they had instructions to get the goods. The guard demanded to see the orders, however, and the crooks escaped by going away to get them.

One of the queerest stunts ever pulled by a thief was the work of a gang of youngsters. These fellows would steal a truck, paste adhesive tape over one of the license numbers to disguise it and then drive out to a place where fruit or vegetables were ready for picking. They would pick ripe tomatoes, or dig the onions or potatoes, and drive down to the wholesale market and sell the produce.

Tomorrow, "The Jewel Thief."

KERN MAY SLASH COSTS

Bakersfield County Officials Hope to Save Money on Forthcoming Expense Budget

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 26.—County Auditor Woody has prepared a recapitulation of the figures submitted to him by the Kern County Board of Supervisors, representing the final approved budget grants for the following year. From this recapitulation the Supervisors will set the tax rate for 1923 to 1924. The tax rate last year was $1.40 for the "outside districts" and $1.10 for the incorporated cities, the difference of 30 cents being exemption from road tax. The official tax rate for the coming fiscal year will be declared by the Supervisors in December, 1923.

Under the county fund division the total, according to the Auditor's summary, is $327,871. The salary fund is $234,712.50.

HOSPITAL APPROPRIATIONS

Kern County General Hospital appropriations will total $133,655, and the tubercular fund $53,981.

For the general school fund this means the elementary schools only, the sum is $513,002.

Bond redemption for the following year will total $40,000, with $9000 interest.

For the county high school fund the sum on which the tax levy will be made is $127,980.

The Kern County Chamber of Commerce fund totals $15,000. Supervisor J. O. Hart said this morning that he believed a saving of at least $7000 would be effected by moving the chamber into the Courthouse.

HIGHWAY BONDS

Highway bonds for 1913 amount to $213,250, on which a levy will be declared.

For permanent road improvements the sum attains $83,932.

The general road fund to be allowed will be between 30 and 40 cents. It may be declared as low as 30 or as high as 40 cents.

There seems to be some misconception regarding the actual arbitrary powers delegated to the Supervisors by law in levying taxes through declaring the rate for each year. In the departments already enumerated in this recapitulation the Supervisors can only effect radical cuts or increases in these departments; county sums, general hospital funds, tubercular hospital funds, chamber of commerce, permanent road improvements and general road improvements.

SCHOOL FUNDS

In the matter of school funds the amounts of grants are stipulated by State law, and the appropriations must be in conformity.

For bond redemptions a levy must be made sufficient to pay the interest and the initial indebtedness when the bonds mature.

It is the opinion about the Courthouse that the total saving on this year's apportionments may approximate $45,000.

JAPAN PAYS HONOR TO KATO

Influence for Good in Washington Conference is Remarked on by Prince; Work to Carry on

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—The nation's sorrow at Premier Kato's death was expressed today by Prince Tokugawa, president of the House of Peers and a delegate to the Washington Arms Conference, when he said:

"The death of the Premier was a great loss to our country and he undoubtedly also is mourned by many Americans who came to know him during the Washington conference. Though Baron Kato has passed away America may rest assured that his policies in regard to the agreements reached at Washington will live and will be maintained in spirit as well as letter by whomever his successor may be.

"Had Baron Kato not been one of the delegates to Washington," Prince Tokugawa continued, "I doubt whether the conference could have reached the same definite agreements. He was a rare type who could plan for war but preferred to plan for peace He originated Japan's famous eight-eight naval program and yet he was the first man to agree to scrap his own creation in the interests of peace. Only a big man could do that.

"It is a sad coincidence that President Harding and Premier Kato should pass away within such a short time, and yet it must have given the greatest satisfaction to these two leading statesmen to see the fruit of their efforts in the ratification of the principal treaties."

Viscount Takahashi, former Premier and now president of the Seikakai majority party said the Premier's death would not affect Japan's policies abroad. He also referred to Kato as a great peacemaker praising his administration policies which had affected so beneficially the country's foreign relations.

Baron Saito, who is regarded as his probable successor, has a record as Governor of Korea which assures a liberal administration and a general adherence to Kato's policies if appointed. He is a firm believer in the promotion of better relations between the United States and Japan.

Baron Den, Governor of Formosa, is believed to be the next choice. He like-wise has made a record in colonial administration. Both Saito and Den are party men but both are willing to align themselves with the Seiyukai majority which supported Kato.

PORT NOTES

Allegations that the Mallory Line, tanker Swiftstar, lost at sea with all on board while on a voyage from Los Angeles to Fall River, was overloaded have been made on the New York exchange. As a result the demand has been renewed by British underwriters for the establishment of a compass deadline for tank steamers under the American flag. At present the loading of vessels is left to the discretion of the owners, who often try to load a ship heavily.

The Swiftstar, owned by the Swiftsure Transportation Company and operated out of this port by the L. D. Mallory Company, was of 8206 tons and was built on the Pacific Coast in 1921. The hull is understood to have been insured in London, while large interests on her crude petroleum cargo were written on the New York market. The company has notified the underwriters of the loss of the ship and filed claims for the insurance.

The British tramp steamer Paris City, under voyage charter to J. J. Moore & Company, arrival yesterday from the free port of Danzig on her initial call at this port. She has more than 3000 tons of steel and general freight consigned for Los Angeles and later will go to Puget Sound to load for Australia. Another notable British arrival yesterday was that of the Furness Prince liner Monselian Prince. She brought a full cargo, 180,000 bags of cement for Los Angeles from Ellesmere Port, England.

The fishing fleet tender Fortuna was pulled off the Clemente shoals yesterday by the tug Jimmie K. and towed to this port minus her propeller. The Fortuna lost her wheel while making top speed for the albacore schools, running off the Islands yesterday.

William Cameron, vice-president and general manager of the Garland Steamship Corporation, operating a fleet of freight steamers in intercoastal trade, will leave New York this week for a visit of the Pacific Coast. His first coast visit will be at Los Angeles Harbor, coming here direct from Galveston.

Seven boats flying the burgee of the California Yacht Club will start today in the opening races on San Francisco Bay of the Pacific Coast Championship Yachting Regatta. Lohengrin, a cutter owned by Commodore Hooper, is the first six-meter sloop Peggy. She will race today in the first six-meter race ever held on the Pacific coast. Others will be the German sloop Iris and Capt. John Barneson's Lady Betty.

SARTORIAL INNOVATION FALLS FLAT

Daring Attempt of Rebels Against British Fashions to Revive Frock Frowned On

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Aug. 8.—When two or three brave—and young—gallants showed up at the King and Queen's garden party at Buckingham Palace the other day sporting frock coats, which have been in the sartorial discard for several years, St. James and Bond street and other bailiwicks of London's "better-dressed men" rubbed its eyes, wondered if "frocks" were again to be the thing, and hoped sincerely that they would not.

But the alarm seems to have been premature. The Tailor and Cutter, which is credited with knowing just how and when another quarter of an inch is to be added to a "claw-hammer" coat, and all other details pertaining to fastidious dress, says it is up to the first dress of Wales to date when "frocks" shall supersede the now popular cutaway morning coat.

"The time to talk of the frock coat coming into fashion again will be when the Prince of Wales and his brothers forsake the morning coat for it," says the organ of correct dress. "The frock coat has a stiffness of demeanor and a set squareness of line unfitted for youth. It has become indelibly associated with shop walkers, sky pilots and station masters. The morning coat possesses delightful contours; it has the line of beauty. The glorious sweep of the front suggests debonair grace and the joy of life."

Musical Taste Abroad

The guileless stay-at-home concertgoer is not to conclude that his French or English brother is more musical than himself. He isn't. The Parisian or the Londoner will applaud performers and performances that would ruin a manager's reputation in New York or Boston or Philadelphia or Chicago and cause the offending "artist" to be shot at sunrise by popular edict. He does not, apparently, know the difference between good singing, good violin or pianoplaying, and bad; nor is an orchestral performance for him a thing that is listened to with shrewd discrimination and an appraising ear and mind. But what he has, and has magnificently, to his endless honor, is aesthetic curiosity. He may not know how to estimate sensitively what he hears, but the point is that he wants to hear—or at least is willing to hear. And that is the beginning of wisdom.—[Lawrence Gilman in North American Review.

Soft Answer Provokes Wrath

The manager of the hat department saw one of the firm's most influential customers leaving the premises in great wrath.

Making inquiries the manager discovered that Spinkins had attended to the irate man's wants.

The manager hurried forward to inquire: "Why has Mr. Richbags left this department in such a fury?" he asked.

"I don't know," answered Spinkins.

"You must have annoyed him," continued the manager, "or he would not have walked out of the store like that."

"I didn't," asserted Spinkins. "He asked me what sort of hat would suit his head and I told him a soft one!"—[Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

THE CHINESE SCHOOLBOY

The Chinese schoolboy looks like a small edition of his august father in his cotton breeches and long gown reaching nearly to his feet. He makes a great deal of noise in pursuit of his education. Only boys are allowed in his school because girls must stay at home and help their mothers keep house. The Chinese teacher has the idea that a boy cannot be doing his duty by his books if he is not yelling out his lessons at the top of his lungs. —[Pathfinder.
